UMT in '45 Offered Bar To Cold War, Truman Says

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

President Truman said last night that if Congress had approved a universal training program for America's youth in 1945 or early in 1946, there "would have been no cold war."

But Congress, Mr. Truman said, decided at that time that he didn't know what he was talking about when he recommended the program.

The Chief Executive spoke at an Armed Forces Day banquet at the Statler, after Secretary of Defense Johnson had urged Congress to extend the Selective Service Act of 1948 so as to "encourage our friends" abroad who are in the shadow of "sprawling imperialism."

Mr. Truman, in emphasizing the need of strong armed forces, raised his hand and closed it.

"Certain people in the world," he said, "only understand the fist."

Peace Depends on Police

He remarked at another point that peace couldn't be maintained in Washington for 15 minutes if all the policemen were fired.

Mr. Truman recalled that in 1792, President Washington sent a message to Congress in which he said that every American owed a debt to the Republic, and that he should take a certain amount of training so that he could serve the Republic.

"The Congress at that time decided that General Washington didn't know what he was talking about," Mr. Truman said.

He then recalled how in October, 1945, he asked Congress for a universal training program. And this Congress, he added, decided that he didn't know what he was talking about.

"I'm saying to you," he told the assemblage, "that had we implemented that training program, there would have been no cold war.

Right Foundation in U. S.

"It has taken a long time for the people who are in authority behind the Iron Curtain to find out that this great Republic of ours is founded on the right foundation."

Mr. Truman, talking to an audience made up largely of fighting men, pointed out that as weapons have become more and more devastating, casualties in war have decreased on a proportionate basis. The greatest casualties, he said, occurred in the days of hand-to-hand fighting with the broad sword.

And speaking of the atomic bomb, he predicted that in the long run this was going to be "more important for the peace of the world than for its destruction."

"I hope," the Chief Executive

Switchmen Delay 10-Road Walkout Set for Tuesday

The AFL switchmen's union yesterday postponed until June 1 the strike it had called for next Tuesday on 10 Midwestern and Western railroads.

The postponement was at the request of the National Mediation Board. The board is trying to settle the dispute.

Chairman Francis A. O'Neill, jr., of the board said that mediation would start next Tuesday in Washington. He said President Arthur J. Glover of the union had authorized him to say that the strike would be delayed for another 10 days.

O'Neill said the union is asking for a 40-hour work week without loss in pay; for time and one half for Saturday work and double time for Sunday work. The work week now is 48 hours.

Maher Quits In Richitt Aftermath

DANIEL B. MAHER
. . . "With great reluctance"

By Richard Lyons
Post Reporter

A request to "tone down" a report on the Richitt affair figured in the surprise resignation of Daniel B. Maher, special assistant corporation counsel, The Washington Post learned yesterday.

Maher, who has been trouble shooter for District Commissioner John Russell Young for two and a half years, announced his resignation to reporters in the District building pressroom and released the text of a letter to Young. He asked Young to make the resignation effective June 15.

In his letter, Maher reminded Young he had tried to resign several times in recent months so he could join his law partners on a full-time basis. To reporters, he denied his resignation was caused by the Richitt affair.

Maher issued the following statement early today:

"No one has ever told me to tone down any report that I had for

West to Ease Its Occupation Of Austria

London, May 19 (AP).—Secretary of State Acheson today pledged the United States to spearhead a relentless fight for peace along the borders of the sprawling Communist world.

The United States also joined with Britain and France in moves toward lifting occupation controls in the western zones of Austria. The Big Three said there is apparently no hope for an immediate agreement with Russia on an Austrian independence treaty.

Pending such agreement they have decided to "lighten the burden of the occupation in Austria," a communique said. They will appoint civilian high commissioners to replace military governors. Western troops will remain.

Before sailing from Liverpool aboard the liner Britannic, Acheson promised continued support to Indo-China, Greece, Turkey, Iran and Germany in any struggle for freedom from aggression.

"Deep Interest in the U. S."

He said the work of the Atlantic Pact Council just completed "has been a positive influence for peace behind the North Atlantic area," and he added:

"This influence should be felt in increasing measure as the defense position of that (North Atlantic) area is progressively consolidated.

"Meanwhile, I wish to reaffirm the deep interest of the United States in the security of Greece, Turkey and Iran and our determination to continue our policy of supporting these and other countries which are striving through military and economic efforts to safeguard their independence and territorial integrity."

Meanwhile, support for the French steel-pool plan came from the West German Trade Union Federation in Duesseldorf. The federation, claiming five million

Cloture Fails In Senate's FEPC Battle

By a vote of 52 to 32 the Senate yesterday refused to choke off debate on a motion to take up the hotly-disputed Fair Employment Practice Commission bill.

The vote, 12 short of the necessary 64 to invoke cloture and halt the Southern filibuster—in effect blasted any hope that President Truman could obtain the key measure of his civil rights program this session. Fifty-two voted for cloture, 32 against it.

Backers of the key measure promised to try again, but there was little doubt, in reviewing the absentees, whose absence contributed to the Administration defeat, another try even with the full Senate membership present would be unsuccessful.

Discouraging, Lehman Says

Senator Lehman (D.-Lib., N. Y.), advocate of FEPC, called the result one of the most discouraging occurrences in his experience in public affairs.

The cloture move was not aimed at curbing debate on the bill itself, which never has formally been before the Senate. It was designed to shut off further talk on a motion by Democratic Leader Lucas (Ill.) to bring the measure up for consideration. Two weeks ago yesterday Lucas moved to call up the bill, and Southern opponents announced their intention of trying to talk it to death.

They were jubilant over the success of their strategy yesterday.

Senator Russell (D., Ga.), who served as floor leader for the Southerners and others opposed to FEPC and cloture, said May 19 should be "a day of rejoicing" for persons who sincerely believe in the right of petition and individual freedom and human liberty.

133 GOP Votes for Cloture

Republicans were quick to point out that a far larger proportion of their number voted for closing off the debate than among the Democrats.

The Republicans' score: For cloture, 33; against, 6.

Democrats: For, 19; against, 26.

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican floor leader, immediately claimed that the roll call demonstrated that his party ". . . the party of the great emancipator, Abraham Lincoln . . . is the only agency through which equal opportunity legislation can be accomplished."

Senator Taft (R., Ohio), said in a statement:

"There are a number of reasons why the cloture resolution failed on FEPC.

"1. The Democrats were only able to muster 19 votes or 35 percent of their 54 membership. Surely President Truman could have persuaded most of the 9 absentee Democrats to be present and some of the 26 adverse Democrats to support cloture. I have not seen the slightest pressure either from President Truman or the Democratic National Committee.

Vandenberg Given Ovation in Senate After Long Illness

NYHT News Service

An ovation from his colleagues, applause from spectators and a welcome by Vice President Alben W. Barkley greeted Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg yesterday when he entered the Senate for the first time since February 2. The Michigan Rebpulican has undergone five operations in two months. He is 66. Vice President Barkley, the presiding officer, voiced his "pleasure and happiness" at welcoming Vandenberg back.

'I know I speak for the entire Senate," Barkley said, "in hoping that Senator Vadenberg's health will improve continuously and eventually will be restored.'

The entire Senate rose and applauded and the galleries joined in. Vandenberg rose and bowed. He told his colleagues he feels "so-so" but is still "a long way from the firing line."

U. S. to Flex Defense Muscles On First Armed Forces Day

With a tremendous display of its military strength, the United States will flex its defense muscles today in observance of the first annual Armed Forces Day.

Three major events, and a number of minor ones, will mark the observance in and around Washington. They include a morning parade; an afternoon exposition at Bolling Air Force Base; and an evening celebration at the Washington Monument grounds. In addition, military installations in the Washington area will conduct open house with special displays and demonstrations.

Preparations have been made for more than a half-million persons to view the events. Metropolitan police have canceled all leaves and given special assignments to 600 men to protect and expedite the observance.

Armed Forces Day this year replaces the previous Army Day, Navy Day, and Air Force Day, which have been observed nationally for years. Units of all the military services are joining in the major events of the day, under the unification plan, with a motto "Teamed for Defense."

The parade will leave the Capitol grounds, at New Jersey and Independence aves. se., at 10 a. m. It will proceed along Constitution ave. with a reviewing stand in the

D. C. Budget Cut 6 Million In House Unit

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

A $112,850,340 District appropriation bill for the fiscal year starting July 1 was approved yesterday by the House Appropriations Committee.

It goes to the House for action Monday or Tuesday. It is $6,236,835 smaller than the committee proposed. Funds of nearly every agency were snipped by the committee, but the biggest cuts fell on the health ($423,800 cut), welfare ($568,800 cut), school ($820,400 cut), sewer (one million cut) and street and bridge agencies ($2,295,800 cut).

Funds were approved for a five-day week for firemen.

Third to Go For Schools

In the bill is money for a $13,957,975 program of public improvements, about a third of it for schools, plus authority for the Commissioners to contract for an additional $7,366,800 in public works to be financed by future appropriations. The cash includes $1,200,000 for building welfare institutions.

The bill represents the budget program worked out by the District appropriations subcommittee headed by Represetative Joe B. Bates (D., Ky.) House approval of it is likely without major change, but considerable alterations might be made in the Senate.

At the same time, the committee sent to the floor a deficiency bill that includes $6,638,400 for the balance of District pay increase costs for the current fiscal year, and $352,482.94 for other city deficiencies. The committee knocked out a $10,000 fund to set up an office of civil defense planning for the District on the ground that no enabling law has been passed. Other cuts totaled $272,150.

Representative Bates' report to the House explaining the District money bill said its intent is to provide "efficient and economical operation of the District government.

He said public improvements, mainly in schools and welfare institutions, are the "primary problem" of the District Government. He said one major purpose of cutting the bill was to provide a surplus so that construction work could go on at the rate needed in the fiscal year-after-next.

Following are main effects of the Bates' budget plan:

Schools

A $28,001,900 fund for District public schools is in the bill. This includes $23,355,900 for operating expenses, and $4,506,190 for capital outlay.

School building projects included in the bill are:

Bunker Hill Elementary 8-room addition, $270,000 in cash, plus contract authority covering the rest of the $552,500 project.

Davis Elementary 8-room addition $270,000 cash, and contract authority for the rest of the $366,000 project.

Keene Elementary 8-room addition, $270,000 cash, and contract authority for the rest of the $501,500 project.

River Terrace elementary 8-room building, $287,000.

Seaton Elementary, for planning a 16-room replacement, $10,000.

Francis Junior High addition, including gym and cafeteria, $200,000, with contract authority for the rest of the $323,000 project.

For Aid to States

House Authorizes One Billion, 2-Year Road Building Fund

By The Associated Press

The House yesterday approved, 246 to 34, a bill authorizing $1,140,000,000 in Federal highway aid to States over a two-year period.

All attempts to reduce the size of the authorization were batted down. The actual money must be appropriated later.

For each of the fiscal years ending June 30, 1952, and June 30, 1953, the bill authorizes these Federal expenditures:

225 million dollars for projects on the Federal-aid primary highway system; 150 million dollars for secondary highways; 125 million for urban areas and 70 million for a national system of interstate highways.

This is the first time Congress has specifically earmarked funds for interstate highways.

The bill provides for allotment of the funds to States, to match their own funds, on a population basis.

Funds provided for the District total $3,609,000 each for the fiscal years 1952 and 1953.

The measure, also continues authorizations for work in national forests, national parks and monuments, parkways, and roads in Indian reservations. These projects bring the two-year total to $1,273,000,000.

Representatives of American cities proposed to a Senate committee that Congress lend a hand with traffic problems by helping them build super roads on a pay-as-you-use instead of a pay-as-you-go basis.

What they proposed was that the parts of superhighways through cities be financed with money raised by bonds and with Federal aid highway funds used to help pay off the bonds.

The idea was put forward by City Manager L. P. Cookingham of Kansas City and Glen Richards, Detroit public works superintendent, both representing the American Municipal Association. They testified to a Senate Public Works subcommittee which is considering a bill to authorize an 828-million-dollar highway program.

Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) also testified briefly for the plan.

Richards said it would allow many cities to get badly needed highways now instead of dragging out construction for years.

Cookingham said the road problem has been shifting from rural to urban areas, that every city is being swamped with traffic, which has jumped 30 to 40 percent since the war.

Pay Threat Is Relieved By House Unit

By Jerry Kluttz
Post Reporter

The threat of payless paydays for thousands of Federal workers was eased yesterday when the House:

1. Approved an emergency resolution to allow Federal agencies to continue to spend money, and,

2. Received the final deficiency bill carrying salary funds from its appropriations committee.

A total of $71,796,352 was carried in the bill for a score of agencies to help pay the cost of last year's 15 different bills to increase the pay of Federal personnel. The committee reduced the amount asked by the White House by $2,106,099.

As matters now stand, every Federal agency has money to meet this months pay rolls and those for the early part of June. Many of them have postponed the paying of other bills to make the maximum amounts available to pay salaries.

The House will take up the deficiency bill Monday. If the Senate considers the bill promptly, few Federal workers would miss paydays. However, if the bill is delayed, many agencies will be "broke" by mid-June and payless paydays will again be a real possibility unless the Senate okays the House resolution in the meantime.

The Veterans' Administration is shy of funds to meet veteran pension payments due June 1. The bill provides $220,400,000 to pay pensions for the remainder of the 1950 fiscal year that ends June 30.

Also provided in the bill were millions of dollars for Federal

Senators Ask Full-Scale Probe On '3750' Deviates in Agencies

A resolution for a full-scale investigation of homosexuals and other moral perverts in Federal service was filed in the Senate late yesterday by Senator Lister Hill (D., Ala.).

It was introduced by unanimous order of the bipartisan 10-member District appropriations subcommittee headed by Hill. It grew out of a two-month preliminary survey by Hill and Senator Kenneth Wherry (R., Nebr.), Senate Republican floor leader. Wherry, as a member of the District Subcommittee, touched off the probe and suggested the opening move of calling in Washington police to say what they knew about perverts.

Portions of the police testimony given in a closed-door session of Hill's group March 23 was made public for the first time in separate reports which Hill and Wherry gave the District subcommittee. The subcommittee voted to make them public.

They featured an estimate by Lieut. Roy Blick, head of the Washington police vice squad, that there are 5000 homosexuals in the District, and that 75 percent of them, or a total of 3750, are in the Government service. The reports also quoted Blick as estimating between 300 and 400 homosexuals in the State Department—this was flatly denied last night by the State Department with the declaration that not a single pervert is employed there.

The previously secret testimony also quoted Sergt. James K. Hunter of the Metropolitan Police anti-subversive squad, as saying that there are 1000 dangerous security risks now in Washington.

Wherry's report said Hunter also showed him "what purported to be a plan of Communists to sabotage and damage the Capital of the United States in the event of war with Russia." The report gave no details of the plan. Hunter was quoted as saying quite a few perverts attended meetings of Communists and fellow travelers here.

Other figures given by Wherry included:

1. The Office of Naval Intelligence reported it has a file gathered over nine years of 7589 known or alleged homesexuals of whom 1740 were found in the Washington area.

2. Army intelligence officers reported they had accumulated since 1946 the names of 5000 persons in the Military District of Washington who are known or alleged homosexuals.

3. The Military District of Washington is reported weeding per-

Senate Votes For Maritime Revision Plan

The Senate, which has killed five of President Truman's reorganization plans, yesterday approved by an overwhelming 59 to 14 vote his proposal to place the semi-independent Maritime Commission in the Commerce Department.

Thirty-seven Democrats and 22 Republicans voted for the plan, with five Democrats and nine Republicans opposing it. The vote fell 35 short of the 49 needed to kill a reorganization proposal.

Unless vetoed by the House, a three-man Federal Maritime Board would be established within the Commerce Department to take over the functions of the present commission. A special Undersecretary of Commerce would be appointed for liaison between the board and the Secretary of Commerce.

Critics of the proposal contended that it would give the Commerce Secretary power to dole out subsidies to steamship lines at his discretion. Senator Owen Brewster (R., Me.), said the "very existence" of the shipping industry hinged on its defeat.

Sen. Warren Magnuson (D., Wash.), who led the fight for it, said it would help stop the "alarming decline" in American shipping.

After the vote, Chairman Edwin C. Johnson (D., Colo.), of the Senate Commerce Committee, won unanimous consent for a vote at 2:30 p. m., Monday, on his resolution to veto Mr. Truman's plan for reorganizing the Federal Trade Commission.

Johnson said he also will call up a resolution to veto a similar proposal affecting the Federal Power Commission.

Sen. Alexander Wiley (R., Wis.) said he will ask the Senate to vote Monday on a plan to reorganize the Commerce Department.

Briton, Whose Flight With Son Failed, Faces Contempt Charge

The roof fell in yesterday on the head of William T. Curtis, 32-year-old former British Army captain who, last Sunday, attempted to take his 4½-year-old son to England.

Judge William D. Medley, in Arlington County Court, signed a series of orders on application of John Paul Jones, attorney for Mrs. Dorothy Snell Curtis, the wife, who is suing her husband for divorce. The orders:

1. Give "sole and absolute" custody of the boy, Henry, to Mrs. Curtis for 30 days. A previous court order in the divorce case let Curtis have custody every Sunday from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m. It was during that period last Sunday that Curtis flew the boy to Montreal in an attempt to reach England. Mrs. Curtis and her father, George Snell, 25 Poplar ave., Takoma Park, followed and retrieved the boy, bringing him back here.

2. Restrain Curtis from seeing the child, removing him from Arlington County, annoying, threatening, or molesting the child or the mother in any way.

3. Require Curtis to appear at 10 a. m. next Friday to show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court for alleged violation of the previous custody order which permitted him only the 2 to 5 p. m. Sunday visit-

4 Are Dead, 150 Injured; Emergency Is Declared

Hospitals Filled, Ambulances, Fire Apparatus Race To Stricken City

South Amboy, N. J., May 19 (U.P.).—Four munitions barges blew up with the force of wartime blockbusters tonight, injuring scores of persons, shattering windows for miles, knocking out a power plant and crippling communications in this waterfront town of 8000.

Mayor John D. Leonard said at least four persons were dead. Estimates of injured ranged from 150 to 300. One hospital alone treated more than 125 persons.

City Councilman William E. O'Leary, in charge of the fire department, said there were 300 known injured.

Perth Amboy General Hospital treated more than 125 persons, 27 hurt seriously. O'Leary said 40 men were reported to have been on the barge at the time of the blast. There was no word of their fate.

Reporter Jack Lewis of the New Brunswick Home News said the streets were full of cut and bleeding survivors.

"I saw one headless body lying in a field," he said.

Lights, Telephones Out

Telephone lines were blown out. Two hours after the blast only emergency calls could be put through. Lights were out. Rescue and relief operations were being carried out by flashlight and by lantern.

Rain was falling, slowing disaster service work.

Two more barges were expected to blow up at any moment and city and State authorities were attempting to evacuate the town. One hundred pieces of fire equipment were standing by.

The ammunition—including dynamite and shells—was being loaded for export by the Isbrandtsen Lines, whose ships have been fired upon by Chinese Nationalists while attempting to run the blockade into Communist-held China.

The blast rocked the town at 7:28 o'clock tonight, at the height of the heavy Friday night shopping.

"It was like one of those Bikini blasts," sad John Delaney, former Mayor of Perth Amboy. "A low rumble and then a terrific mushroom of exploding gases."

G. H. Perry, an official of the Pennsylvania Railroad, on whose pier the blast took place, said the whole waterfront area was levelled. Coal dumpers were wrecked. Railroad cars were smashed and knocked from the tracks.

Damage to Pennsylvania Railroad property, he said, amounted to more than five million dollars.

O'Leary said every house in South Amboy was damaged. Some were wrenched from their foundations. In others, the glass was

Postal Cuts Started in Area Offices

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

Reduced delivery service and office hours have been instituted in Greater Washington area postoffices in conformity with the Postmaster General's economy order.

Arlington County residential routes are receiving one mail a day and pickups from boxes have been cut from four to three a day. windows now close at 5:30 p. m. in branch postoffices on weekdays and noon on Saturdays. In the main office the 10 p. m. closing hour for weekdays and Saturdays has been set at 6 p. m.

Alexandria will be on a single delivery basis in residential areas by June 1 and window service follows the Arlington branch and main office pattern. Nine temporary employes have been dropped.

Falls Church residential routes are now on a one-day basis and windows close at 6 p. m. instead of 7. Four employes have been furloughed.

In Maryland the principal postoffice of Prince Georges County—Hyattsville—has reduced window service from 7:30 a. m. to 7 p. m. to a new one of 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. Single deliveries in residential areas began this week. Six temporary carriers have been laid off.

Montgomery County has a split situation. Rockville and Gaithersburg are continuing two-a-day delivery to residential areas pending completion of a survey, while Silver Spring is on a one-a-day basis. Silver Spring office hours are 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. and several temporary employes have been let go.

The Chevy Chase, Takoma Park and Bethesda offices are operated as branches of the Washington Postoffice and will follow the one-a-day residential delivery policy. Window service will close at 5:30 p. m. on weekdays and noon on Saturdays.

The Washington system will drop 81 temporary clerks and transfer 125 carriers to clerical jobs, Assistant Postmaster W. Gordon Bell explained yesterday, clarifying comments by Postmaster Roy M. North on the personnel reductions.

Bell said 165 substitute carriers and 294 substitute clerks will work an average of only 30 hours a week instead of the usual 40 because of the economy program. No permanent emloyes will be affected, he said.

He said less than 10 complaints have been received on the service reduction, mainly from small businesses located in residential areas. These will receive one delivery a day, while business sections will continue with two.

Bell said clerks favor the program since they receive daytime assignments, instead of night work, and carriers like the shorter working day. He said mailmen will walk only 5½ miles a day under the new arrangement instead of nine miles under the two-a-day delivery system.

By The Associated Press

The outlook for a slash in excise and other taxes dimmed yesterday as the House Ways and Means Committee again tempted a presidential veto and Senator George (D., Ga.) warned that time for tax action is running out fast.

Militating against tax action, George said, is the legislative log-jam piling up in the Senate.

Pushing aside President Truman's recommendations, the House committee yesterday approved new tax cuts—this time about $10 million for coal and metallurgical limestone producers.

This action came right behind Thursday's flat committee rejection of the President's proposal for $200 million additional taxes on oil, gas, sulphur and non-metallic minerals operators.

Meanwhile, George, who is chairman of the tax-framing Senate Finance Committee, said Congress must remain in session until the end of August if it is to complete action on tax legislation.

Most legislators want to get out of town much sooner than that, to campaign for November's election.

George pointed out that the tax bill still is before the House Ways and Means Committee and that before it gets to the White House, the House must debate and approve it, the Senate Finance Committee must hold detailed hearings, the Senate act, and then the two Houses must agree on a compromise version of the bills they pass.

Empasizing the logjam of legislation in the Senate, the Georgian pointed out that it includes the 29-billion-dollar "one package" appropriation bill, social security expansion, and foreign aid legislation.

Mr. Truman has promised to veto the tax bill if it fails to make up the revenue loss from excise cuts by larger collections in other directions. He suggested increased levies on corporations, inheritances and big gifts, and plugging of tax law loopholes.

He called for 655 million dollars in excise reductions. The Ways and Means Committee has approved slashes totaling $1,080,000,000, affecting furs, jewelry, luggage, toilet preparations, movies, travel tickets, and many other items.

Thursday it refused to plug what the President called the biggest loophole. It turned down his proposal to reduce the depletion allowances for oil, gas, sulphur and non-metallic minerals operators. Such allowances are used for reductions of taxable income, to take into account the capital impairment in industries that take irreplacable products from the earth.

Previously, the tax-framing group turned thumbs down on the Administration proposal for 400 million dollar additional taxes on inheritances and large gifts.

Thus far it has been able to find new sources of revenue totaling only about 350 million dollars. A large amount of this would come, if the committee's ideas prevail, from a 10 percent withholding tax on corporation dividend payments to prevent tax-dodging in this field, and from a reduction from 6 percent to 2 percent in the interest rate paid persons and corporations that overpay their income taxes.

Food Prices in District Slide To Lowest Since July, 1947

Lower prices for milk, eggs, meat and coffee sent April 15 retail food prices in Washington down to their lowest level since July, 1947, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported yesterday.

Between March 15 and April 15 prices dropped two-tenths of 1 percent. During the same period average big city food prices went up three-tenths of 1 percent.

The drop here was due to a larger-than-usual slide in milk and eggs, and an unusual drop for March-April, in meat prices. Dairy prices declined 3 percent. Grocery milk went down 3 percent and home delivered milk 5 percent as the result of the area-wide reduction of 1 cent a quart.

Egs went down 4.4 percent—and for the fourth month were lower than any time between June, 1946, and January, 1950. Coffee prices dropped 1.7 percent.

The Washington retail food price index stood at 193.3 on April 15. This was 3.4 percent below a year ago, 33 percent higher than in June, 1946, and 105 percent above August, 1939.

For the Nation as a whole the food index stood at 196.6 . The consumers' price index, for all goods and services, was 167.3, which was 1.4 percent under a year ago, but 25 percent higher than in June, 1946, when OPA was stopped.

Cloture Motion to Bring Up FEPC Measure Fails in Senate by 12 Votes

tee such as that brought on various recent measures.

"2. Senator Lucas chose to bring up the FEPC bill, the most controversial of all civil rights measures, rather than the antipoll tax or antilynching measures.

"3. Senator Lucas did not bring up the bill at the beginning of the session, the best time to defeat a filibuster. He brought up the oleo bill, the Kerr bill and many other matters of relative unimportance. He brought up this bill in the midst of many primary elections concerning sitting Senators, at a time when 21 reorganization plans had to be disposed of by May 23, and when many vital measures are pressing for attention."

Lucas had complained that the present cloture bill, requiring the votes of two thirds of all the Senators to shut off debate on a motion, had been fastened on the Senate "by coalition of Republicans and Southerners," led by Wherry.

The rule is the result of a hot Senate fight last year over proposals to change the Senate's method of procedure. Prior to that fight, it had been decided that there was no way under the Senate rules to limit debate on a motion.

Wherry took the lead in putting across the two-thirds rule as a compromise. Lucas declared it would not work to limit debate, while Wherry claimed it would if enough Democrats went along with Republicans.

Yesterday was the first test of the revised procedure.

The bill would set up a permanent Federal commission and instruct it to prevent discrimination in the hiring, firing and promotion of workers on account of color, race, religion or national origin. The commission would be empowered to go to the Federal courts to enforce its decisions.

Twelve members of the Senate were absent yesterday on the decision vote. All 12 of them would have to support a cloture move on a second go-around if debate were to be limited. And one of the absentees—Senator Withers (D., Ky.)—was formally announced as opposing application of the rule.

Thus Russell confidently claimed 33 votes, an absolute block against any chance of the other side getting two thirds of the total, even if all Senators were present and voting.

Twenty of the 22 Democratic members from the Old South opposed the debate limit, with only Senator Graham of North Carolina and Pepper of Florida absent and with their positions unannounced. The Southerners were joined by six Democrats from Western and border States, and half a dozen Republicans—Bridges of New Hampshire, Ecton of Montana, Gurney and Mundt of South Dakota, Malone of Nevada, and Young of North Dakota.

Where 12 Senators Were

The Associated Press reported that of the 12 Senators who did not vote, only one—Senator Tydings (D., Md.)—was in town. Members of Tydings' office staff said they did not know why he was absent from the session.

The AP located the other 11 thus:

Senator Chavez (D., N. Mex.), who is in his home State campaigning.

Senator Murray (D., Mont.). Mrs. Murray died this week and the Senator has taken her body to Montana for burial.

Senator Frear (D., Del.). He is in Utah on Senate Banking Committee business.

Senator Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.). He is campaigning in his home State.

Senator Langer (R., N. Dak.), who has gone home on personal business.

Senator Morse (R., Oreg.). Oregon's primary was being held yesterday and Morse, seeking renomination, is there for it.

Senator Withers (D., Ky.). He had an engagement to make a commencement address in Kentucky.

Senator Millikin (R., Colo.). He has been in Colorado all week to fill a number of speaking engagements.

Senator Downey (D., Calif.). Ill and out of town.

Senator Graham (D., N. C.). Ill and out of town.

Senator Pepper (D., Fla.). Resting in Florida after the primary campaign in which he lost his bid for the Democratic renomination.

In the flurry of Senate speeches after the test, Senator Russell (D., Ga.) called columnist Drew Pearson a "liar" for writing that Southern Democrats had made "a deal with Republicans" to defeat cloture.

Russell said Pearson is "the Prince of Liars" and a "skunk." He recalled that President Truman once referred to Pearson as "an S.O.B."

"This is not the first time I've been accused of making a deal with Republicans," Russell said, adding that Pearson knew this charge was "utterly without basis and without foundation."

Senator Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) said Pearson's story was "fantastically untrue." He told the Senate Pearson had written that he (Hickenlooper) was to vote against cloture under the "deal." As a matter of fact, Hickenlooper said, he had always been for cloture and had made a special trip here from Iowa to vote for it.

Hickenlooper pointed out that he had written a letter several days ago asking to have his name added to the petition for cloture. Lucas verified this fact. Pearson had said that some of those named might make "a last minute" switch, and the Iowa Senator was pointing out that his was not a switch at the last minute.

Senator Taft said in a statement he had "urged every Republican to vote for cloture on the FEPC publicly and privately." As for Pearson's column, Taft said: "The whole story is an unmitigated lie."

Pearson subsequently issued this statement: "It is significant that although Senator Taft denied my story that he made a deal to deliver six Republican votes to the Southern Democrats against FEPC, exactly six Republican votes turned up on the Southern Democratic side. The actions of these six Republicans speak louder than Senator Taft's words."

Truman to Stay Away From Dinner for Ross

By The Associated Press

President Truman has decided not to attend a luncheon honoring his press secretary, Charles G. Ross, because he's afraid he might take some of the glory away from his aide.

C. H. Schooley, president of the Washington chapter of the University of Missouri Alumni Association, disclosed this yesterday after he and a delegation called at the White House and invited Mr. Truman to the testimonial affair next Thursday.

Schooley said the President told them he would send a message, but that it was "Charley's show" and he thought he should stay away.

U.S. Court Upholds Treason Conviction

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday refused to upset the treason conviction of Mildred E. (Axis Sally) Gillars.

Answering a defense argument that treason may not be committed by words, the court held:

"While the crime is not committed by mere expressions of opinion or criticism, words spoken as part of a program of propaganda warfare, in the course of employment by the enemy in its conduct of war against the United States . . . may be an integral part of the crime . . .

"The first amendment does not protect one from accountability of words as such. It depends upon their use. It protects the free expression of thought and belief as a part of the liberty of the individual as a human personality.

"But words which . . . constitute acts in furtherance of the program of an enemy to which the speaker adheres and to which he gives aid with intent to betray his own country, are not rid of criminal character merely because they are words . . ."

Miss Gillars was convicted March 10, 1949, of one of the eight alleged overt acts of treason stemming from propaganda broadcasts she made from Germany during the war.

She is now serving a 10-30 year sentence imposed along with a $10,000 fine by District Judge Edward M. Curran.

The Appellate Court negated a contention that Judge Curran erred in jury instructions regarding an oath of allegiance to Germany allegedly taken by Miss Gillars.

The defense had sought to show that Miss Gillars had signed a paper in the nature of such an oath, in effect dissolving her American citizenship and making her exempt from treason charges, since only citizens may be so charged.

New Appeal

It is about this point that an appeal to the Supreme Court will be centered, Attorney William E. Owen said yesterday. Owen is associated with Attorney James J. Laughlin as Miss Gillars' counsel.

Owen said that a petition for a writ of certiorari (assurance that the highest court will hear the case) will be filed with the Supreme Court next week.

The Appellate Court's opinion was written by Circuit Judge Charles Fahy and concurred in by Circuit Judges Bennett Champ Clark and Wilbur K. Miller.

Contacts Sought

FBI Agents In London to Quiz Fuchs

J. Edgar Hoover disclosed yesterday that two FBI men have gone to London to question Dr. Klaus Fuchs, British scientist, convicted of passing atomic secrets to Russia.

Hoover, Chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said in response to an inquiry:

"Assistant FBI Director U. H. Clegg and Special Agent Robert J. Lampher have arrived in London for the purpose of interviewing Dr. Fuchs."

Hoover declined to expand on that statement.

It is known, however, that the FBI has been anxious to question Fuchs. Presumably, it has been concerned chiefly about possible contacts in the United States.

Fuchs was a frequent visitor to this country in the war and postwar days and the FBI cooperated with the British intelligence service in breaking the case leading to his conviction. Fuchs is serving a 14-year sentence.

Presumably, Fuchs has agreed to questioning by the FBI men. During a Parliament debate this week, Home Secretary Chuter Ede said Fuchs would be questioned by American agents, only if Fuchs was agreeable.

Peppino Garibaldi, 74, Dies in Rome Hospital

Rome, May 19 (AP).—Gen. Peppino Garibaldi, 74, grandson of Italy's soldier-hero Giuseppe Garibaldi, died today in a Rome hospital.

He was born in Melbourne, Australia. He fought in the Boer war and in Mexico and Venezuela. In World War I, he commanded the Garibaldi Legion in the Argonne.

He spent much of his life in America. In World War II he was jailed by the Fascists.

Released Airmen Welcomed Home

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

AFTER 18 MONTHS—A rousing welcome was given two U. S. airmen as they set foot for the first time in 18 months on the U. S. mainland following their release by Chinese Communists. As they stepped from a special Marine plane at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station, Long Beach, Calif., Navy Chief Electrician's Mate William C. Smith (left) was greeted by his wife and two sons, Michael, 3, and Patrick, 17 months and Marine Sergt. Elmer C. Bender made plans to fly to Glenview, Ill., naval air station to greet his wife, Shirley. A cheering crowd of about 200 naval officers and civilian and service well-wishers gave them a tumultuous ovation. The State Department yesterday "rapped" their captors members, called the plan "one step on the road to unity" and said German trade unions are "fully in favor of an economic and political union of Europe as soon as possible."

In Vienna, government officials greeted the decision to appoint civilian high commissioners as "a welcome and sincere indication that the Western Powers want to increase Austria's sovereignty."

But they indicated the London pledge to lighten occupation burden leaves something to be desired. Said one official:

"Unless France and Great Britain agree to pay their own way here, as the United States is doing, the new policy will not mean any great reduction in the economic burden which the occupation imposes on Austria."

First official Austrian reaction came in a communique expressing the thanks of Foreign Minister Karl Gruber.

Officials welcomed the decision to appoint civilian commissioners as "the next best thing that could happen. The best thing would be an Austrian treaty, but we have just about given up all hope of that."

Top government sources said they had not been told when the change-over from a military administration will be made, or the identity of the civilian commissioners, who will serve also as the countries' diplomatic representatives. Western sources said the change will take place about July 1.

Small Russian Vessels Seen Near British Maneuver Area

London, May 19 (U.P.).—A Russian armada of small vessels has appeared off the south coast of Britain where Western Union naval forces are massing for maneuvers, it was reported tonight.

British authorities said about 20 vessels were spotted on radar screens 40 miles from the Portland naval base. It has believed others sailed down the French side of the English Channel, out of sight of the British coast.

A naval spokesman said the vessels had a right to sail in those areas, but called their presence "a little extraordinary." He said Russian vessels sailing from the Baltic to the Atlantic had not used the channel for years. Britain recalled Russian vessels were reported near Caribbean maneuvers two months ago when 80,000 men tested secret naval weapons.

One watcher commented:

"This is no ordinary group of fishing vessels. They are well-found ships, in first-class shape. No fishing vessels ever kept precise formation like this. They look like minesweepers. The crews have big, powerful binoculars."

A naval officer last night boarded one and was told they were en route from the Baltic to the Black Sea. The Russians requested permission to shelter in Christchurch Bay, but they did not put into port. Instead they steamed off into the mist in precise formation.

U. S., Britain Cut Red Travel In Germany

Frankfurt, Germany, May 19 (AP). The United States and Britain today clamped sharp restrictions on the movements of Soviet military mission in western Germany.

The restrictions were in reprisal for withdrawal of free travel passes from the American and British missions at Potsdam in the Russian zone.

American Army officials said United States mission members now are allowed to travel only between their homes and offices. A British army spokesman said members of the British mission are restricted to the use of the Potsdam-Berlin highway.

The eye-for-an-eye British-American order restricts members of the Soviet military mission in Frankfurt to travel between their homes and offices, while the Russian mission in the British zone will be confined to the route between Bad Salzuflen, where it is stationed, and Helmstedt, main border crossing into the Soviet zone.

Strict enforcement of the American order would amount to virtual house arrest of the Russians in Frankfurt, because both their homes and offices are in the same small compound.

Survey Shows Ex-Nazis Hold Half of Civil Jobs in U. S. Zone

Frankfurt, Germany, May 19 (AP). Former Nazis are filling about half the jobs of state officials and civil servants in the American Zone of Germany and their number is constantly increasing, a survey showed today.

The survey, taken from official German sources, disclosed that the number of onetime Nazi officials drifting back to public employment has jumped greatly in the past six months.

Most American authorities say this is "unsatisfactory" but insist it does not necessarily mean a resurgence of nazism.

That is about the view taken by Benjamin J. Buttenwieser, assistant American High Commissioner in Germany, in a speech today before the Foreign Policy Association in New York. He held that despite the fact that more former Nazis are holding jobs in Germany, nazism as a political doctrine has "been destroyed, never to rise again."

An American official here who has spent four years observing the Nazis said that he did not believe there is an organized movement to plant former active Nazis in key positions. Rather, he said, it is a question of putting into jobs people considered by the Germans capable of doing the work well.

He suggested that the more important question is what type of Nazi is being employed. He said the law permits only reemployment of Germans who are "followers" or "lesser offenders" and who have paid their mild penalties in Denazification Courts and are now restored to full civil rights.

Defense Chiefs Call For Greater Security

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

America must adopt a "bold program" for greater national security to meet the threat of a Russian atomic attack within a "few years."

It must include strengthening our defenses, continuing aid to western Europe and adoption now of mobilization plans—including standby war emergency powers for the President.

That was the vital theme of a series of addresses made throughout the Nation yesterday by top defense chiefs, among them Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

There was little in the round of speeches preceding the observance of Armed Services Day today to indicate a lessening of cold war tension, and much indicating that our military chiefs fear it is getting hotter.

What Do We Do?

"In a few years," said Bradley in San Francisco, "we and our friends may have to face the reality of Russian atomic strength. Although they may not have the same number of atomic bombs as we will have in our stockpile, they will probably have enough to deliver devastating blow at any area they propose to strike."

What do we do about it, asked Bradley.

As the Nation's top military man, he advised:

1. "We must prepare our defenses so that no attack on the United States will cripple this arsenal of the Western World."

This means, among other things, "mobilization plans which can be put into effect at the first warning signal of an emergency." Initially, "this includes legislation to give emergency powers to the President" which "encompasses our entire civilian economy."

2. "We must prepare, together with our friends in the North Atlantic Pact, to make Europe reasonably secure from being overrun quickly on the ground.

3. "We must encourage every nation outside of the iron shroud of communism to be strong, to resist and to survive.

4. "We must let those nations now under the heel of Soviet-inspired Peoples' Governments know that we will welcome them when they are unchained.

"We can implement this program," Bradley said, "with increased production, conduct it with total diplomacy, and back it up with adequate armed forces. In this way, our defense plans can be part of our strategy for a lasting peace.

"We can disrupt and break up the Soviet design. We can create order out of disorder. We can deny the influence of Communist slavery."

Air Force Too Weak

Speaking in Detroit, Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, USAF Chief of Staff, declared the Air Force today is too weak to continue an all-out air war more than a few months.

Heavy air fighting, he said, would use up our present line craft within a short period, and the aircraft industry now cannot quickly replace them.

"It is a matter of simple arithmetic that at least two years would be required for our present aircraft industry to rebuild our present air force and to enable it to continue combat action," declared the USAF chief.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Chief of Staff of the Army, said in Cleveland war only can be averted if "we Americans continue to support the European Recovery Program, the Atlantic Pact, the Mutual Defense Assistance program and the strengthening of our own armed forces."

"Although there seems to be very little brightness in our national security picture," he added, "and although at times my optimism is dampened, I am still of the opinon that we can prevent war."

Serious Threat

Admiral Richard L. Conolly, Commander in Chief of the United States Navy forces in the Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean, said in a statement issued at his London headquarters that "an extremely serious threat" faces the world's democracies.

And Admiral Jonas H. Ingram, retired Atlantic Fleet commander, said in Indianapolis that war is inevitable within two and a half years "the way we're going now."

Admiral Ingram said the Nation needs "a bipartisan State Department with the best fellows in it possible and a foreign policy the whole world and Stalin would respect."

Reform the United Nations without Russia and her satellites? No, said Ingram. "We can't bring about world peace if we can't have Russia across the conference table from us," he declared.

Armed Forces On Display

rear of the White House where President Truman and other dignitaries will receive the salutes of the marchers. It will disband in the vicinity of 17th st. and Constitution ave. Metropolitan police estimated yesterday that the 10,000 troops, other marchers, and vehicles, will take two hours to pass the reviewing stand.

The Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines, and Coast Guard will join in a double attraction at Bolling Air Force Base.

It will include a moving show with spectacular demonstrations by all of the forces on the ground, in the water, and in the air, from noon to 6 p. m. Admission is free and extensive parking facilities have been provided. In addition a showing of exhibits of activities of the Armed Forces, ranging from intricate displays of technical developments to manufacture of bread and ice cream, will occupy several acres of buildings.

Because inspection of the ground displays will occupy at least eight hours, Department of Defense authorities announced last night that they will be kept open through Sunday. The moving exhibition will not continue Sunday.

Details of Armed Forces Day are:

Parade:

Starts at 10 a. m., from New Jersey and Independence aves. se., through Capitol Plaza, along Constitution ave., to 17th st.; 10,000 members of Armed Forces, veterans, patriotic, civic, Boy Scouts, high school cadets, and other units in line, including 20 bands.

Bolling Air Force Base:

Active program starts at noon with ground buzz bomb demonstration. After that, diesel-electric locomotive demonstration; drill teams; jet and other planes; vehicle obstacle demonstration; howitzer and firepower show; amphibious display; Marine attack by helicopter; chemical warfare; flame throwing by tank; Army engineer heavy equipment; tanks; torpedo attack; Coast Guard air-sea rescue; aircraft carrier landing demonstration; fire fighting; and several dozen others.

Static program includes displays of all the Armed Forces in hangars with personnel on hand to explain all the exhibits.

Bolling Air Force Base will be open to the public from 9:30 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Evening program:

Robert Young, star of movies and radio, will headline a singing and dancing show at the Mounment grounds, sponsored by the National Capital Sesquicentennial Commission as a salute to the Armed Forces. The program will last two hours and will include performers from opera, musical comedy and the concert stage, and will end with a fireworks display.

Other events:

Open house will be held by nearly a dozen military establishments in and around Washington. They are, with the open house hours: Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.; Naval Research Laboratory, Bellevue, 9 a. m. to 3 p. m.; David Taylor Model Basin, Carderock, Md., 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.; Naval Observatory, 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Also, Naval Proving Ground, Dahlgren, Va., 12:30 p. m. to 5 p. m.; Naval Torpedo Testing Range, Piney Point, Md., 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.; Naval Powder Factory, Indian Head, Md., 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.; Marine Corps School, Quantico, Va., 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.; Naval Air Testing Center, Patuxent River, Md., 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., and the Army Medical Museum, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

said in conclusion, "that from this time forward, we will be approaching a better settlement of the misunderstandings in the world, and that when he finally wind up we will have peace in the world."

He said he hoped that wouldn't be too long in the future.

Precedes Armed Forces Day

The banquet came on the eve of the first Armed Forces Day, a day for honoring all of the men and women who wear the Nation's uniform. Secretary Johnson evoked much laughter in telling of his difficulties in bringing about one such day instead of a day for each of the services.

The Defense Department chief recalled that President Truman was a pioneer in urging a unification of the armed forces, and quoted from a magazine article he wrote as Senator Truman in 1944 calling for unification.

Secretary Johnson said that two world wars had demonstrated that in a prolonged conflict America's production, skill and organization make her hard to beat.

"What we need therefore," he said, "is a sufficiency of defense of such formidability as to convince a possible aggressor that we also cannot be beaten quickly on a hit and run basis."

Four Reasons for Draft

He said there were four good reasons for extending the Selective Service Act of 1948, which is due to expire next year.

"The most compelling," he said, "is the psychological one, the need to encourage our friends. The shadow of sprawling imperialism creeps dangerously close to their borders. With one hand it beckons them toward a perfect classless society without conflict, with all the land divided, and all the wealth shared. With the other hand it raises a threatening club with which to beat its neighbors into submission. It takes courage and fortitude for these nations to retain poise and to remain calm under such pressure."

An extension of the draft act, whether it is needed or not to fill the ranks, Secretary Johnson said, would be a reminder that Americans are conscious of their duty and will remain true to their obligations.

Banker Gets 4 Years In Faked Burglary

Indianapolis, May 19 (AP).—A small-town banker who faked a burglary to cover up his theft of $21,799 today received a four-year Federal prison term.

Kenneth W. Boldt, 46, former cashier of the Milltown First National Bank in southern Indiana, broke into tears as Judge William E. Stecker pronounced sentence.

Boldt told Judge Steckler of his separate efforts to clear debts of more than $49,000. His 500-acre farm has been sold, Boldt related, and all debts paid and restitution made to the bank.

Symington Warns of War Unless U. S. Remains Strong

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

The new chairman of the National Security Resources Board yesterday made a speech strongly indicating that he is operating on the assumption that a war is coming.

Addressing the progressive businessmen's organization, the Committee for Economic Development, W. Stuart Symington, talked in terms of what kind of planning and mobilization was "essential to any future victory," and of what measures have to be taken because "an attack may now come" with almost no warning.

An afternoon paper headlined its story on Symington's speech with a phrase indicating he felt war was "near." The NSRB chief, shown the headline, promptly replied that that idea "was not what I was trying to present."

"What I was stressing," he explained, "was the importance of remaining strong so that we can prevent war."

Speech Believed Ominous

Nevertheless, many of Symington's listeners thought the speech had a tone more ominous than that.

First he argued that in these days it was impossible to tell when a cold war ended and a hot one started. He pointed to wars in Spain and Manchuria a few years ago, fought without any declaration of hostilities.

And today, he went on, "already we are being warred against, not only with the new weapons of propaganda, espionage, subversion and sabotage, but also with shooting when the latter is considered necessary.

"Accordingly, I would be hesitant about measuring the temperature of this struggle. If ten brave Navy fliers were alive today, there would be nothing 'cold' to them about what is going on."

Symington was referring to the crew of the Navy plane which the United States charges was shot down recently near Latvia by Russian fighters.

"Because an attack may come now," he said, "with a warning measured in hours instead of years, emergency controls in the future may well have to be more extensive than in the past."

Those controls may have to extend to "directed work"—Government control of labor—Symington warned, because manpower may be the greatest shortage. Furthermore, he said, there must be controls to take the "unusual profits" out of war—those that come from the unusual conditions of war.

Those controls can be imposed, and the Nation can accept them without losing its basic freedoms, Symington argued.

He said the most important knowledge necessary for proper coordination of civilian, industrial and military elements of the society was knowledge of "what kind of war we are to fight."

"It is just as important for the Government to know what the military services will need many months after this country is attacked as it is to know what is needed to fight off an attack," Symington declared, "because the very next morning the civilian economy must start building equipment on the basis of previously-planned schedules, equipment which will be needed many months ahead."

Nothing is more important now, he said, than to be ready. "If we are not ready, this Nation might never even have the chance to retaliate . . . If we are strong we may prevent a war, and even if we can't prevent it, we will win.

"If we are weak, however, not only will there be a war, but we will lose it, and thereupon suffer extermination or slavery."

Symington's speech was made as the CED concluded its two-day, semiannual trustees meeting.

War Contract Fraud Cases Put at 549

By the United Press

United States Comptroller General Lindsay C. Warren told Congress yesterday he will ask the Justice Department to prosecute at least 549 war contract settlement cases involving outright fraud and overpayments.

Describing the situation as "unparalleled and unprecedented," he said an audit by his office—Congress' watchdog over Federal spending—shows that:

1. The Government has lost at least 25 million dollars through fraud and overpayments in settling World War II contracts and that is only a "sampling." A full check might show losses on which "I would not hazard a guess."

2. Fraud was involved in one out of every 20 contract settlements.

3. One out of every 13 settlements contained improper and excessive payments which may or may not have involved fraud.

4. The Justice Department has indicated it may bring criminal as well as civil action against the persons involved.

Warren submitted his sixth and final report to Congress on a post-war survey of contracts totaling billions of dollars. He had warned before of the prevalence of fraud but this time he used much stronger language.

He blamed the situation on the 1944 War Contracts Settlements Act which allowed Federal contracting agencies to make their own audits and "pump out of the Treasury such amounts as they approved." He recommended it be repealed to "weed out a source of waste."

Regardless of this, he said, his audit indicated "the law standards prevalent among some officers and employes of the Government and of certain war contractors."

He reported the Justice Department thus far has recovered $200,000 and that his office has collected "voluntary refunds" of $493,061.

By the United Press

Eugene M. Foster, Army finance chief, acknowledged yesterday that an "abnormally large" number of Communists were employed at the Army's St. Louis finance center compared to the total number of Reds in the country.

But he told a House Armed Service Subcommittee he did not know exactly how many worked at the big disbursement office, nor how many may have been fired. He said he would "have to look that up."

The subcommittee is investigating charges the center was infiltrated by Communists and that millions of dollars in Government funds, notably checks for servicemen's families, were mismanaged. After hearing Foster, it recessed until Monday when it will decide what, if any, action it should take.

Assistant Secretary of the Army Karl R. Bendetsen testified that the Army began investigating the center's personnel in September, 1947, and completed the inquiry in the spring of 1948. He said nine workers were fired as bad security risks.

Subcommittee Chairman Paul J. Kilday (D., Tex.) and Representative Charles H. Elston (R., Ohio) questioned Foster about alleged attempts to steal uncashed checks made out to veterans' dependents.

The subcommittee has received evidence from Sally Dewey, a former inspection at the center, that a woman employe tried to walk off with 700 checks. She said she reported the incident to her superiors but that nothing was done about it.

The General Accounting Office has said that checks which were unclaimed and returned to the center were not properly guarded.

Foster said the Army tried in every way to protect the checks against theft, but found it impossible to safeguard them while they were in the mails or being transferred from mailbags to office files.

Kilday asked Foster whether he knew of any attempts to "get away" with checks, presumably referring to the incident reported by Miss Dewey.

Foster said he was told of one such incident and that it was handled by the Inspector General's Office.

Bendetsen reiterated that no fraud was involved in overpayments of $157 million on servicemen's claims.

2d Meeting Called for Civil Defense Group

A second meeting of the District's Temporary Committee on Civil Defense has been called Monday to ask for information for immediate creation of an emergency civil deense plan.

At its first meeting in March the committee, consisting of key officials from the District government, utilities, hospitals, etc., was asked to prepare reports that could be used to set up a civil defense plan for the District. It was expected to take a considerable time.

Assistant Engineer Commissioner Thomas J. Hayes 3d said the National Security Resources Board has asked that an interim plan be drawn that could be used if needed while the permanent plan is being prepared. The meeting will be at 2 p. m. in the District Building board room, Hayes said.

Hayes said steps already have been taken here to set up one phase of a civil program—an aircraft observation and warning system.

Walter E. Murphy, 3212 M st. se., a World War II air raid warden, has been named supervisor of the observation post to be established in the District, Hayes stated. Murphy will select a post, probably in a high spot near Fort Dupont Park, and choose a staff of about 20 persons, Hayes said. In addition, Hayes said, a telephone connected to a central operations center will soon be installed in an undisclosed police precinct station to give warning of possible air raids.

verts out of the service at the rate of one every six days.

Wherry said the military agencies are more alert to the need of removing perverts from Government employment than are other agencies.

He said testimony gave one "fleeting reference to a trail of homosexuals leading to a foreign embassy in Washington."

Hill and Wherry presented their reports in a closed door meeting of the District appropriations subcommittee yesterday afternoon. Later Hill reported to the Senate that the vote of the subcommittee was unanimous for the resolution to have an appropriate committee of the Senate make the complete investigation of homosexuals and moral perverts.

A decision may be made Monday on what committee will get the resolution. Hill favors having it go to the Executive Expenditures Committee. Wherry suggested the Judiciary Committee. A third possibility is the Civil Service Committee.

Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R., Wis.) promptly indorsed the proposed investigation, saying that removing perverts from Government would deal a serious blow to Communist espionage.

In denying that the State Department has any perverts in its employ, Press Officer Lincoln White said:

"As a result of previous and current investigations into all charges of such a nature, the (State) Department can categorically state that to the best of its knowledge there is no such person on its rolls.

"If the Department knew of any such person in its employ, that person would be summarily dismissed.

"The department learned some time ago that such a figure (between 300 and 400) had been mentioned to the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee. The Department immediately asked Lieutenant Blick of the D. C. Vice Squad for the names of any persons in the Department against whom he had any evidence of homosexuality.

"No such names have been furnished to the department."

O'Mahoney Asked Resolution

Hill announced to the Senate that the motion for the investigating resolution was made by Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.).

Hill said O'Mahoney's motion cited two major inadequacies to justify the probe. It declared evidence given the District subcommittee by Hill and Wherry "clearly indicates" that present laws and procedures are inadequate for the investigation and punishment of perverted suxual practices in the District. The motion said the same inadequacy applies to employment of homosexuals and other moral perverts in Government.

Wherry's report also declared that Blick had told him on May 11: "Nearly every one of the agencies of the Government have had their men down to see me since your investigation began. From what I can learn and by my own personal observation, between 90 and 100 moral perverts have recently resigned while under investigation."

Wherry said if that many resignations had been caused since March by the threat of an investigation there is urgent need to carry through the full-fledged probe.

Lack of Cooperation Charged

Wherry said that since the District subcommittee started in March, "there has been increased activity on the part of Government agencies, including the Atomic Energy Commission, to take off their payrolls alleged moral perverts considered susceptible of blackmail for security secrets."

Wherry said, however, that some agencies are not cooperating with the police department.

Wherry's report turned up an account of a sharp row he had over the phone with Chairman Mitchell of the Civil Service Commission about the latter's delay in answering a letter by the Senate asking for information.

When Mitchell did write, he reported that at one point 13 persons were back in Government jobs out of 91 forced in the past three years to resign from State Department jobs. John E. Peurifoy, Deputy Undersecretary of State, had reported the 91 resignations in a hearing February 28.

4 Pct. Believed Homosexuals

Both Hill and Wherry quoted a letter by Dr. R. H. Felix, director of the National Institute of Mental Health, said that there is no reliable data for estimating the number of homosexuals but that some studies indicate that "perhaps as many as 4 percent of the white adult males in the country as a whole are confirmed homosexuals."

Dr. Felix said he had been unable to find any evidence indicating homosexuality was more prevalent in the District than in other sections.

Senator Hill's report said "it is accepted and agreed that persons who are homosexuals are bad security risks and should not be in sensitive positions or in any positions in the Government where they might in any way aid or abet or be a party to subversive activity."

He said representatives of the Defense Department reported "that within their experience the number of homosexuals in Washington in proportion to population was no greater than in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and other cities."

British Abolish Point Rationing, Ease Other Curbs

London, May 19 (U.P.).—The Labor government tonight abolished its 10-year-old point-rationing system, increased the meat ration slightly and authorized farmers to sell thick cream on rural markets.

There were persistent rumors all meat rationing may be abolished soon. The government tonight increased the ration from 20 cents to 22 cents worth a week, a rise made possible by issuance of twepence worth of canned corned meat each week.

End of point rationing permits the housewife to buy all the rice, canned fruits, tinned fish, cereal, canned vegetables, mincemeat and similar items she wants. Some items will remain on ration. The ration of tea will be cut from 2½ ounces to 2 ounces a week a person.

Earlier today, the government won a test of strength in the Commons by defeating 187 to 141, a Conservative member's attempt to increase or abandon gasoline rationing.

25 Ericksen Aides Sought in Inquiry

New York, May 19 (NYHT)—Twenty-five of Frank Erickson's employes were being sought tonight by District Attorney Frank S. Hogan.

Most of them disappeared on May 2, when detective led by acting Capt. William J. Grafeneeker raided Erickson's office and filled a truck with the big-time bookie's records, which went before a grand jury today.

Among those wanted is Bert Briggs, one of Erickson's ten partners in running the Colonial Inn, Hallendale, Fla., a gambling joint which netted the combine $685,538.76 in a twelve-morth period ending October 31, 1946. Briggs had a 5 per cent interest in the place, as did Erickson. Briggs's last address was Miami Beach, Fla.

All this information was contained in Erickson's own records, which were put into evidence before Judge John A. Mullen in General Sessions on Wednesday and Thursday. Judge Mullen ruled that all documents dealing with gambling could go before the grand jury.

The others sought and the yearly salaries they received, according to Erickson papers before the grand jury, are:

John Allen, Brooklyn, $3,800; Sam Aste, Queens, $1,500; William F. Beck, East Orange, N. J., $3,880 in 1948; Mortimer Braun, in 1946 he lived in Queens, $1,800 in 1946; Louis A. Cantor, New York, $3,120 in 1948; Harry Charal, Brooklyn, $5,660 in 1948; William Cheetheam, Franklin Square, Long Island, $3,381; Louis Di Sciscio, lived in Brooklyn, in 1948, $3,620 in 1948; Louis Feldman, lived in New York in 1948, $2,470 in 1948; William H. Fernbacher, Oradell, N. J., $4,150 (he was reported missing last week); Edward J. Jerrie, lived in Queens in 1948, $2,015; David Kadofsky, Bronx, $4,436; Albert Klauser, Ridgefield, N. J., $3,370; William Koch, New York, $2,600; Clarence C. Lennon, Cliffside Park, N. J., $5,784.80; Alexander Levy, the Bronx, $7,686.50; Joseph Levy, New York, $7,566.60; Louis Levy, New York, $4,883.60; Saul H. Lindenbaum, Brooklyn, $4,633.66; Louis W. Maul, Brooklyn, $3,000; Sol Singer, New York, $4,534.80; Thomas Robinson Smith, Malverne, L. I., $4,686; Frank Strader, Cliffside Park, N. J., $2,015; William J. Sullivan, Queens in 1948, $1,525.

It is expected that when these persons are found they will be held as material witnesses in the grand jury investigation of Erickson.

Henry J. Pellino, Erickson's accountant, is out in $50,000 bail as a material witness, while Harry Richards, a convicted bookmaker and "dummy" for Erickson, is being held in jail in lieu of $100,000 bail. Erickson put up the bond for his accountant a week ago, a few hours after Pellino surrendered to Alfred J. Scotti and Vincent A. G. O'Connor, assistant district attorneys.

8 State Legal Aides Back Crime Probe

Chicago, May 19 (AP).—Attorneys General from eight Midwestern States today indorsed pending congresional anti-gambling legislation. They also offered to cooperate with a special Senate committee named to investigate organized crime.

The resolutions were adopted at a one-day meeting. It was one of a series of regional meetings sponsored by the National Attorneys General Group, affiliated with the Council of State Governments.

Bills to ban interstate transportation of gambling devices and certain interstate movement of horse racing information were indorsed by seven of the eight State officers.

Attorney General Emmett McManamon of Indiana did not vote on that resolution.

McManamon joined the others in approving a resolution offering to cooperate with the special Senate investigating committee headed by Senator Kefauver (D., Tenn.).

The meeting was called by Attorney General Robert L. Larson of Iowa, chairman of the Midwestern Attorneys General Group.

Others attending were Attorneys General Clarence S. Beck of Nebraska, J. A. A. Burnquist of Minnesota, Ivan A. Elliott of Illinois, Harold R. Fatzer of Kansas, Wallace B. Warner of North Dakota, and Assistant Attorney General Klatz of Wisconsin.

Two Bail Out Of Jet Plane

West Chester, Pa., May 19 (AP).—An Air Force jet plane crashed and exploded last night after the pilot and his passenger had parachuted to safety in a heavy rainstorm.

The pilot, Maj. Richard H. Burnor, 31, of 818 Railroad ave., Falls Church, Va., escaped without injury. His passenger, Second Lieut. C. H. Crescibene, 23, sustained a cut lip.

The two-seater jet fighter training plane crashed near Lionville, Pa., about 7 miles from where the two fliers came to earth. The wreckage was scattered over a mile area of farming country.

Major Burnor said he and Lieutenant Crescibene were flying from Indianapolis to Andrews Field, Md., when they ran into bad weather.

The two bailed out at about 8000 feet, landing close together near a highway. Three cars passed them by before a fourth motorist stopped and took them to the Mansion House at West Chester. Lieutenant Crescibene was treated at Chester County Hospital and then the two continued on to Washington.

Dog Strolls Into Admiral's Life

By Bob Burchette—The Washington Post

ANOTHER IGLOO!—Admiral Richard E. Byrd, famed Arctic explorer, is wondering today if the famed "Igloo Saga" is going to be repeated. It was just 26 years ago that a puppy followed the admiral down a Washington street to be adopted and carried to the North and South Poles. Wednesday night a puppy that could be Igloo II attached himself to the famed admiral on a downtown street. The admiral hopes the owner will call for the little, friendly, white, male puppy

Tavern Holdup By Five Thugs Nets $2169

Five methodical gunmen broke into the Tick Tock Tavern near the University of Maryland early yesterday and took $2169 while holding two men at bay.

Walter (Jimmy) Longcope, 45, proprietor of the night spot at Riggs rd. and University la., said he was awakened about 4 a. m. by the barking of his thoroughbred Boxer, Lemur of Avenel.

Switching on the light in sleeping quarters at the rear of the establishment, he said he felt "something hard" against his back. Turning, he faced a gunman who ordered him to lie face down on his bed, he said.

Almost immediately, another armed man escorted Longcope's 79-year-old father-in-law, William Sigismund, from another bedroom and forced him to lie alongside the proprietor.

Longcope said he told the intruders he didn't have the combination to the safe, but they knocked the dial off in an unsuccessful attempt to open it.

Then, one of the five was unable to open the cash register with Longcope's keys. The proprietor was ordered to open it himself. The machine would not work because the gunmen had cut electric wires leading to it, Longcope said. Again, the robbers resorted to strength and pried open the drawer with a bar. All they found were the keys to slot machines

At this point, the proprietor said he was ordered to tell in what drawer of a filing case he kept the "banking money." From the drawer, the bandits took $1870. The remainder of the haul came from Longcope's and Sigismund's wallets.

Prince Georges County Detective Richard A. Pearson, who investigated, said the men entered through a window.

Two Sentenced For District Knife Killings

Two men convicted on manslaughter charges in connection with fatal cuttigs, were sentenced to jail in District Court yesterday.

Willie L. James, 36, of 933 O st. nw., was ordered to serve 2½ to 7½ years by Judge Burnita Shelton Matthews. He had been found guilty of the knife slaying of Floyd L. Turner, 34, of Stanley, Va., during a sidewalk fight in the 1100 block of 7th st. nw. on February 22.

David Rogers, jr., 27, of 7 New York ave. nw., was sentenced to 5 to 15 years by Judge James R. Kirkland for the fatal cutting of Charles Linton, 27, of 1637 Vermont ave. nw., during a fight in the 600 block of T st. nw. on March 11.

Ishmael H. Chase, 34, of 85 Fenton ct. nw., was sentenced to serve three to nine years by Judge Jennings Bailey for breaking into a home with intent to steal property.

Judge Alexander Holtzoff gave Rosemary Whitlow, 25, of 1416 9th st. nw. (rear), a suspended sentence of 30 to 90 days and placed her on two years' probation on charges of operating a lottery and possession of numbers slips. The same charges were dismissed against Bross Whitlow, 40, of the 9th st. address.

Jury Acquits Son Who Slew Dad, Hid Body

Pontiac, Mich., May 19 (U.P.).—A strapping Marine sergeant was found innocent today of slaying his father, whose death was concealed by members of the family for two years.

An all-parent jury of 11 women and 1 man deliberated four hours before returning the verdict which freed 27-year-old Carson James, who testified that he shot his father in self-defense. He was arrested originally on a tip provided by his sister, a Washington, D. C., area school teacher.

The jury believed Carson's account of how he carried a gun to a conference with his father on Thanksgiving Day, 1947, only because he feared the violent rages of the older man.

The Marine said he killed Stanley James, 54, when his life was threatened after he accused the father of intimacy with Carson James' wife.

Then, with the help of his brothers, Carson James buried his father in the muck of a cowshed at the family home.

The sergeant, his mother and six brothers and sisters vowed to keep the killing secret.

The pact was broken last December when the strain proved too much for James' sister, Mrs. Muriel Hockersmith, 26, of 1847 Mintwood pl. nw., a teacher at the Clara Barton School in Cabin John, Md.

Mrs. Hockersmith's report to the police, made "because of fear and conscience," was the first tip Michigan police received in the case. Several other members of the family subsequently confirmed her story of the slaying.

Carson said of his father during the Circuit Court trial, "We never had any feeling for him. He was a beast and he beat mother and the kids all the time." Mrs. Hockersmith at the time she told the police said she "hated" her father."

Mrs. Hockersmith said that she had known of the manner of her father's death since Christmas, 1947,, when Garson told her of shooting him, and also "told me that he'd shut me up if I said anything" about the slaying.

Trade Board Indorses Higher Police Salaries

Increased salary scales for Montgomery County policemen to match those of the Washington Metropolitan Force are urged in a resolution by the Silver Spring Board of Trade and forwarded to the Montgomery County Council.

The trade body also opposes recent enforcement of a police manual provision barring policemen from holding part-time jobs.

U. N. Social Club's Defense Motion for Verdict Is Denied

District Court Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut yesterday denied a defense motion for a directed verdict in the trial through which the Government is trying to dissolve the charter of the United Nations Social Club, 1132 18th st. nw.

He denied the motion after Assistant United States Attorney Ross O'Donoghue argued that the after-hours spot was a fraud, which had employed deliberate misrepresentation when it first obtained its charter.

Earlier in the trial, Detective Sergt. Paul Clarke of the robbery squad, testified that prior to February, 1948, he had seen evidence of gambling at the club. The Government also introduced a picture, showing the club's alleged library, which contained only about 25 books, including the works of Honore de Balzac and the American Racing Manual.

The trial will resume Monday at 10 a. m. The club is not connected with the United Nations Club, 1701 19th st. nw.

Capital Planning

It takes a lot of temerity to question the artistic value of a Florentine facade on a Government building, but the Washington Chapter of the American Institute of Architects has done so with considerable effectiveness. In a new study, Of Plans and People, the architects assume the role of social critics. They deplore the staidness and stagnation of planning in Washington, but they do a lot more. They call for an open, decentralized Capital which would make use of new building and redevelopment techniques to make Washington a more impressive symbol of the Nation's best.

Specifically the architects criticize the failure to take advantage of fresh and original trends in architecture and land use such as are found in other capitals. In objecting to the fettering of Federal planning to the past, they assert with some validity that by the time the l'Enfant plan was revived after years of unregulated growth, it was too late to exert a great influence on the present pattern of the city. Particularly they deplore the concentration of most Federal buildings in a small area around the Mall.

What can be done? The key to the architects' suggestion is better use of land. This means decentralization, with new Federal buildings and residence communities spread in rings around the central area—a trend which, with appropriate highways, would help solve the parking problem. They call for more flexible zoning, so as not to perpetuate bad patterns, and for planning units where new housing will not lead to "the endless and dreary repetition of badly designed houses." We have considerable sympathy with the critics, for the monotonous lines of row houses and unimaginative cracker boxes that have been springing up threaten to become future blighted areas.

With respect to redevelopment, the study suggests not mere slum clearance and replacement, but a bold new land use pattern controlled by lease and with land acquisition not "contingent upon approval of the redevelopment plan by anyone." In light of the recent difficulties of the Redevelopment Land Agency, this recommendation appears a little visionary, and, indeed, perhaps a futile hope until Washington has home rule. The study also seems to overlook the fact that successful planning depends upon the understanding of the people concerned.

Most of the suggestions are long-range guides rather than immediately practicable measures, though some reflect existing projects of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. However, one suggestion —the creation of a representative Metropolitan Washington Planning Commission to set an over-all area pattern—has immediate merit and ought to be pushed more emphatically. The architects deserve thanks for enabling Washingtonians to see their city as professional planners see it.

Argentine Gamble

The 125-million-dollar Export-Import Bank loan to Argentina is frankly a gamble —a gamble that Argentina, relieved of financial pressure, will take her place as a responsible member of the Western Hemisphere community. It is the result of the Argentine overtures toward cooperation during and following the visit of Assistant Secretary of State Miller. The loan has been called appeasement, but there is no illusion about it; it is recognition that the hemisphere has suffered from the United States-Argentine feud. So stanch a democrat and opponent of the Peron regime as President Gonzalez Videla of Chile is reported to have concurred in the loan out of a feeling that Chile and other countries will benefit from better United States-Argentine relations.

From Argentina's standpoint the advantages are obvious: with the loan she can fund her commercial debts and resume trade with this country, which is almost at a standstill as a result of her spree of economic hijacking. The prospect of 75 million dollars more in private loans means that she will be able to buy badly needed machinery, especially farm machinery. To the United States the loan will mean the settlement of debts to American companies along with the resurrection of an important export market. From present indications it also involves commitments for fair treatment of foreign investment, and perhaps treaties on trade and taxation.

The United States has a right to expect a good deal more, and, since it omitted (mistakenly, we think) to get more, it should continue to press Argentina. Perhaps the most scandalous example of Argentine flouting of international commitments is her failure to ratify the Rio defense treaty—a failure which she is reported to have agreed privately to rectify. Similarly there is a right to insist that she stop being a troublemaker among her neighbors. Finally, there is good reason to hope that she will relax her suppression of civil liberties, particularly the muzzling of the press. These are points on which continual needling is required and in which the United States now has a vested interest.

Rent Control

By delaying action on rent control legislation Congress has greatly strengthened the case for its extension. For the present Federal rent control law expires June 30, and some form of local control is still needed in many parts of the country. Local control can only be obtained, in the absence of Federal rent control, by calling special sessions of State Legislatures to act on proposals to substitute State systems of control. By the time the fate of Federal rent control is decided, it will be too late for the States to take the necessary steps to protect communities where acute housing shortages still exist from excessive increases in rentals.

Of course, the States should have been prepared to assume responsibility for rent regulation in anticipation of the abolition of Federal control. As The Washington Post stated last February, housing shortages have become a local problem that should be the responsibility of State and local governments rather than the Federal Government. Unfortunately most of the States have fallen down on the job—no doubt in the belief that the Federal system of controls would be extended. For only New York and Wisconsin have substituted State rent control for Federal control. Four States, however, have entirely removed controls by action of their Legislatures and in two other States all controls have been lifted either by local option or by the Federal Housing Expediter.

As a result of this deplorable inaction immediate abolition of Federal rent control would create serious hardship in many decontrolled areas in which housing vacancies were far below what it considered a normal average. In Chicago, Detroit, Boston and Pittsburgh, to take only a few examples, the rental vacancy rate is only a half of 1 percent or less. In other words, there is practically no vacant accommodation available for tenants. Other large industrial cities are in similar plight.

In these circumstances we conclude that the rent control bill just approved by the House Banking Committee meets the needs of a critical transition period by affording protection against rent gouging to those communities that would be left defenseless by the immediate abolition of Federal rent control. This bill would extend control for another year, but only in those cities and other localities that voted to retain it. If they failed to take affirmative action, either by local referendum or legislative action, controls would be removed at the end of 1950. In addition, the authority of city governments to remove local controls at any time would be retained, while whole States could be decontrolled by their Legislatures as under the existing law.

Legislation of this kind would emphasize the local nature of the problem of rent control and in effect serve as a warning to States and municipalities that the end of Federal rent control is in sight. They would be given time to prepare for its abolishment and meanwhile they would be compelled to decide whether they wanted and needed such control for another full year.

Planes For Troops

As the Nation observes the first unified Armed Forces Day, the military establishment can point to an impressive current example of growing teamwork. If the implications of the new Air Force order on tactical aviation are what they appear to be, this is the most important internal development since the all-out emphasis on the B-36 bomber. What the order says in effect is that the Air Force henceforth will place heavy stress on tactical support of the Army and increased joint airborne maneuvers spaced throughout the year. At the same time, as the result of experience in the planning of recent maneuvers, the Tactical Air Command will regain its importance with the return to it of fighter-bomber and troop-carrier operations.

The new venture is, of course, cooperative, requiring changes in Army as well as Air Force training. It looks to a better means of liaison to explore common needs and train cadres of both services in working together. Undoubtedly the shift is designed in part to meet the criticism of ground force commanders, particularly Gen. Jacob L. Devers and lately Gen. Mark Clark, that air support of ground operations has been neglected. It also partially realizes one of the recommendations derived from the recent Operation Swarmer, whose commander, Lieut. Gen. Lauris Norstad, called for major elements of a joint airborne task force to be established permanently.

In its present stage, at least, the shift does not require additional planes. Budget limitations prevent increasing the number of air groups, and besides, current Army combat strength is not such as to necessitate large diversion of planes. Possibly, however, the order signifies a change in the type of planes to be purchased in the future. (In this connection some observers would like to see more stress on jet transports as well as fighter-bombers.) The change in emphasis need not mean any underplaying of the legitimate role of strategic bombing; what it amounts to is long-needed recognition that the Air Force has other essential functions, a major one of which is to cover the ground forces. American strategy is predicated on the defense of western Europe, and the major threat there is the Red Army. If American troops ever are committed, close air support may hold the balance.

Concurrently with this change, General Norstad has been named acting vice chief of staff of the Air Force to succeed the late Gen. Muir S. Fairchild. This is just recognition for a brilliant officer. Despite his youth, General Norstad has come to be looked upon as one of the best strategists in the Air Force. Although he lacks field command experience, his service in Washington has been valuable, and the fact that he was chosen for increased responsibility indicates that he will be counted upon for future top leadership in the Air Force.

Fighting Back

It was not to be expected that Senator McCarthy would accept the State Department's new rebuttal of his charges, but that rebuttal is likely to carry a lot of weight with reasonable men. The summary sent to newspaper editors by Assistant Secretary Barrett scored factually on numerous McCarthy misstatements. He had denied saying, for example, that there were 205 Communists in the State Department; but radio transcriptions show he had. Similarly Senator McCarthy charged that Prof. Owen Lattimore had been on an American mission to Afghanistan; actually it was a United Nations mission and he had been selected by the United Nations.

Even more important than the righting of the record in this and other instances is the fact that the State Department is hitting back in self-defense after the example set last month by Secretary Acheson. It is high time. For the McCarthy attempts to make the department a pariah could easily result both in the paralysis of foreign policy and in an establishment manned by timid second-raters. As Counselor George Kennan pointed out in a too little noticed speech in Milwaukee on May 5, "The margin of safety with which our country moves in the world today is not great enough to permit us to be reckless and wasteful with the talents and the idealism of those people we depend on for the generalship of our peacetime battles."

> . . . The responsibilities borne by these men who have to conduct foreign policy in this country are neither light nor easy, and . . . the sort of service which they are rendering to the Government has few personal compensations. We are not rich . . . in men both qualified and available to take these positions. The strains under which these officials work leave them a very slender margin of physical and spiritual energy to absorb abuse and derision from the people for whom they conceive themselves to be working . . . The atmosphere of public life in Washington does not have to deteriorate much further to produce a situation in which very few of our more quiet and sensitive and gifted people will be able to continue in Government.

From Paris to Rio de Janeiro reports are coming in that the solidarity of American influence in the cold war is being drastically undermined by the efforts to find a scapegoat for past events. The snipers who encourage division at this crucial time are not only guilty of failure to understand the nature of the cold war, they are proving to be the best friends the Kremlin has.

Prisoner Slaves

Although the Russians have announced that their repatriation of war prisoners is now completed, the Germans and Japanese claim that great numbers of their nationals, civilian as well as military, remain unaccounted for. The situation deserves the investigation promised the other day by the three Foreign Ministers meeting in London. How successfully such an investigation can be pressed remains, of course, to be seen. The iron curtain is peculiarly impenetrable with respect to the slave labor camps believed to be in operation within the Soviet Union. The missing prisoners of war may still be in these camps in considerable numbers; they may also have been liquidated or have died through neglect and overwork or because they could not survive the terrible physical conditions of the life imposed on them.

The number of Japanese prisoners whom the Russians have failed to repatriate or account for is put at 370,000 by the American member of the Allied Council for Japan. The number of Germans has been set as high as 1,500,000 by the German government—in all probability a greatly inflated figure. It seems to have been arrived at by lumping together all the men missing after the titanic struggle on the Eastern Front; many may have been killed in action or have died subsequently as a result of wounds and exposure. The Times of London estimates, on the basis of evidence from prisoners who returned to Germany from Russia, that there are at least 200,000 and possibly 300,000 Germans now alive in Soviet prison camps.

To whatever extent these claims are true —and it is impossible, despite Russian denials, to dismiss them as groundless—they reflect a shocking debasement of civilized values. For what the Soviet prison camps must be said to represent four years after the end of the war is a reinstitutionalization of human slavery. And this is slavery in its most cynical form, lacking even the rationalizations applied to it by antebellum American plantation owners in the South. This is a reversion to an ancient barbarism under which enslavement of the conquered was taken as a matter of course. As long ago as 1910, the Encyclopedia Britannica could say authoritatively in its article on slavery that "the last vestiges . . . of modern colonial slavery are disappearing from all civilized states and their foreign possessions." It could scarcely say the same today, alas.

"Going To Jerusalem"

There are close to one million sick, starving and shelterless Arab refugees who are living under indescribable conditions in countries to which they have fled as a result of the Holy Land war. These refugees not only pose a humanitarian problem but provide a fertile field for Communist indoctrination in a most strategic area. As such they constitute a threat to the security of the United States.

When Mrs. Mark Ethridge returns from a stay in the Holy Land and presents a picture of this suffering and misery in her book, Going to Jerusalem, your reviewer, in the issue of May 14, labels the writer "wide-eyed" and accuses her of giving a "distorted, if different, view of the situation." While your columns have continually carried story after story setting forth the "humanitarian" side of the Zionist position, there has been a strange paucity of coverage of the Palestinian Arab tragedy. In this day when the individual is afraid to stand up and say what he believes to be the truth lest he be counted amongst the few, it is a strange spectacle to see the "liberal" Washington Post leading the way toward mass conformity.

We trust that the misquotation in the review was a typographical error. Mrs. Ethridge did not quote her husband as saying, "Arabs are not like whites and neither are the Jews." What appears on page 46 of the book is "The Arabs are not lily white and neither are the Jews. It is a confused complex situation." When your editors come to realize just how complex this problem is, perhaps then your readers, if it is not too late, can expect to get a little of both sides presented.

Editor's Note: Yes, it was a typographical error. As for "the strange paucity of coverage of the Palestinian Arab tragedy," we have backed the efforts first of Mr. Stanton Griffis and then of Mr. Gordon Clapp to help the Palestinian Arabs. Both gentlemen kept us personally informed of the plight of these unfortunates. Our last of half a dozen editorials on the subject appeared only three weeks before we received this communication. We then commented on the United Jewish Appeal, winding up, "It would express a feeling of realism as well as charity if the United Jewish Appeal included support of the [Palestine Arab] scheme before Congress in its present campaign." For this appeal The Washington Post received a letter of thanks from the author of the scheme, Mr. Gordon Clapp, and that letter is in strange contrast to this unwarranted insinuation.

Houdek's Resignation

The appeal to President Truman by Vladimir Houdek, Czech delegate to the United Nations, for asylum in the United States is another example of how impudent one can be—and his attempt to impress this country with his sudden decision to sever all ties with the Communists is an insult to the intelligence of the American Government.

I only hope that his request arouses proper response and that his case will be handled quite separately from appeals of other Czechs and Slovaks—those who have risked their lives escaping the Communist curse—those who left the comfortable diplomatic chairs not because the boat was sailing for Europe but because they could not and would not serve the present clique of Prague and because they have never forgotten the spirit of Masaryk's Czechoslovakia.

McCarthy's Effect

Once more Senator McCarthy, the Communists' greatest asset in Washington, is using his time-worn phrase in respect to his charges of Reds in the State Department, this time referring to a State Department denial that an American envoy was and is a contact man for Russia: "I can do it (prove it) and I will do it at the proper time."

When does the Senator think the proper time is? Doesn't he realize that it is today, and that if he has any revelations he should make them, instead of stalling? I believe he does, but since he cannot offer a shred of proof to sustain his accusations, he is stalling—because November is not far off and if these accusations are still fresh in the minds of the voters the Republicans figure they will garner a few seats in Congress at the expense of the Democrats.

"Wrong Economy"

Your editorial of May 13 on the wild and reckless slashes to the Federal budget which the House was voting is fine.

And why, oh, why, do not the same economy-minded Congressmen consider the wasteful and extravagant method of investigating and reinvestigating every employe who transfers from one agency to another without consulting previous records? State doesn't accept the records of the Air Force; Air Force doesn't accept the records of Navy, and I have been told Treasury has an entirely independent system of investigating—accepts no one's records and no one has access to their records. The Civil Service Commission is bogged down with "investigating," and some people who are on sensitive jobs have no idea whether anyone is working on their records or whether they have been "cleared."

Now about the soft jobs and loafers in the Government. There are a few loafers, of course, but most people I know work harder than "executives" in big businesses.

Government pay rolls are spent in Washington and other towns and go into the pockets of businessmen. Government purchases of materials and supplies contribute to good business and so do personal expenditures of employes. Isn't it about time some of our Congressmen study conditions as they are and take a few courses in economics?

Reasons For Statehood

In arguing against statehood for Alaska and Hawaii in a letter published May 16, "Observer" makes a case which at first reading might to the uninitiated appear to have elements of strength but which, like all other presentations against statehood, will not bear careful scrutiny.

The letter quoted Rear Admiral Wood (retired), as voicing the belief that statehood would be of no consideration in defense. It should be noted that Admiral Wood served rather briefly in Alaska during wartime; his appearance before the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs was at the request of the Alaska salmon industry, traditional foe of Alaska statehood. Admiral Wood's testimony was directly contrary to that presented by Lieut. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, commander in chief of the Alaskan Command.

If "Observer" is correct in his contention that "either Alaska or Hawaii can be more effectively defended without the intervention of a State government," it necessarily follows the same statement could be made with reference to Oregon, Washington, California or any other State.

Your correspondent is concerned about the "low taxable status" of most whites, Indians and Eskimos in Alaska and he fears the additional burden of a State government would be more than they could bear. But is that not, after all, the problem of the people who would be taxed to pay for the government? If "Observer" would care to inquire more closely he would discover that Alaska's gross annual product is tremendously great for its relatively small population, and the average income level—if it means anything—is notably high.

Although the letter up to that point concerned itself with objecting to Alaska and Hawaii statehood, it is suddenly discovered to be bemoaning the fact that Puerto Rico will be sending two Senators to Washington. There is a difference. A big one. Puerto Rico is an unincorporated Territory. Hawaii and Alaska are incorporated and as such are integral parts of the Union; Puerto Rico has never asked for statehood.

A student of history would be amazed to learn that "While the framers of the Constitution did provide for the admission of new States, their eyes were on that contiguous and readily assimilable territory that is now part of our Union of States." Although we surely can and do credit those men with being possessed with almost prophetic vision, it is somewhat difficult to believe that when they drew the Constitution they foresaw the Union of 48 States we now have, no more and no less.

I should think that every Alaskan, whether he is for or against statehood, would reflect my feeling of resentment on reading that, "Never for a moment did they (the framers of the Constitution) contemplate admission to statehood of distant people with alien background, to help govern them." The citizens of the United States in Alaska of Caucasian ancestry have either moved to the Territory from the several States (license plates from 37 different States were noted in one Alaska community during one week this spring) or were born there. As for the Indians, Eskimos, and Aleuts, patriotic citizens all, they have a better claim to being real Americans than the rest of us.

The contention that both Alaska and Hawaii have self-government sufficient for their needs is arrogant, irresponsible and incorrect. The objection that your correspondent makes to voting representation in the Congress for these States-to-be constitutes an objection in reverse for Alaskans and Hawaiians. They have heard somewhere, somehow, that it is not forever just for people living on soil formally made part of this Union to be subject to laws in the making of which they have had no part.

E. L. BARTLETT,
Delegate from Alaska.

On Being An "American"

By Malvina Lindsay

Testimony Meeting

THE ORATOR for the observance of "I Am An American Day" began abruptly:

"I will not take your time," he said, "to do what everybody is doing—Americanizing the other fellow. Instead I will ask two of the new American citizens in whose honor this observance is being held to tell you what being an American means to them." He motioned to a sensitive-faced, foreign looking man to take his place on the platform.

"I am a new type of new American," began the man in almost perfect English, "or perhaps an older type revived. There are many of my kind. There will be more. We have not come to America seeking new natural resources to exploit, or safe banks in which to cache our money. We have not come for adventure or to get rich. We have come primarily in search of a sanctuary promising us no concentration camps of the mind.

"We are from the professional, educated groups of Europe. Most of us have known what occupation by totalitarian forces means. Many of us have known persecution and great bereavement. Few among us who have not brushed with nazism or communism and seen human dignity and freedom violated.

"We know what Europe has meant to civilization in terms of human self-expression. We don't want that to be lost. We are counting on America to preserve and carry forward the best of the European tradition. We want to help in this.

"TODAY many a European thinks of America as his spiritual home. However dark the cloud of totalitarianism may rise on the east, there is always the bright thought that across the sea to the west, men yet are free—that they speak out easily without thought of dictaphone or informing neighbors; that they move fearlessly without looking behind; that they associate freely with their fellows without worrying in whose company they may be seen; that they read the books and magazines they wish, go to meetings, join organizations, take up new ideas and projects without getting permission from officials; that they dare to differ in opinion with each other without being labeled or libeled with the pet hate word of the hour; that they carry constantly with them the warm, expansive feeling of being free inside. Those, my friends, are some of the things that being an American means to us. You must not let us down."

The speaker of the day next motioned a young woman to address the gathering:

"I will cast my next vote next November," she began. "So will more than a million other young Americans. Many persons are wondering if we have been properly educated in what is called the American way of life. Some think we should have been taught to parrot some simple formula or creed that supposedly would insure us becoming the right kind of citizens.

"That is not what being an American means to me. What it does mean is having had the privilege to attend the kind of schools, live in the kind of home in which I was encouraged and helped to think for myself.

"IT MEANS having been able to say to my teacher, 'But I don't see it your way,' and telling why. It means having had class discussions, arguments, debates about big and even little questions. It means that I will try to find the truth for myself in all matters on which I pass judgment. It also means I must return something for this privilege. I must see that this fundamental right is maintained for others as well as myself, including those who disagree with me.

"Some persons are disturbed because we don't always accept without question all things as they are in America. Yet when has youth—unless prematurely fossilized—not had a passion to improve things? Remember Jefferson at 20 saying he was 'so tired of living' he thought he would 'die soon,' as he deplored 'this bit of world, this clod of dirt, which I insist is the vilest of the whole system?'

"Being a young American means I may live through a difficult time for my country, perhaps the most difficult in its history. It means I must bring to these difficulties the courage, self-confidence and unquenchable faith of youth. Many of our older citizens who have gone through two wars are tired, discouraged, hopeless, cynical. We who are now taking over must combat that defeatism."

Transit Victim

I was amazed to read in your paper that Charles Keffer, who lost both legs during the course of his employment, will be given nothing by the Capital Transit Co. beyond his workmen's compensation benefit of $7500. I never realized that they have such a disregard for their employes.

Had the company president been visiting a carbarn and had such an accident happen to him, no doubt he would have received a very substantial pension. Cannot something be done for Mr. Keffer?

G. L.

Washington.

Editor's Note: Capital Transit also paid Mr. Keffer's hospital and medical expenses of approximately $6000.

Tobacco And Oil

By Marquis Childs

Levers For Southern Democrats

THE UNEASY marriage between the Southern and Northern wings of the Democratic Party produces a growing friction reflected in the headlines. The Southern partner is like a complacent wife who feels confident that she has ways and means that will always bring the straying husband home again.

Childs

The friction is obvious enough on the surface, as in the quarrel over a fair employment practices law. The Southerners with their persistence and skill in parliamentary maneuver have been holding off an assault by the Northerners.

On quite another level the Southerners make their demands known. They want high prices and high returns for the raw materials they produce, and if they don't get them they will make just as much trouble as possible.

Tobacco is an example. A little drama is being played out that illustrates very well the way in which Southerners apply the heat.

The controversy is over the tax to be paid by lower-priced cigarettes. At present that tax is 7 cents a pack, which is the same tax paid by the highly advertised brands selling at regular prices. Because the tax is the same on both types, the makers of the economy brands claim they can sell their cigarettes at a price only 3 cents lower than the standard brands. Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney has said that this is one example where a uniform tax is enforcing a virtual monopoly on an industry that sells its product to 60 million Americans.

MAKERS of the economy brands have been lobbying to have the tax applied in such a way that the lower-priced cigarette would pay a lower tax. They have argued that this is the only fair form of taxation. And they are about to win a majority of the House Ways and Means Committee to their point of view.

The Treasury reported that it "consistently favored in principle the application of a lower rate of tax to 'economy brand' cigarettes." At present levels of income and cigarette prices, the Treasury declared, a change "would not be expected to have an immediate appreciable effect on tax revenues" and therefore there was no objection.

But at this point Chairman Robert (Muley) Doughton of the committee and his backers in North Carolina, including the big cigarette manufacturers and the tobacco growers, went into action. As a result of the pressure brought by Doughton and others, the Treasury wrote a new report submitted on the last day of the hearings.

In the new report the Treasury found that the change would reduce returns from the cigarette tax by 90 million dollars annually. Recognizing "the merit of a differential in cigarette tax rates," the Treasury "in view of the probable revenue loss" expressed its opposition.

IN ESTIMATING the 90-million-dollar revenue loss the Treasury took the month of November, 1932, and based its calculations on that period. As Harley L. Lutz, a conservative economist occasionally employed by the Ways and Means Committee, pointed out, November of 1932 was the bottom of the depression when the sale of economy brand cigarettes had jumped to nearly 23 percent of total sales.

Doughton, who is 86 years old, is serving his twentieth term in Congress. If he succeeds in blocking this change, the grateful tobacco people should elect him for life.

Oil and natural gas also are commodities about which the South and the Southwest are sensitive. President Truman's veto of the Kerr bill, which would take the production of natural gas out from under regulation, caused deep resentment.

But there may be compensation for the independent producers who exert the sharpest political pressures. They are complaining bitterly about greatly increased imports of oil brought in by the large corporations with oil fields in Venezuela and the Middle East. A crackdown on those imports would mean a lot to the independents.

Then the President's suggestion in his tax message that the 27 percent income tax deduction allowed to oil producers for a wasting asset be looked into had the independents worried. One independent—one of the three or four wealthiest men in the world, with an estimated income of one million dollars a month net after taxes—recently called on Speaker Sam Rayburn to ask if there was any danger that the 27 percent would be repealed or lowered. Rayburn is reported to have told him that he had nothing in the world to worry about.

So the power of the South is not entirely in the oratorical skill of Southern debaters. Backstage the economic pressures are very real and very potent.

Congress Told RFC Oil Loan Made to 'Bail Out' Creditors

By The Associated Press

A Senate Banking Subcommittee yesterday accused the Reconstruction Finance Corporation of violating "the intent of Congress in making a $10,100,000 loan to the Texmass Petroleum Co., Dallas, Tex.

The subcommittee, headed by Senator Fulbright (D., Ark.), told the Senate the loan was not justified in the public interest and was primarily a "bail out" of the company's creditors. It said RFC directors had been "remiss" in their duties.

The subcommittee was set up to look into lending practices of the big government loan agency. It has had the Texmass loan under fire for several weeks.

Despite the subcommittee's opposition, RFC officials said they had begun advancing money to the oil company last Wednesday. Actually the company is getting $15,100,000. The Government is putting up the $10,100,000 and the remainder will be furnished by private lenders under the loan agreement.

The report was made public after the full Banking Committee had authorized Fulbright at a closed meeting to present it to the Senate. It followed, in general, the conclusions released by the subcommittee in advance of the formal report.

The loan was approved last September by a 2 to 1 vote of the five-member RFC board. Chairman Harley Hise disqualified himself and another member was out of town.

Testimony showed that the RFC disregarded the advice of its own review committee in authorizing the loan.

'Hill' Eases Pay Threat

agencies for the present fiscal year. Items in the bill included:

I. & N.: The Immigration and Naturalization Service was allowed $116,139 to mak back salary payments to some of their employes for Sunday and holiday work.

C & GS: A deficiency of $101,000 was recommended for Coast & Geodetic Survey, a cut of $45,000. The agency asked $90,000 to give back pay raises to its lithographic employes. The committee allowed $45,000 and reminded the agency it should have allocated its funds to absorb part of the pay increase costs.

PATENT OFFICE: A total of $360,000 was recommended for it, $200,000 for printing and $160,000 to meet salary costs. The committee criticized the Commerce Department for requiring the Patent Office to take a cut it previously had made in printing. It charged Commerce with deliberately applying the cut to circumvent the will of Congress.

LABOR: The committe allowed $1,100,000 for wage and hour, a cut of $252,000, and it reduced the request for the Solicitor's Office from $207,000 to $113,000.

REA: Rural Electrification Administration was given $165,000, a cut of $220,000 under what it requested.

OHE Granted $600,000

OHE: The Office of the Housing Expeditor was granted $600,000, a cut of $200,000, to complete the 1950 fiscal year. The Rent Control agency will be out of funds in a week.

VA.: The committee granted two million dollars of the $2,191,000 requested to keep the 4800 hospital employes on the job for the remainder of this year. Lay-off notices given these employes several months ago have heen suspended.

NACA: The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics was given 75 million dollars to build supersonic wind tunnels at each of its three laboratories.

NBS: The National Bureau of Standards was given a three-million-dollar "working fund" by the committee.

GAO: The General Accounting Office next week will give 30-day layoff notices to 600 of its employes here. The big layoff will hit all of its divisions here.

Comptroller General Lindsey Warren said he had planned to make cutbacks before the House approved the Taber-Thomas and Jensen riders that would force most agencies to make sharp personnel reductions.

However, the House-approved budget would require GAO to drop more than 500 employes.

Meantime, Warren has indorsed in "principle" the Jensen amendment to restrict Federal agencies to the filling of only 1 of every 10 jobs vacated. He said he thought it could be worked out to cause minimum harm to both the Government and its employes.

In the past year, Warren said, GAO has reduced its staff by more than 1000 employes. About 600 of this was accomplished, he said, by abolishing jobs that were vacated.

Congress Gets Bills to Assist Small Business, Truman Plan

Representative Spence (D., Ky.), yesterday introduced a bill to carry out President Truman's small business program.

Senator Maybank (D., S. C.), had an identical measure ready for the Senate.

Both lawmakers are chairmen of the Banking Committees that will hold hearings on the measures.

Outlined May 5

The program as outlined to Congress in a special Presidential message May 5 calls (a) for loan insurance to provide credit of up to $25,000 to very small businesses and (b) the creation of Federally chartered private investment companies as a source of additional financial help.

Spence voiced hope that Congress would pass the measure before it adjourns this summer or fall.

Maybank said Senate committee hearings will start in two weeks.

In his message to the lawmakers, Mr. Truman said small and independent businesses have a key role in providing the necessary jobs to keep the Nation's expanding labor force at work. He added that new capital and access to new techniques are needed to help them meet this responsibility.

Provisions of Bill

The Spence and Maybank bills would:

1. Authorize the Secretary of Commerce to insure bank loans up to $25,000 with up to five years for repayment. This would extend to the small business field the present system of Government insurance for home purchase loans.

2. Permit any group of five or more investors to set up a Federally chartered investment company designed to supply long-term credit and equity capital. The companies would be required to have a minimum paid up capital of at least five million dollars and would be supervised by the Federal Reserve Board.

3. Broaden the lending authority of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, including power to wave collateral requirements on small business loans which offer reasonable prospects of repayment.

4. Authorize the Secretary of Commerce to establish a clearing house for technical data for business use and to carry out development work on "promising discoveries" through Government facilities.

Spence said that neither the loan insurance program nor the plan for private investment companies would involve any burden on the Federal budget.

He added that both should lessen the need for RFC financing of small businesses except in the event of a recession.

contract authority for the rest of the $1,589,500 job.

Spingarn High, $1,250,000 for continuing construction.

Terrell Junior High, for a new replacement building $900,000 plus contract authority covering the rest of the $1,589,500 cost.

Armstrong High, $75,000 for planning a replacement building.

Slowe Elementary, $79,000 to finish the second floor.

Another $300,000 fund is in the bill for eliminating fire hazards in existing school buildings. There is also $320,000 for buying school sites (1) in the vicinity of Mississippi ave., and Stanton rd. se., (elementary); (2) in the vicinity of 3d and O sts. nw., (Dunbar High School; (3) near Staunton and Pomeroy rds. se., (junior high); (4) near 6th and O s s. nw., (Shaw Junior High replacement), and (5) near 9th and Barnaby sts. se. (elementary).

For the land near Dunbar for a new stadium the committee halved the $200,000 asked, and said the committee felt $100,000 to be adequate in view of existing athletic facilities for Negro schools. The Bates group also decided to hold up funds for more play and athletic grounds at Anacostia High "until more pressing needs are provided for".

For Negro schools, the bill has money for 25 more new teachers than the 63 new ones which Commissioners' budget allowed. Bates said the 88 would provide maximum use of existing facilities without need of part-time instruction. Funds are also in the bill for 14 clerk-stenographers for elementary schools.

An $1800 item is in the bill to make what Bates called "highly warranted and justifiable promotions" of teachers at Wilson and Miner Teachers Colleges.

Welfare

There ought to be a law to clarify welfare administration, the Bates group found. Bates's report said public assistance is administered under three laws and a set of Commissioners' regulations. Efforts to get a one-package welfare law for the District through Congress in recent years have failed. Bates' report also called for reviewing the welfare organization. It suggested one person be made responsible for supervising all work relating to children. It called for transferring interestate services to the Public Assistance Division, and other changes.

Funds granted in the bill totaled $16,078,100. Nearly half, $7,855,000, is for St. Elizabeths Hospital. For helping the needy, blind, aged, and for dependent children, the bill carries $4,184,600, an increase of $334,810 over this year. Included is a $115,000 boost in relief grants that Bates said would bring the program "up to the level commensurate with the needs of the families involved." Bates said the bill also carries money for 10 new social workers, an administrative officer, and clerical personnel to provide "a closer check on actual need of persons receiving relief." A $27,000 cut was ordered in requested funds for foster home care of children.

Bates' report said additional money was provided for more adequate nursing service at the Home for the Aged and Infirm, and additional staff help for the District Training School.

Bates also said the $1,200,000 capital outlay fund for welfare institutions would permit (1) starting a $2,550,000 hospital building with 300 beds for the Home for the Aged and Infirm; (2) starting a $1,054,000 utilities improvement program at the District Training School.

(3) building a new central kitchen at the Industrial Home School for Colored Children at a cost of $187,000, and (4) making plans for $1,600,000 worth of new buildings for the Industrial Home School for white boys and girls on the site of the District Training School near Laurel, Md.

Health

A $10,416,075 fund in the bill covers the Health Department and the Glenn Dale Tuberculosis Sanitarium.

A slash of $245,000 lowered to $500,000 the allowance for "medical charities"—the payments the District makes to private hospitals here for the services they give to medically indigent patients. Bates' group concluded there should be no District Government subsidy to private hospitals. The hospitals in the past have protested to congress that what the District pays does not cover what it costs the hospitals to give the service.

Children's Hospital is exempted from the funds cut; no cut was made in the $400,000 District payment to Federally owned Freedmen's Hospital.

Bates said there are funds in the bill for a dental fluorine program in the public and parochial schools; also for a full-time expert to work with hospitals and the medical profession to remove preventable causes of maternal and infant deaths and disabilities

Glenn Dale's funds total $2,225,300; the bill lets the hospital hire 45 GS-1 hospital attendants in place of 25 GS-5 nurse jobs that could not be filled. Gallinger's budget is fixed at $4,817,975; Bates said a $730,100 increase over this year's operating expenses is to start a program "to fully modernize this hospital, correct the present deficiency in the X-ray service, and staff the new laboratory."

Police and Fire

A $7,413,600 fund in the bill is but $101,400 less than the Commissioners asked, and includes money for 30 new uniformed men to make up for an equal number on license duty. Bates said his group would not allow $5000 to raze the old First Precinct building until the Commissioners decide what to do with the ground there. The bill promotes eight members of the force, but the Bates report told the Commissioners not to seek any more promotions in the budget bill.

A $4,632,200 fund includes money to cut the department's work week from six to five days, and replace outmoded equipment.

Public Library

The bill contains $1,400,000, including funds for a bookmobile service; remodeling Central Library basement is to take two years, not one, the Bates group decided. A $137,438 previously appropriated for a new central library building was ordered back into general District funds on the basis of testimony that it will be 10 years before the Commissioners can build it.

Recreation

A $1,552,900 fund includes $180,000 for capital improvements and money to open new playgrounds, expand preschool play center work, and more participation in sports and athletics by Washington groups. One more nine-week day camp for children is also provided.

Public Works

For the departments operating under the District Engineer Commissioner, the bill carries $22,476,650, a cut of $3,758,650 below the Commissioners' budget. Biggest slice of the total cut was $2,041,800 listed for the East Capitol Street Bridge over the Anacostia: Bates said his subcommittee is "entirely in sympathy" with the project and when Congress passes the enabling act for it, now pending in the Senate, it will reconsider the fund.

A $2,443,000 fund for sewer-system improvement will permit starting improvements in the sewage treatment plant that Bates said "will result in a considerable decrease in the amount of pollution in the Potomac River."

Other Funds

No punch card equipment will be permitted the auditor and public schools, said the Bates report, until the Commissioners have clarified the auditor's authority over independent District boards.

Executive office gets $281,350 including funds to set up an "organization and methods" unit in the budget office. None of the $50,000 asked will be given to survey District records. Commissioners are told by the report to restudy District policy on cars for officials, and think about having travel allowances instead of giving officials 24-hour us of cars.

Regulatory agencies are to get $1,076,615, but Bates' group refused funds for new water and sewer lines for the city's fish wharf and market until rents are raised for stalls.

Courts: $2,493,300 in the bill, all but $42,000 of the budget, but Bates' report said: "The committee is deeply concerned with the high and steadily increasing cost of the courts. There appears to be no apparent or justifiable reason for such large increases. The committee directs the Commissioners and the chief judges of the three District courts to make a thorough study . . . with the idea of effecting substantial savings." The committee refused funds for more help at Juvenile Court, and for more help in Municipal Court, other than the three new judges and their clerks.

Veterans services: $113,650 in the bill; Bates' report said the agency has done excellent work, but that a study should be made of the need for continuing it.

Department of Corrections: $3,439,900 in the bill, includes money to hire two more teachers to give vocational and academic training to inmates; $5000 for more fertilizer to increase farm productivity; and $125,000 for starting an operational control building and a fence around the Lorton Reformatory.

Water: $3,460,000 in the bill for the Water Division, and $2,620,000 for the Washington aqueduct, the supply system. Of the two figures, some $2,233,000 is for construction, including improvements of the Anacostia, Bryant street and Dalecarlia stations and other works.

National Guard: $93,750 grant and $30,550 cut. Paying the adjutant general is up to the Federal, not the District government, said Bates.

National Capital Parks: the committee gave $1,742,200, and told the Commissioners to get together with Interior to erase conflicts of Park and Metropolitan police jurisdiction.

National Capital Park and Planning Commission gets $84,200, and the Zoo gets $573,000.

Gifts to GOP Larger Now, Officials Hear

Chicago, May 19 (AP).—The Republican Party is collecting more campaign money these days, its treasurer reported today.

R. Douglas Stuart of Chicago said contributions for the first three months of this year exceeded those of the last five quarters.

His report helped spark optimistic expressions among GOP national executive committee members at a meeting today. He gave no figures.

Stuart, an oats company executive, became treasurer after James S. Kemper, Chicago insurance company president, quit November 3, 1949.

Kemper said he quit because GOP reserve funds had fallen from $832,000 in 1948 to only $90,000. He blamed party leaders for failing to collect more funds or cut expenses.

Stuart's report was the first public notice that the money situation is brighter. Hard times hit the party after the 1948 election defeat.

Guy Gabrielson, national chairman, said his group plans a series of regional meetings of Republican State chairmen next summer.

The first will be in Atlantic City late next month. Another is se for Salt Lake City in July.

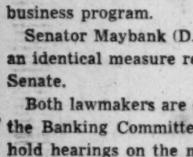
Midwest chairmen will meet in September with the National Committee in Chicago.

Gabrielson called President Truman's Western trip "a political flop."

He said GOP reports from along the route said results were no up to Democratic "anticipations."

This contradicted a statement by William M. Boyle, jr., Democratic national chairman. He said last Tuesday that Mr. Truman's trip was a bigger political success than his 1948 preelection junket.

Gabrielson also said he doesn't think the Democrats or Senator Lucas (D., Ill.) profited any by the Jefferson jubilee show in Chicago May 13-15.



Will America Become a Nation of Cave Dwellers?

10-Month Strike On A.B.&W. Ends

Bus drivers and mechanics yesterday ended a 10-month strike against the AB&W bus line, after approving a settlement giving them a 10-cents-an-hour pay raise.

Notified that the long dispute was resolved, Governor John S. Battle of Virginia took steps to return operation of the bus system to the management of the Alexandria, Barcroft & Washington Transit Co.

The Commonwealth seized the bus company July 21 at the very moment that 400 members of Local 1131, Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America (AFL) walked out.

The union called the strike in an effort to win its demands for a 30-cents-an-hour increase and other contract "improvements." The company offered 4 cents an hour. The State took over control of the line under a special public utilities law, and the union members agreed to continue on their jobs and work for the Commonwealth.

Various efforts by Federal and State mediation services to resolve the dispute failed. Two weeks ago, company and union representatives resumed negotiations, and came up with a tentative peace formula.

The proposed settlement was placed before a rank-and-file union meeting at 2 a. m. yesterday in Carpenters Hall, Alexandria. The formula was accepted by a 2-1 vote ratio. As a result, all benefits go into effect as of last Monday.

The new contract, to run until October 31, 1951, provides an across-the-board increase of 10 cents an hour to all drivers, who now get a maximum of $1.35 an hour, and mechanics, who get $1.45. Mechanics in charge of night shifts will receive an additional 5 cents. A number of garage helpers will be upgraded, and so increase their take-home pay.

All regular employes will be guaranted a 40-hour week, with time and a half pay for overtime work. Extra bus operators go on a five-day week, instead of six, and are guaranteed 35 hours work a week.

Beverly C. May, general manager of the bus company—which carries 75,000 passengers daily between Washington and nearby Virginia—said the new contract will cost the transit line $12,000. May pointed out that AB&W went $37,800 in the red for the first three months of 1950.

In a move to make the deficit and meet the additional payroll payroll cost, the company is seeking a general fare boost of five cents. The fare increase petitions are presently pending before the State Corporation Commission and Interstate Commerce Commission.

YUKO OZAKI, 91-year-old former mayor of Tokyo, is shown on his arrival in New York yesterday. He will come to Washington May 31 and will see the famous cherry trees around the Tidal Basin. Ozaki is the man who arranged the gift of the trees. The former minister of justice and education in Japan, is the founder in that country of the World Federalist movement. He is on a good will tour of the United States, accompanied by his wife and son.

Randolph Gets 4-to-3 Lead in ITU Balloting

Indianapolis, May 19 (AP).—Returns from 232 of the International Typographical Union's 750 locals today indicated the "Progressive" candidates will remain in power.

Woodruff Randolph, Progressive, seeking his fourth two-year term as ITU president, had 12,485 votes to 9431 for C. G. Sparkman of Detroit, Independent Party candidate. The same locals in 1948 gave Randolph 11,799 votes to 8598 for John R. Evans of Washington.

Don Hurd, secretary-treasurer running for reelection, said the "mine run" returns indicated a final majority of 6000 or more for Randolph. Randolph won by 7000 votes two years ago.

An unofficial Associated Press tabulation of the vote in 67 large city locals gave Randolph 20,778 to Sparkman's 19,930.

Hurd reported Charles Lyon of Lynn, Mass., was leading by about the same margin as Randolph in a race with Evans for first vice president.

The incomplete ITU headquarters totals for other offices, with Progressives leading Independents in each case:

Third vice president—Joe Bailey, San Francisco, 12,180; Charles Salter, Detroit, 9085.

Secretary-treasurer—Hurd, Oakland, Calif., 12,814; George Bante, Chicago, 8844.

Hurd said complete returns probably will not be in before Monday. Official tabulations will begin May 27.

Prince Georges Suggests 5 as Magistrates

Prince Georges County leaders yesterday took definite steps to alleviate a drastic shortage of committing magistrates in county police stations.

There is now only one full-time committing magistrate in the county—78-year-old Mrs. Mary Fainter, who is on duty at the Hyattsville station. Three others were lost recently through death, discharge and resignation.

After a joint meeting of the County Commissioners and the Democratic State Central Committee in Marlboro yesterday, the names of five persons were sent to Governor Lane for appointment as justices of the peace.

These were identified by Edward A. Fuller, central committee secretary, as Donald DeGourse, Montgomery rd., Berwyn; Mrs. Mary B. Crawley, 5407 15th ave., Michigan Park Hills; Francis E. Weightman, 3014 Parkway, Cheverly; Harry L. Durity, Marlboro, and Louis Butt, 2101 Owens rd., Oxon Hill.

Maj. Ralph W. Brown, county police head, has long sought assignment of seven committing magistrates to the two stations—the full complement sanctioned by State act—but at no time have there been more than four.

Pending the appointment of the five new magistrates, Mrs. Fainter is going about her duties in about the same manner as usual—except that she is called on to transact business at her home as early as 6 a. m. and well into the evening. She is the mother of seven children, grandmother of six and great-grandmother of two.

Gaming Case Dropped for Warrant Lack

An indictment on gambling charges was dismissed yesterday in District Court against Robert L. Shepherd, 52, of 4029 Columbia pike, Arlington, Va.

Shepherd was arrested in an apartment at 3241 N st. nw. March 28 by Seventh Precinct police, after an informer had contacted them. He was charged specifically with setting up a gaming table, operating a lottery and possession of numbers slips between January 28 and March 28.

Judge Burnita Shelton Matthews yesterday granted a defense motion to dismiss the indictment and suppress the evidence in the case on the grounds that police had secured neither a search nor arrest warrant, that they had no reasonable grounds to believe a felony had been committed and that no misdemeanor had been committed in their presence.

N. Y. Central Asks ICC To Approve New Issue

The New York Central Railroad Co. yesterday asked the Interstate Commerce Commission authority to issue $11,100,000 of equipment trust certificates in connection with new equipment purchases.

The commission authorized two other railroads to issue such certificates for the same purpose. The authorities went to Chicago, Rock Island, and Pacific Railroad for $3,630,000, and Denver and Rio Grande Western for $2,790,000.

Truck Driver Of Year Lauds D. C. Traffic

The American Trucking Associations' 1950 "Driver of the Year" yesterday had a good word to say for Washington's traffic system.

Reisner

Lloyd Reisner, 37, of Indianapolis, Ind., said with the appreciation of a connoisseur, "the streets are very nice—they're smooth and wide. The traffic system here is good and it is fast. I've never seen a city anywhere to compare with Washington."

Reisner has been taking a truck driver's holiday—riding taxicabs—during this, his first visit to Washington.

Yesterday he and Mrs. Reisner were presented to President Truman by Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, who headed the committee of judges that recently selected Reisner for the Driver of the Year title.

Last June Reisner extricated a mother and her young daughter from their automobile, which had struck a fireplug on the outskirts of Louisville, Ky. Reisner gave the daughter, who suffered lacerations of the head, first aid and got her to a hospital. Now they correspond with him.

The Reisners, parents of two teenage children, end their three-day visit today. From here they go to New York, a city into which he has often driven a truck, where he will appear on several television shows.

Motorist Jailed In Hit-Run Case

Raymond Clarence Davis, 38, an unemployed painter of Rockville, Md., was sentenced to 90 days in jail yesterday for leaving the scene after his automobile injured a pedestrian. Trial Magistrate Alger Y. Barbee in Rockville Police Court also imposed a $1000 fine, then suspended it.

Davis, who pleaded guilty, was charged with striking John Bowman, 22, a farm laborer of Olney, Md. Bowman was riding a bicycle in the vicinity of the Manor Club near Norbeck, Md.

Shipley Citizens Dance

The second annual dance of the Shipley Terrace Citizens Association will be held starting at 9 p. m. tonight at the Hotel Willard.

400 Attend Montgomery Realty Dinner

Nearly 400 members and guests of the Montgomery County Real Estate Board attended the group's annual dinner-dance at the Congressional Country Club last night.

Maryland Gov. J. Preston Lane, jr., was featured speaker, but Representative J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.) won much applause with a prediction that the House would end rent controls this session.

Governor Lane spoke on the Maryland school situation, paying tribute to the sales tax which in the past 3½ years enabled the State to climb from the low forties almost to second place in the Nation in scholastic rating.

The Governor pointed out that 121 new schools and 142 additions, providing 2200 more classrooms for 76,000 students, had been built since 1946.

"Those 76,000 students wouldn't have had a chance without that sales tax," he said, adding that "education is the bedrock upon which the ability of the State is built."

J. Noble Boaz, past president of the board, was presented a gold watch by Andrew J. Kessinger, president, in appreciation of his service. Roger J. Whiteford, a Montgomery attorney, acted as master of ceremonies and introduced many guests from Prince Georges County, the District and Virginia.

ing privileges with the boy.

4. Mrs. Curtis' divorce action was referred to Leslie Hall as commissioner in chancery to take evidence immediately on the case and make recommendations to the court.

Under a special Virginia statute, the court orders were served on H. Bruce Green, clerk of the court, as representative of Curtis. Such service is provided where a party to an action leaves jurisdiction of the court without notifying the clerk.

Married in 1943

The couple lived, and Mrs. Curtis still does, at 737 N. Nelson st., Arlington. They were married here in 1943 when he was a British Army captain, stationed here, and the boy was born here in September, 1945. They went to England for a time and returned, when he was admitted as a nonquota immigrant as the spouse of an American citizen. Mrs. Curtis filed the divorce action last November.

Mrs. Curtis, before her marriage, achieved national recognition as a figure skater as Dorothy Snell. Her father is an official of the Department of Agriculture.

Curtis issued a statement yesterday to the cable department of the United Press. In it, he disclosed that as result of his frantic trip to Montreal with his son, he is now in the United States only on a four months visa and must leave after that. He said he will apply in England for a quota readmission to the country.

"Foolhardy" Stunt

He said he made the attempt to take the boy to England in the hope his wife would follow him and they might become reconciled there. He told the United Press that his abduction stunt was "foolhardy, because I failed."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Clara Snell, Dorothy's mother, swore out a warrant in Takoma Park charging Curtis with threats to kill Dorothy.

Forestville Church Dinner

The Women's Society of the Forestville (Va.) Methodist Church will serve fried chicken dinners at the Grange Hall in Forestville from 2:30 to 8 p. m. today for the benefit of the church.

Told to 'Tone Down' Richitt Report, Maher Quits Post

submission to the Board of Commissioners and specifically no one has ever told me to in any way modify or in any wise change the Richitt report.

"As long as I have worked for Commissioner Young he has always instructed me to report on a given situation exactly as I saw it and he has never by innuendo or any other means suggested to me that he wanted a report in any particular way.

"In any matter that I ever studied for him I was always completely unfettered and was told emphatically that the given matter was one for my judgment alone."

Stemmed From Transfer

Maher was assigned by Young to the Richitt case after Police Capt. Anthony Richitt charged that Maj. Robert J. Barrett, superintendent of police, transferred Richitt from Precinct No. 3 to Precinct No. 8 for talking out of turn to a congressional crime investigating subcommittee. Hearings on the transfer resulted. Subsequently Maher charged precinct records had been erased in a manner which indicated perjured testimony had been given the subcommittee.

Maher was then asked to look into the matter of the erasure and make recommendations to the Commissioners for appropriate administrative action, presumably a police trial board.

It is understood Maher's report on the Richitt affair has been in the hands of the Commissioners for six weeks. It was the subject of a locked-door conference, between Maher and Richitt Thursday. Neither official would reveal the result of this conference to reporters.

Requested by Stofberg

According to the informant who said the report figured in Maher's resignation, the request to tone it down came originally from Charles Stofberg, special assistant to Young, about three weeks ago. Stofberg also advised Maher, it was said, to make no recommendations in the report. This was to leave the way open for a Barrett-Richitt reconciliation and "hatchet burying" party.

Maher, according to the informant, protested to Young and received assurances he could ignore Stofberg's suggestion.

Later, the informant said, Young by phone gave Maher much the same advice Maher received from Stofberg.

Maher was reported to have made no recommendations in the final report, but to have written the report in a way that pointed to the recommendations he would have included otherwise.

Young Reported Ill

When asked about the Richitt report two weeks ago, Young revealed he had sent it back for "clarifying information." Last night he could not be reached for comment on the Maher resignation. Mrs. Young said the commissioner was ill, in bed, and away from a telephone.

Stofberg refused to comment for publication on the Maher resignation yesterday afternoon.

In the background of the Richitt-Barrett explosion is the question of the two police officers' contacts with the White House. The Third Precinct is the White House precinct, from which presidential details are drawn.

In charges prepared in connection with Richitt's transfer, Barrett indicated that Richitt was spending too much time on White House matters.

Accompanied Newsmen

Both police officers rode a Presidential press plane to Key West, Fla., last winter, purportedly as guests of newsmen covering the President. The White House said they both paid their own way. This past week, Richitt showed up in Chicago at the same time as the President. However, he explained he flew there in a private party and did not go on the Presidential train.

In his letter to Young, Maher suggested the June 15 resignation date to enable him to finish pending assignments.

Maher said he still has work to do on the Richitt report and on the investigation of a building inspector suspended last month. Both should be completed by June 1, he stated.

"I've been trying to resign since last fall," Maher said, "but every time I tried to leave something came up. I felt that if I quit then, it would look as though I was running out on something."

In the last few months Maher has acted as the District's liaison man with the House District subcommittee investigating crime and law enforcement here, investigated the status of an 1873 restaurant anti-segregation law and handled the Richitt and building inspector cases.

A former Assistant United States Attorney here, Maher has held a unique position in the District government. The Commissioners created the $9000-a-year post in October, 1947, shortly after the former fire chief, Clement Murphy, was accused by one of his subordinates of "demoralizing" the department.

Maher prosecuted the charges against Murphy—who was cleared. Last year, after United States Attorney George Morris Fay started a gambling investigation here, Maher prepared a report to show the anti-gambling work of the Metropolitan Police Department.

Technically, Maher is responsible to Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West. But he has usually worked directly for the Commissioners.

District personnel records describe the job Maher holds as that of "making special investigations or studies . . . ordered by the Commissioners."

"These investigations result from personnel situations in the District service," the records state, "which have received unfavorable reactions from Congress, the public or have arisen internally and been brought to the attention of the Commissioners."

Building Bills Filed With County Council

Bills calling for bond issues totaling $10,454,000 for schools, roads, drainage facilities and construction of a new country building and hospital were introduced last night at a legislative session of the Montgomery County Council.

The first bill bearing mainly on school construction and the erection of a county building was introduced by Councilwoman Dorothy Himstead.

It would give the council authority to float a $9,454,000 bond issue with $829,000 earmarked for roads, bridges, storm water drainage facilities and rights of way; $1,230,000 for a new county building and the lion's share of the remainder for schools.

Under the proposal, any funds received from the State toward the work would be deducted from the amount of the proposed bond issue.

The hospital bill was introduced by Councilman Harold F. Hammond.

It would authorize the council to issue a million dollars in bonds for construction of a county hospital with the proviso that no bonds be issued unless the county receives title to the Silver Spring Hospital Association's 27-acre site.

Further, no issue would be floated until "reasonable assurance" had been received that at least an additional $500,000 was available from the Federal Government, the State or other sources.

A public hearing on the hospital bill is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in the courthouse at Rockville. On Monday at 7:30 p. m. a special hearing will be held on a bill to set up a county-wide library system. On Tuesday at 7:30 a hearing will be held on all bills introduced up to last Tuesday.

Genealogical Exhibit

The annual exhibit of the National Genealogical Society will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at the Mount Pleasant Branch Public Library, 16th and Lamont sts. nw. Family trees, charts, maps, coats of arms, published and unpublished genealogical works will be shown.

'Dotsie' Learns About U. S. From Li'l Daniel

Charles Del Vecchio—The Washington Post

Dace Epermanis and Daniel Boone 7th discuss American History

Dace (pronounced Dotsie) Epermanis, this land's 150,000th DP, learned about American history yesterday from a 14-year-old authority, Daniel Boone 7th.

The 1150 other students of Paul Junior High School, 8th and Oglethorpe sts. nw., also welcomed the 12-year-old Latvian girl to the promised home by singing "If I Knew You Were Coming I'd Have Baked a Cake."

"It is a wonderful feeling to be wanted," Dace said, as a hush settled over the auditorium to catch her words. "From the bottom of our hearts we thank you for the biggest gift of all, a country and a home of our own."

A tremendous burst of applause rocked the room as the children welcomed the girl with the smile unerased by long years under that most poignant of all sobriquets for a child, Displaced Person.

Dace stood on the stage, a lovely figure with her blonde hair reaching in two long braids down her chest to her waist.

Principal Thomas F. Ferry spelled out the school's honor.

"We are the first school in the country to welcome a most distinguished guest," said he, "a young lady who spent the last five years in a DP camp and never had the opportunity like you children to attend a regular school.

"She has been having not only a wonderful time since coming to this country May 14, but also what we call a hectic time. After meeting this distinguished company—meaning you—she is going to Annapolis today to meet Governor Lane, then back to Washington this afternoon to meet President Truman."

The "hectic days" are as a guest of the Sesquicentennial Commission here for a week before going with her family to live on a farm at Perry, N. Y. Dace's father was a forced-laborer for the Nazis in the war then afterward had a choice it did not take him long to make—returning to Latvia under the Russians or coming to this country.

Student Council President Eugene Lambert gave the welcome and Vice President Lenore Hale explained to Dace that the Girls Glee Club hadn't had time to learn any Latvian folk songs but would sing:

"Panis Angelicus, a Negro spiritual entitled "De Creation," and a swing number that has been popular here for some months—'If I Knew You Were Coming I'd Have Baked a Cake.'"

For the students Eugene presented Dace with a pen-and-pencil set and a scroll signed with the 1150 names of the students, which showed that this is a land of all peoples . . . Pearl Rosenberg . . . Billy Myslak . . . Bob Von Nessen . . . Ann McConnell . . . Rose Quattroochi . . .

And Daniel Boone 7th.

The 14-year-old descendant, a student at the school, took in hand a book "Exploring American History" and began to explore some with the girl from Latvia, with heavy accent on the exploits of a famed trapper you-guess-who.

Presbyterians Plan Large Center Here

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 19 (Spl.)—A new one million dollar national center for the Presbyterian church will be built in Washington in the next two years under plans announced here today.

Dr. L. R. Elson, pastor of the National Presbyterian Church, at 18th and N sts. nw., outlined the plans at the 162d assembly of the Presbyterian Church. Construction in 1952, as planned, he said, is dependent upon a drive for funds in 1951.

In his talk, Dr. Elson said detailed plans will be finished by the end of this year for the structure to adjoin and coordinate with his church. He said the project is the result of a two-year study.

As Dr. Elson outlined the plans, the new center will be 10 stories high, adjoining the present National Presbyterian Church. The present church house would be torn down. The structure, he said, will include a chapel, offices for his church and the national organization, as well as educational facilities.

Also, he indicated, it will have classrooms, lounges, guest rooms for church officials, a cafeteria and an historical room.

Subsequently, Dr. Elson suggested to the General Assembly, his church might be rebuilt to be coordinated with the new structure, and incorporate "what is historical" without removal or change.

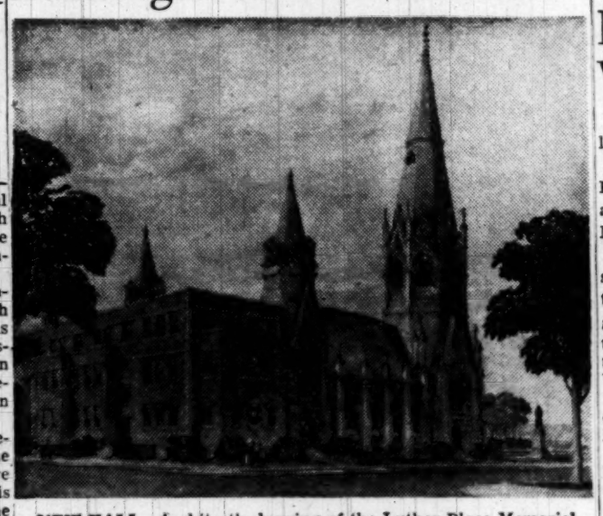
The Rev. William Doane Eckel, who lived for 18 years in Japan, will speak on Christianity's impact on Japan at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the First Church of the Nazarene, 7th and A sts. ne.

Drawing of Church Addition



NEW HALL—Architect's drawing of the Luther Place Memorial Church, Thomas Circle, as it will appear when the new parish hall is completed. Construction of the $275,000 addition to the church will begin this month

Construction will begin this month on the new parish house of Luther Place Memorial Church, Thomas cir. nw.

The old parish hall, built in 1868, will be torn down and replaced by a modern building which nearly doubles the space available for educational, recreational and administrative work, the Rev. Dr. L. Ralph Tabor, pastor, says.

The three-story and basement addition to the church building will cost $275,000. Exterior materials of sand struck brick with natural and cast stone trim will blend with the red sandstone walls of the church.

Classrooms, offices, a chapel, fellowship hall and kitchen will be included in the building. The chapel on the main floor, which may be entered from both 14th and N sts., will form the transition from the early English Gothic of the church to the lines of the parish house.

Architect is L. M. Leisenring, president of the Board of Examiners and Registrars of Architects for the District of Columbia.

A member of Luther Place Church, he has served on the Committee on Church Architecture of the United Lutheran Church in America for many years.

Two Churches In Arlington Vote Merger

Two Episcopal churches in Arlington, Va., have voted to merge.

They are the Church of the Epiphany, 2001 North Quincy st., and Grace Church, Lorcom la. and North Fillmore st.

Decision to merge was made at separate meetings of the congregations recently. The action was suggested by a survey of churches in the area conducted by a committee from the Episcopal Diocese of Virginia.

The exact time and other details of the merger will be worked out later.

Plans call for erection of a combined church in a new location in the neighborhood of Military rd. and Lorcom la. Both old buildings eventually will be sold.

Members of both churches are working on a campaign for at least $75,000 to build the new church. Although none of the organizations of the two churches have been merged, funds raised by them will go into a common building fund.

Both churches were established about 35 years ago. Epiphany has a communicant membership of about 200 and Grace is smaller.

The Rev. John C. Henry is rector of Epiphany. The Rev. Reuel L. Howe, a professor at the Virginia Theological Seminary, Alexandria, is priest-in-charge of Grace.

Sunday Church Events . . .

Dr. Charles S. Johnson, president of Fisk University, will speak on "New Perspectives in Race Relations" at 4 p. m. at the Church of the Epiphany, 1317 G st. nw.

The interracial, interfaith service is sponsored by the Washington Fellowship. Dr. Johnson was the first Negro to be named president of Fisk.

A Moravian Love Feast and Communion service will be held at 3:30 p. m. at the Baptist Building, 1628 16th st. nw.

"Elements in a Happy Marriage" will be the Rev. Dr. Alfred W. Hurst's sermon topic at 11 a. m. at Cleveland Park Congregational Church, 3400 Lowell st. nw.

The senior choir of the Washington City Church of the Brethren, 337 North Carolina ave. se., will give its annual spring concert at the church at 8 p. m.

"Bring Someone Sunday" will be observed at All Souls Memorial Episcopal Church, Cathedral ave. and Woodley pl. nw. Members of the church have been asked to bring to the 11 a. m. service friends and neighbors who do not attend church regularly.

Women's Day will be observed at Lincoln Congregational Temple, 11th and R sts. nw., at 11 a. m., when Mrs. Wallace N. Streeter, president of the Washington Council of Church Women will be the speaker.

The Rev. Dr. Henry W. Snyder, pastor, will speak on "The Ascended Christ—Where?" at 11 a. m. at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Connecticut ave. and Everett st. nw.

Youth Sunday will be observed at 11 a. m. at Chevy Chase Baptist Church, 5671 Western ave. nw. Ted Lynch, youth pastor, will preach on "Christ and the Youth."

The Rev. Dr. Roscoe M. White, executive secretary of the Virginia Conference Board of Education of the Methodist Church, will preach at 9:30 and 11 a. m. at Arlington Methodist Church, Glebe rd. and South 8th st.

Starting Sunday

H. D. Rees Will Lead Services

Howard D. Rees will conduct a series of services designed to stimulate family participation in church work at Fair-Park Baptist Church, Seminary rd., Fairlington, Va., beginning Sunday.

Rees

Services will be at 7:30 p. m. Sunday through Friday, the Rev. J. Grady Hutchison, pastor, announced.

Rees is director of college work for Baptist churches in Washington and an active layman.

He is a graduate of George Washington University and has done graduate work at Catholic University and at Cambridge University in England.

On Sunday he will speak on "Disciplines for Discipleship." His topics on other nights will be: Monday, "Creating the Christian Home"; Tuesday, "An Adequate Faith"; Wednesday, "Open Doors"; Thursday, "Voice on the Highway," and Friday, "On the Team."

Mr. Beason to Speak

The Rev. Oliver M. Beason, pastor of the Methodist Church at Fairmount, W. Va., will preach at 11 a. m. Sunday at Mount Zion Methodist Church, 1334 29th st. nw.

Sunday Marks Observance Of Shovuos

Shovuos, the Jewish Festival of Weeks, will begin at sundown Sunday.

For Reform Jews the holiday will end at sundown on Monday, and for Conservative and Orthodox Jews at sundown on Tuesday.

Historically, the feast commemorates the giving of the 10 Commandments to Moses on Mount Sinai, and the establishment of a covenant between God and the Israelites.

During the last century the holiday has assumed a new importance for Reform Jews as a day of confirmation services for boys and girls.

The book of Ruth, which tells of Ruth's acceptance into the fold of Israel, is read during the Shovuos season, Jewish homes are decorated with green plants, and dairy foods are eaten.

Free Lecture Monday On Christian Science

A three lecture on "Christian Science: Divine Love in Action" will be given at 8 p. m. Monday at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, 1770 Euclid st. nw.

Earl E. Simms of Austin, Tex., a member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass., will be the speaker.

2 Churches Plan Musical Services

Musical services will highlight the activities at two Washington churches this weekend.

At First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw., the entire morning service at 11 o'clock Sunday will be given by the three choirs of the church.

Whitford L. Hall, minister of music, will lead each of the choirs in several selections.

Three musical events are planned today and Sunday at First Baptist Church, 16th and O sts. nw.

At 8:30 p. m. today three former members of the church School of Choirs now attending the Westminster Choir College will give a recital. They are Carroll Kelly, tenor, Edwin Miller, baritone, and Nathalie Lutov, contralto.

On Sunday at 4:30 p. m. Harwood V. Hall, minister of music, will present the church's five choirs in a "Festival of Favorites" in the sanctuary.

The Carol, Junior, Crusader, Chapel, and Senior a Capella Choir will each sing several numbers separately, and the combined choirs will join in "Ho! Everyone That Thirsteth."

The Rev. Dr. Edward Hughes Pruden, pastor of the church, will preach on "A Singing Church." The afternoon service will take the place of the regular evening worship hour.

Three students of the School of Choirs will give a recital at 8:30 p. m. Sunday. They are Mary Ella Springston, contralto, Bobbie Scott, soprano, and Betty Mills, mezzo soprano. The student recital will be in the lower auditorium of the church.

Grace Episcopal To Mark 110th Year of Founding

Grace Episcopal Church, 402 9th st. sw., will mark the 110th anniversary of the founding of the parish at two services Sunday.

At the 11 a. m. communion service the preacher will be the Rev. H. Waldo Manley, rector of St. Paul's Church, Bantam, Conn.

A festival service, followed by a reception in the parish hall, will take place at 8 p. m.

Preacher at the service will be the Right Rev. G. Ashton Oldham, retired Episcopal Bishop of Albany, N. Y. He will be assisted by the rector of Grace Church, the Rev. Meade Bolton MacBryde, the Rev. J. Manley Cobb, the Rev. W. Lloyd Goodrich, the Rev. Henry H. Clement, the Rev. D. Wade Safford and Mr. Manley.

Catholic Minor Seminary Topic

Work of the Catholic minor seminary is being discussed at a three-day conference which opened yesterday at the Catholic University of America.

The minor seminary prepares men for the priesthood. Steps in organization and administration of the seminaries are topics at the meetings in Shahan Hall.

Codirectors of the conference are the Rev. Dr. Michael J. McKeough of the university department of education and the Rev. Dr. John P. Lernihan of St. Mary's College, Northeast, Pa.

Silver Spring Woodside Church Plans Addition

Preliminary plans for a $165,000 religious education and recreational building have been approved by the members of Woodside Methodist Church, 8814 Georgia ave., Silver Spring, Md.

To be constructed is a two-story addition north of the present religious education unit. It will contain eight class rooms on the second floor, and a new social hall on the ground floor.

The present educational unit will be remodeled to provide additional classrooms.

Trustees of the church have been authorized to incur an indebtedness up to $100,000 for the addition. This fund will supplement gifts and pledges of $68,000 obtained during a fund drive in October.

Lutheran Synod Meets This Week In Gettysburg

The 131st annual convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Maryland will meet at Gettysburg, Pa., Monday through Wednesday.

Thirteen parishes in Greater Washington are included in the synod. Pastors and laymen from these churches will attend the sessions, which will be held at the Lutheran Theological Seminary.

Lay and clerical delegates to the biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church in America, to be held in Des Moines in October, will be elected.

Capital Mormons Plan Observance Of Anniversary

The Washington stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints will mark the tenth anniversary of its organization at a quarterly conference today and Sunday.

Sessions will be at the Washington Mormon Chapel, 16th st. and Columbia rd. nw.

Dr. John A. Widsoe of Salt Lake City, a member of the Quorum of Twelve Apostles, will represent general authorities of the church at the sessions, which will take place at 6:30 p. m. today and 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. Sunday.

Members of the Mutual Improvement Association will give a concert at 6:30 p. m. Sunday.

A stake is comparable to a diocese. The Washington stake has about 3000 members in Greater Washington, Richmond, Va.; Baltimore, Md., and Waynesboro, Pa.

Sen. Mundt to Speak

Senator Karl E. Mundt (R., S. Dak.) will speak at a patriotic rally at Ryland Methodist Church, Branch ave. and S st., se., at 8 p. m. Sunday.

Unitarian
EMERSON'S CHURCH
Ralph Waldo Emerson, renowned Unitarian and American poet, said: "There will be a new church, founded on moral science: at first cold and naked, a babe in the manger, the Algebra and mathematics of ethical law, the church of men to come, without hymn or psaltery or sackbut; but it will have heaven and earth for its beams and rafters: science for symbol and illustration: it will fast enough gather the beauty, music, picture, poetry. The nameless power, the super-personal heart; he shall repose alone on that."

Archbishop O'Boyle Returns From Rome

Church Honors Charter Member

EDWARD H. BETTS, 87, only surviving charter member of the Eastern Presbyterian Church, 6th and Maryland ave. ne., has received a certificate of merit from the pastor, the Rev. William Nesbit Vincent, in recognition of his long service to the church. Betts was one of 33 charter members of the church, founded on May 19, 1875. A diamond jubilee service will be held 11 a. m. Sunday to mark the anniversary

The Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, landed in New York yesterday and is due to arrive here today after a four-week trip with District area pilgrims to Rome for the Holy Year.

He will celebrate a solemn mass at St. Matthews Cathedral at 10 a. m. Sunday, when he will preach a sermon on the spiritual experiences of the pilgrimage.

Most of the 250 pilgrims who went to Rome with Archbishop O'Boyle and the Very Rev. John S. Spence, director of education for the archdiocese, remained in Europe for a tour.

The archbishop was the recipient of many honors in France before he and the group of pilgrims were granted an audience with Pope Pius XII on their arrival in Rome.

He was made an honorary canon of Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris and was commended by Foreign Minister Robert Schuman as a citizen of France for his relief work during World War II.

A group of the Washington clergy met Archbishop O'Boyle and others of the party who returned with him when they docked aboard the Ile de France yesterday.

While in Rome the archbishop was guest of honor at a reception given by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Baldelli, president of the Pontifical Relief Commission.

In accepting an expression of gratitude for the work of American Catholics in behalf of Italians, Archbishop O'Boyle said this country owes a debt to Italy, whose missionaries brought the Christian faith to America.

Area Disciples To Hold Annual Convention Here

The seventy-third annual convention of the Capital area Disciples of Christ Churches will take place Monday through Wednesday at Ninth Street Christian Church, 9th and D sts. ne.

More than 500 pastors and laymen from the District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania are expected to attend the meeting.

Speakers will include the Rev. Dr. J. Warren Hastings, pastor of National City Christian Church, Mrs. George Earle Owen, on furlough as a missionary in Argentina, and the Rev. Glendale Burton, pastor of Wilson Boulevard Christian Church, Arlington, and president of the convention.

Registration will begin at 3 p. m. Monday. The Rev. William J. Lineback, general secretary of the capital area Christian Missionary Society, will preside at the opening dinner at 6:15 p. m. Monday.

2 Churches to Hear Methodist Missionary

Dr. Samuel Forsyth, superintendent of the Central Methodist Mission, Adelaide, Australia, will speak at two churches Sunday.

At 9 and 11:15 a. m. he will preach at Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, 900 Massachusetts ave. nw., and at 8 p. m. at Foundry Methodist Church, 16th and P sts. nw. He is a former president of the Methodist Conference of South Australia.

It's 75 Years For Eastern Presbyterian

Eastern Presbyterian Church, 6th st. and Maryland ave. ne., will celebrate its diamond jubilee with a thanksgiving service of Holy Communion at 11 a. m. Sunday.

The Rev. William Nesbit Vincent, minister, will conduct the service, and the Rev. Dr. Alfred E. Barrows, pastor-emeritus, will officiate at the celebration of Holy Communion.

Guest of honor will be Edward H. Betts, 87, 1102 L st. nw., only surviving charter member of the congregation. The church was incorporated on May 19, 1875, by 33 charter members.

First services were held in the home of Bett's parents, where a group of young men, most of them from Fourth Presbyterian Church, met for Sunday school classes.

C. T. Clayton, an elder of Fourth Church, will represent the Presbytery of Washington City at the jubilee service, and extend the official greetings.

Five hundred new hymnals, many of them memorial gifts to the church, will be dedicated at the service.

Dr. Banks to Conduct Healing Mission Monday

The Rev. Dr. John Gaynor Banks, warden of the Order of St. Luke, will conduct healing missions at St. John's Episcopal Church, Lafayette sq., at 12 noon and 8 p. m. Monday.

Dr. Banks, who is a graduate psychologist and an Episcopal priest, conducted a five-day healing mission at the church last February.

Fleet Reserve Dance

Branch 4 of the Fleet Reserve Association will hold an Armed Forces Day dance at 8 p. m. today at the officers' mess hall, Naval Receiving Station, Anacostia. It is for benefit of the Sea Explorer Ship, Hartford, Boy Scouts of America.

Consecrated Archbishop

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

. . . DESPITE HIS PROTEST—Msgr. Franz Jachym (center) leaves St. Marys Dell 'Anima in Rome yesterday after he was consecrated as Archbishop Coadjutor to assist Theodor Cardinal Innitzer, head of the Roman Catholic Church in Austria. Last month Msgr. Jachym refused to be consecrated in Vienna, explaining he considered himself unworthy

Priest Balking At Elevation Is Consecrated

Rome, May 19 (AP)—Franz Jachym of Vienna—the earnest, 39-year-old priest who last month protested he was not worthy of an archbishop's rank—today was raised to the position in solemn Roman Catholic consecration rites.

With downcast eyes and a face showing intense emotional stress, the new titular Archbishop of Maronea moved among 2000 German and Austrian Holy Year pilgrims, moving his right hand in its first episcopal blessing. He is one of the youngest priests to hold such high church office.

Msgr. Jachym caused a stir when he dramatically refused to be consecrated in Vienna April 23 and walked out of the church. Pope Pius XII later refused to accept Msgr. Jachym's decision.

The priest today gave no indication of the reasons that had prompted him to his action.

Theodor Cardinal Innitzer, Archbishop of Vienna, served as consecrating bishop at the ceremonies today in the German church in Rome, St. Mary's Dell'Anima.

Eldbrooke Methodist Celebrating Birthday

As part of a week-long celebration of its 110th anniversary, Eldbrooke Methodist Church, River rd., at Wisconsin ave. nw., will observe anniversary day Sunday.

The Rev. Dr. Fred G. Holloway, president of Drew University, will preach at 11 a. m. At 8 p. m. Robert L. Landers will direct the sanctuary choir, assisted by members of the Air Force Symphony Orchestra, in a concert.

Citizens Build Montgomery Farm Center

Montgomery County's Agricultural Center will inaugurate "Big Week" today.

Thousands of county residents are expected to take part in the 29 construction projects at the center for a week beginning today. These include a new auditorium, 120 by 60 feet, which will provide room for recreational programs throughout the year as well as serve as show room for household exhibits in fair time.

Also planned are a dozen show barns and the excavation for a 60 by 100-foot swimming pool.

A lake, 600 by 1600 feet, already has been constructed and a half-mile sulky track to encircle the lake is to be built. In addition, work on the center's 10-acre picnic grounds with five fireplaces, picnic tables, and a large band shell for outdoor concerts are scheduled.

While all of the projects contemplated will not be completed during the week, it is expected that the center will be in shape for the opening of the annual county fair August 22.

All work on the center is by volunteers.

Rev. Duncan to Give First Sermon Sunday

The Rev. James Murchison Duncan will preach his first sermon as rector of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension and St. Agnes, 12th st. and Massachusetts ave. nw., at 11 a. m. Sunday.

He came to the church to succeed the Rev. Albert J. duBois.

shattered as completely as a fallen tumbler.

The councilman said every glass store front was smashed in.

The blast was felt as far as the Battery at the lower tip of New York's Manhattan Island, 22 miles away. Dishes danced on shelves in Staten Island in New York harbor and in lower Brooklyn across the bay from this stricken town.

Within minutes after the blast, emergency calls went out for doctors and nurses. Blood plasma, ambulances and blood donors. A procession of mercy set out by land and water.

The scene was one of confusion and blood.

Reporter Lewis said the town looked as if it had been raked by mortar fire and light bombs.

Some of the bleeding ran through the streets looking for their loved ones. People frantically tried to board up their homes and get out of town.

George Gundrum, a funeral director, packed his wife and children and their grandmother into a car and headed for the woods.

"I know they'll be safe if there is another explosion," he said.

12 Carloads of Shells

Just before the blast 12 railroad cars filled with shells and dynamite were pushed out onto the waterfront spur of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Five of them had been unloaded and then . . .

"It was all obliterated," reporter Lewis said. "Picture something that was there one minute, blink your eyes and it is all gone."

After the explosion aboard the four barges heroic firemen on fire barges moved in and towed two of the burning vessels into mid-stream of Raritan Bay and lay-to, pouring their hoses over the deadly cargo.

Other fireboats, several from New York area, puffed right up to the dock and poured water over the two unexploded barges and kept a steady stream playing on the blazing barges at the waterfront.

Troops from Fort Monmouth moved in immediately. Marines arrived by truck transports and patrolled the gloomy streets with bayonets fixed.

The New York chapter of the Red Cross sent 100 pints of blood by motorcycle convoy to the stricken area. Eastern area Red Cross headquarters in Washington immediately mobilized relief facilities to aid victims of the blast.

Perth Amboy General Hospital called back all of its 350 workers and set up cots in the corridors. One man who took his wife to the hospital for treatment said:

"It was a mad house, just terrible, just terrible."

The Coast Guard in New York sent "every ship we can get our hands on."

Troops Prevent Looting

Later in the evening the city quieted.

Marines, Army troops, State and city police patrolled the streets to prevent looting. The pounding of hammers broke the stillness as the few householders still at home tacked blankets over their windows in an attempt to keep out driving rain.

In a late count, Councilman O'Leary said 1400 homes were damaged — windows blown out, door blown off. The ornamental stained glass windows at the Christ Episcopal Church were blown out and pieces of slate were blown off the roof.

Refugees from the blast were taken into homes, churches and military bases. One thousand blankets were distributed among the population, and 4000 more were made ready at the storeroom at Fort Momnout.

Fort Monmouth also distributed 50 gas masks to rescue crews.

In one of the freaks of the explosion, Allen Smock, a boiler-room engineer, was only 200 feet away when the munitions went up, but he suffered only one small cut on the arm.

He was in the dead area of the explosion, a phenomenon that saved the lives of many soldiers during the war while others farther away were killed.

Georgetown Holds Vicennial Medal Celebration Today

The first annual Vicennial Medal celebration of Georgetown University will take place this morning in Dahlgren Chapel on the campus.

Awarded to members of the faculty and administration who have served 20 years or more in full-time capacities at Georgetown, the Vicennial Medal will be presented to 32 persons, four posthumously, by the Very Rev. Hunter Guthrie, S. J., University president.

Mass will be celebrated by President Guthrie in Dahlgren Chapel at 9 a. m. in honor of faculty and administration members, both living and dead. Presentation of awards will follow at a breakfast for the recipients and their wives.

The medal, engraved with the statue of Archbishop John Carroll, founder of the university, and the great seal of the university, will be presented annually to faculty and administration members who have achieved at least 20 years of full-time and continuous service at Georgetown.

GOP Gain of 10 Seats In Pennsylvania Seen

A Pennsylvania Republican increase of 10 House seats was predicted yesterday by Representative Simpson (R., Pa.) as a result of Tuesday's primary elections.

Simpson did not name the districts in which he expects the Republicans to win away seats from the Democrats, but if his forecast comes true the division of the State's congressional delegation would return to what it was in the Eightieth Congress—28 Republicans to five Democrats. It is now 18 to 15.

Explosion Disasters of Past 30 Years

Here are major explosition disasters of the last 30 years:

December 6, 1917—1600 persons killed off Halifax when a munitions ship and a relief ship collided.

May 8, 1918—More than 200 killed in Aetna Chemical Co. plant near Pittsburgh.

October 5, 1918—Nearly 100 killed at Gillespie Loading Co. plant at Morgan, N. J.

May 15, 1929—100 killed in Cleveland, Ohio, hospital X-ray film explosion.

March 18, 1937—294 children and teachers died in gas blast at New London (Tex.) schoolhouse.

January 3, 1944—More than 100 killed when destroyer Turner exploded in New York Bay.

October 21, 1944—At least 135 killed in explosion and fire at the East Ohio Gas Co. storage plant in Cleveland.

July 17, 1944—322 killed in Navy ammunition depot explosion at Port Chicago, Calif.

April 16, 1947—468 killed in Texas City, Tex., ship-shore explosion.

August 19, 1947—153 die in arsenal explosion at Cadiz, Spain.

YMCAs to Be Continued In Red Countries

Buffalo, N. Y., May 19 (AP).—The national board of the Young Men's Christian Association said today Y's in the United States will continue to cooperate with legitimate ones in Communist-dominated countries.

The statement of policy was made today to 500 lay and professional leaders attending the opening session of the twenty-fourth annual meeting of the national council of YMCAs. The board is the council's administrative group.

The report disclosed that no YMCA in China has been shut down since that nation came under a Communist regime and that Ys still are operating in the three other Communist-dominated countries — Hungary, Romania and Czechoslovakia.

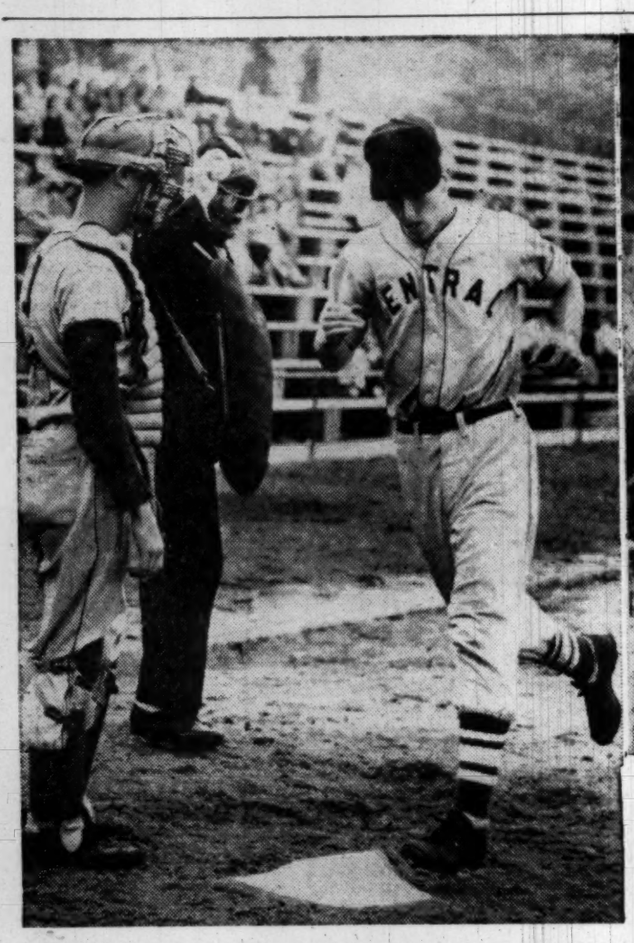
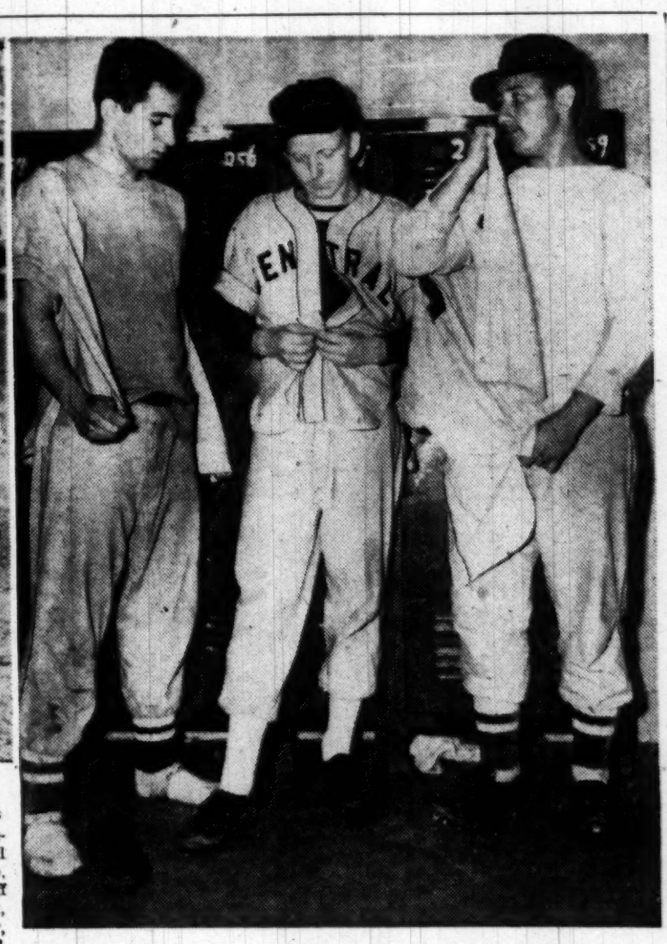
Hill Prince 8-5 in Preakness; Off Track Likely





The Last Page in Central's Baseball History . . .

By Tom Kelley—The Washington Post

LAST OF CENTRAL—The last baseball game ever to be engaged in by a Central High School team was played yesterday at the Roosevelt Stadium. The Central High plant will be turned over to Cardoza next fall. Left, George Cozzens, center fielder, crosses home plate on the last home run hit by a player in a Central uniform. Alva Griffin, Roosevelt catcher, and Joe Tereshinki, umpire, look on. Center, last Central run, scored by Pete Chaconas, shortstop, on a wild pitch. Right, players taking off Central uniforms last time, left to right, Chaconas, George Burrows, left fielder, and Joe Ofano, catcher. Roosevelt won, 3-2.

Middlegr'd, Mr. Trouble Are Rated Top Threats

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Pimlico, May 19.—The Woodlawn Vase, emblematic of Preakness victory, was singing "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginny" here tonight as Hill Prince, representing the Old Dominion, became more entrenched than ever as the favorite for the morrow's 74th running of the Maryland classic.

The majority of 30,000 fans were expected to come ready to play put-and-take on the Virginia colt—put $5 in the window and take an $8 profit. Despite the build-up of Mr. Trouble, the Derby victory of Middleground and the appearance of two Maryland-breds in the overnight field of seven, most line-makers held Hill Prince the choice at 8-5.

However, only one thing appeared fairly certain as darkness settled over ancient Pimlico, and that was an off track. Today's program was conducted over a muddy strip that hardly could reach more than a slow condition before the 5:17 p. m. post time for the big event.

Mud No Concern to Big 3

Handlers of the big three—Hill Prince, Middleground and Mr. Trouble—were not concerned with the promise of deep gumbo at old Pimlico. The soggy going would mean the scratching of Arcave, however, and the saddling of Dooly, the latter a mud-loving stablemate of Mr. Trouble. Thus a starting group of six seems assured.

The vest-pocket size of the field to the contrary, the 1950 Preakness shapes up as a thrill-promising battle. Hill Prince will be there to atone for his Derby defeat, caused, many believed, by trouble that Jockey Eddie Arcaro denied.

Middleground will be there to prove his Derby victory was not a fluke. Mr. Trouble will be there to show he might have made his move too soon at Louisville.

Kinsman will be there to reveal a return to his great Florida form. Balkan will be there to exhibit more of the steady improvement shown this spring. Dooly will be there to reveal that mud does make a difference.

Has Intersectional Flavor

But just which colt will be there—in the winner's circle—remains to be seen, if you're an on-the-scene or television watcher, or heard if you're a radio listener.

Intersectional angles remain despite the withdrawal of the West Coast's Your Host, Christopher T. Chenery's Hill Prince, as aforementioned is Virginia-bred, S. W. Labrot, jr.'s Orcave and his sister-in-law's (Mrs. W. H. (Labrot) Balkan are Maryland-bred, King Ranch's Middleground and Mrs James Carson's Kinsman are Texas-bred, while C. V. Whitney's Mr. Trouble and Dooly are Kentucky-bred.

Just as the line-up was the anticipated one, the riding assignments were not surprising. However, Ira Hanford, who as an apprentice won the 1936 Derby with Bold Venture took the mount on Balkan, replacing Ronnie Nash who elected to ride tomorrow in Jersey. Willie Lynch will be up on Dooly if the colt goes.

The draw for posts positions was not considered too important due to the small field. Hill Prince

Yanks Beat Chisox, On DiMag's Hit

Chicago, May 19 (AP).—Joe DiMaggio's third-inning single accounted for both runs to decide a pitchers' duel between Tommy Byrne and young Bob Cain as the New York Yankees defeated the Chicago White Sox, 2-0, tonight before 23,691 persons.

Each pitcher allowed three hits as Byrne gained his third decision in New York's revenge for a 15-0 kayo of the Yankees by Cain in Yankee Stadium May 4.

The victory, New York's tenth in the past 12 games, enabled the Yankees to retain first place in American League standings with a full game edge over second-place Detroit.

Byrne also had a hand in launching the only successful offensive spurt of the game. Tommy drew the second of three walks Cain surrendered to open the third inning.

Joe Collins doubled to right after Phil Rizzuto fouled out, and Byrne stopped at third. DiMaggio lined Cain's first pitch into left field for a single, scoring Byrne and Collins.

Byrne walked only four White Sox batters as the eighth-place Chicago team suffered its eleventh beating in the past 12 games. Tommy struck out six batters, a figure Cain also matched in the two-hour eight-minute contest.

Harris Completely Satisfied

Combs and Dente Combine To Solve Nats' Infield Woes

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

St. Louis, May 19.—Bucky Harris, with a natural curiosity about a new employe, sought out Sam Dente two weeks ago after the Nats swung the deal that brought Shortstop Merrill Combs from the Red Sox.

"Tell me about this fellow Combs," he asked Dente. "You played with him at Louisville."

The answer he got reeked with baseball idiom. "Combs?" said Dente reflectively. "Not much wood, but a lot of leather."

Even as a mother understands the Chinese glub-glub of her 10-month-old, baseball man Harris knew what Dente was meaning. Not much wood—just a fair sort of hitter, with not much power. But a lot of leather—ah, that means Combs could do things with his glove around shortstop.

And Combs has been doing things around shortstop these past 10 games in a manner to make Harris the happiest manager in the league. The cast-off from the Red Sox has solved Harris' infield problem.

He enabled Harris to shift the versatile Dente from short to second base, and plug that post which had been a running sore with neither Al Kozar nor Sherry Robertson able to man the job adequately.

"I'm now praying that they'll hit ground balls off our pitching," said Harris. "With Yost and Combs and Dente and Robinson out there for us, I can sit on the bench and feel relaxed any time a ball is hit on the ground. Now we can make that double play."

Combs, though, has proved doubly welcome to Harris. Tabbed as not much of a hitter, he has been shut out in only one of the 10 games he's played, and sports a gaudy .355 average. Twice his hits decided ball games.

Harris had never seen Combs play except in two games for the Red Sox in Florida last spring, but managers have been talking about his fielding ability for three years. "I never thought we'd get him from the Red Sox," said Harris. "But they wanted Clyde Vollmer badly. When they finally mentioned Combs' name, we leaped at the deal.

"When Dente said he would take a shot at second base, that was good enough for me," said Harris.

In the early days of the switch, Dente was a bit rusty at the job he hadn't essayed since 1946 when he played 40 games at Scranton at second base. Every day, recently, he's been improving spectacularly.

Dente had Chico Carrasquel of the White Sox moaning in Chicago after he twice went far behind second to spear Carrasquel's hot smashes and throw him out with ease, with rifle-shots to first.

"Hey, you, robbair," said Carrasquel as they passed each other at the end of the inning.

Dente was grinning. "That ain't nothing, Chico," he said. "Wait 'til I get used to this position."

Nats Rained Out, Weik Pitches Today

St. Louis, May 19.—An afternoon downpour washed out the Nats-Browns opener scheduled to be played here tonight.

Trying for their fifth straight victory and tenth in their last 13 starts, the Nats will send Dick Weik against the Browns tomorrow afternoon. Right-hander Ned Garver will pitch for the Brownies.

Central Plays Last Game, Loses, 3-2

Central High's Vikings ended a long proud baseball history yesterday as they lost, 3-2, to Roosevelt at the winners' field.

Effective next September, Central High becomes Cardozo and will be used for colored students. Present plans are to rename Roosevelt as Rossevelt-Central High School.

Two wild pitches by Vike hurler Al Young in the third inning allowed Roosevelt's second and third runs. George Cozzens homered for Central in the fourth.

Jimmy Sullivan came through with another sparkling pitching effort as he hurled Honeywell School to a 1-0 victory over Devitt Prep yesterday at Devitt. Sullivan turned in his second two-hitter of the year. He also has a no-hitter and a one-hitter to his credit.

John Souders singled across Charlie Avery in the seventh inning with the winning run. Sullivan fanned nine.

Yankees May Land Kuzava

Chicago, May 19 (AP).—Frank Lane, general manager of the Chicago White Sox, and New York Yankee manager Casey Stengel favorably discussed tonight a deal whereby the Sox would send a left handed pitcher — probably Bob Kuzava—to New York in exchange for three or four players.

First baseman Joe Collins, catcher Ralph Houk, pitcher Fred Sanford and possibly outfielder Gene Woodling were mentioned as being ticketed for the tail-enders.

Stengel, lacking authority to close the deal, telephoned George Weiss, Yank general manager, in New York and discussed the barter. Weiss, in turn, called Lane and spoke for nearly half an hour. The New York executive asked for time to think it over.

After hanging up, Lane said, "Casey and I agree. If Casey can talk Weiss into it, we'll be happy to go through with it. You can say that, as of this evening, negotiations are still under way."

Zoldak, Tribe Beat Bosox

Cleveland, May 19 (AP).—Pitcher Sam Zoldak's relief work paved the way for Cleveland's 4-1 win over the Boston Red Sox tonight.

When Bobby Doerr's line drive bruised Mike Garcia's right wrist in the second inning, Zoldak took over and allowed but one run on six hits for the rest of the game.

It was the first win of the season for Zoldak, who had been told earlier this week he would be sent to San Diego in the Pacific Coast League. The Tribe management later changed its mind and kept the chucker who has lost one game.

He took over in the third after Garcia was relieved and in the seventh he singled to drive in Ray Boone with Cleveland's last run.

Tigers Rout A's, 14-8 On 10-Run Inning

Detroit, May 19 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers, who found out yesterday that 12 runs weren't enough to beat the Boston Red Sox, banged over 14 today as they whipped the Philadelphia Athletics 14-8 with the help of a ten-run fifth inning.

Freddie Hutchinson, the loser in the Tigers' 13-12 setback at the hands of Boston, turned in a fairly impressive relief performance today to get credit for his third win.

The Tigers just about settled the game with a 10-run outburst in the fifth inning. Fourteen men went to bat in that spree with eight hits, four errors, a walk, a hit batter and a wild pitch being chalked up.

Snead Trails Clark by One

Los Angeles, May 19 (AP).—A curly headed pro from suburban Huntington Beach edged out the mighty Sam Snead for the lead today in the $15,000 Western Open.

Jimmy Clark, 29, put a 2-under-par 69 with his 70 of yesterday to finish the first 36 holes in this forty-seventh renewal of one of golf's classics with a sparkling 139.

The best Snead could do was an even-par 71 which, with yesterday's 69, gave him 140 for the halfway mark of the tourney, being played over the Brentwood Country Club course.

Jack Gage, 35-year-old local professional, slipped from yesterday's 69 to a 73 today, and wound up par even 142.

Brooklyn Beats Jets Again, 15-14

Coach Ken Monte made it two in a row for the Brooklyn Red Devils over the Washington Jets last night before 5214 spectators at Uline Arena, 15-14.

Monte scored the winning point in the last 1:30 and then blocked off a final bid of Washington's Buddy Kemp as he checked the Washingtonian over the top rail in the final 30 seconds. The same teams meet tonight at Uline's.

House Unit OKs Highs' Sports Fund

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

The House District Committee yesterday recommended that Congress, for the first time, appropriate money to buy equipment for the high school athletes of Washington. The amount proposed is $28,000.

At the same time, the committee declared that the present method of administering and financing school sports here needs overhauling.

It suggested the junking of the system whereby each school must depend on its own gate receipts to supply its needs.

And the committee directed that Superintendent of Schools Hobart M. Corning, make a thorough study "with a view toward establishment of a working capital fund" based on gate receipts or appropriated funds or both, and administered by a central control.

Seven Still Owe Money

Under the present system, seven of the 14 high schools spent more on equipment last year than they took in at their games. They still owe more than $2000.

Although the $28,000 appropriation recommended is generally regarded as inadequate, it was termed "a wedge" by a ranking school official.

It's the first time that Congress has acknowledged that athletics are an integral part of the educational curriculum.

"Although it doesn't put us in luxury," another school head said, "the appropriation will mean that a football player coming off the field will not have to hand his helmet to his substitute. More youngsters will have better equipment."

Tech Wants Money

Also on the list of recommendations which go up before the House Tuesday is a $40,000 item to renovate McKinley Tech's gymnasium. It would be spent to increase the seating so 3000 spectators could watch interhigh basketball within D. C. fire regulations. With four exits there now, the egress law permits only 700 to attend games.

Rejected by the committee were requests for money to expand athletic facilities at Dunbar and Anacostia. Dunbar asked for $200,000 to get land for a stadium. Anacostia wanted a slice of land adjacent to its football field so that a quarter-mile track could be constructed around its perimeter.

Lanham Stock Car Race Opener Halted

Last night's opening of stock car racing at Lanham Speedway was postponed due to threatening weather.

Track management said the same program will go next Friday night.

Cooper, Titone Windup Drills At Turner's Today

Charlie Titone and Jimmy Cooper conclude final training today with a double workout for their scheduled 10-round main fight at Griffith Stadium next Monday night.

The Brooklyn Italian featherweight and his local Negro opponent both will complete their drills at Turner's Arena, with Cooper working at 2 p. m. and Titone entering the ring at 2:30.

Titone, who has been boxing from four to six rounds daily for more than the past week, will only work two rounds today and taper off in a light session on the punching bags. He trains today with Little Dynamite.

Tickets for the fight remain on sale today at Turner's but switch to the ball park only Monday morning. The program will not be televised nor broadcast.

Late Rally Fails

Dixiecrats, Fair Dealers Stick Together, Drub GOP in Congressional Ball Game, 8-4

By Don Lief

THE DEMOCRATS had a Grand Old Party last night winning the annual congressinal baseball game from the Republicans by an 8-4 majority at Griffith Stadium before 711 voteless fans.

A three-run Republican rally in the fifth inning failed to stem the Democratic tide.

Representative Bill Wheeler (D., Ga., served two separate terms on the mound and throttled the GOP sluggers with two hits in his 3 1/3 innings. He allowed one hit in the first three innings, and "retired." But when reliefer Hugh Addoznio (D., N. J.) faltered in the fifth, Wheeler returned to end the Republican rally.

Wheeler socked a lusty double in the second inning to knock in Representative Gary Clemente (D., N. Y.). The cooperation between the Dixiecrat and Fair Deal wings of the party was helped along by Democratic Whip Francis Walter (D., Pa.), whose mastery of an 8-foot bullwhip kept the two groups together.

The Democrats teed off on Republican starter Representative Glenn Davis (Wis.) for three runs in the first inning on two hits; Representative Foster Furculo (Mass.), doubled and scored on Olin Teague's single to right. Representative Eugene McCarthy (Minn.), walked.

AFTER TEAGUE scored on a wild pitch, McCarthy showed his stuff; with no one on the base paths to slow him down, he stole third and home.

Representative George Smathers, recent winner in the Florida Democratic primary for Senator, walked and, two pitches later, was on third, after a stolen base and another passed ball by GOP catcher, Representative John Saylor (Pa.)

The late Republican rally started with Representative Harold Hagen (R., Minn.), doubling to knock in Senator Harry Cain (R., Wash.), the second GOP hurler. Two more singles drove in the other two runs, but Wheeler's return squelshed the threat.

Bobby Jones 'Doing Nicely'

Boston, May 19 (AP).—Former golf king Bobby Jones was described tonight as "doing very nicely" at the New England Baptist Hospital, where he underwent a five-hour operation yesterday to correct an old spinal ailment.

A hospital spokesman said a severe pain which Jones felt in his left arm after the operation "is almost completely gone."

He added it is still too soon to determine if the operation, to relieve pressure on the spinal cord, was successful.

Surgery was recommended by Dr. Frank Lahey, head of the Lahey Clinic, who said an examination showed a "bone near the base of the skull" was causing pressure on the spine.

Ground will be broken today for Georgetown's $860,000 McDonough Memorial Gymnasium.

The Very Rev. Hunter Guthrie, S. J., president, will officiate at ceremonies starting at 11:30 a. m.

A full sports program also is planned, headed by the Maryland-Hoya baseball game. The Terps hold a 3-2 decision over Joe Judge's men.

The game gets under way at 2:30 p. m., same time as the Blue-Gray intrasquad basketball contest, the last scheduled for Ryan Gym.

Ex-Card Shoots Wife, Kills Self

Everly, Iowa, May 19 (U.P.).—A former major league baseball player shot his wife fatally, and then killed himself today shortly after talking to his landlord about rental problems.

He was Roscoe (Wattie) Holm, 48, An outfielder on the world championship St. Louis Cardinals of 1926 and a third baseman on the National League pennant winning Cards of 1928.

PREAKNESS—Fr. P. 14

Hill Prince 8-5 Today

breaks from No. 1, closest to the inside rail, a place where most horsemen believe he would be anyway in the early stages.

The mud, if it stays will be the first seen in a Preakness since Challedon won in 1939 and gives the Whitney entry a possible one-two punch—Mr. Trouble to run the ears off any colt trying to show early speed and Dooly to come along with the fast-losers.

Preakness activity at Pimlico began at 7:58 a. m. when Sylvester E. Veitch, trainer of the Whitney Stable, made an appearance at the entry box, signing the slip which placed Mr. Trouble and Dooly officially in the race.

Twelve minutes later, the second entry for the Preakness arrived. Chick Lang, well known jockey agent and who will be agent tomorrow for Jockey William Boland, put King Ranch's Middleground in the Preakness. Lang had no comment to make on Middleground's chances, merely saying that he was making the entry because Trainer Max Hirsch was busy with other duties around the stable.

Balkan was the next Preakness nominee to be placed in the entries. William Caywood, foreman of the stable trained by R. F. Curran, put in an appearance.

J. J. Rowan, the youthful trainer of the S. W. Labrot string, was the next to arrive.

He placed Arcave's name on the list with the comment that his charge would go only "if the track is dry." Asked whether that meant a fast track was necessary, Rowan again replied that the track would have to be "dry."

J. H. (Casey) Hayes then walked into the secretary's office to drop Hill Prince's name in the entry box. Hayes was asked whether mud would bother his colt and his reply was a definite "No."

Gates for tomorrow's card will be opened at 9 o'clock and the usual rush for unreserved seats is expected, provided the weather is at all good.

Italian Champ Wins in Garden

G.W. High, 3 W-L Crews Gain Finals

Philadelphia, May 19.—One crew from George Washington High of Alexandria, Va., and three from Washington Lee High of Arlington, Va., slipped safely by the qualifying heats of the twentyfifth annual Stotesbury schoolboy rowing regatta here today.

Due to the large entry list, trial heats were held in six events with only the heat victors becoming eligible for tomorrow's finals. An overnight rain and occasional drizzles made the Schuykill River course extremely fast.

Washington and Lee's varsity eight took a big step forward in defense of the Stotesbury trophy by capturing its heat by three-quarters of a length over West Catholic and five lengths over Lower Merion. The Generals were clocked in 4 minutes 51 3/5 seconds over the mile course with the crew composed of Kado Beacham, Bow; Dave Scofield, 2; Wes Dalby, 3; Foster Smith, 4; Milt Irvin, 5; Paul Yager, 6; Roger Scott, 7; Pete Sparhawk, stroke, and Dick McCombs, coxswain.

In tomorrow's final W-L will face George Washington and Northeast High of Philly, the other heat winners. GW beat Nutley (N. J.) High by 2½ lengths in covering the distance in 5 minutes 18 3/5 seconds. Pulling oars for the Presidents were Paul Robey, jr., bow; Sonny Blackwell, 2; Willard Overholtzer, 3; Bob Silverstein, 4; Ronald Bolton, 5; Alex Smith, 6; Dick Bolton, 7; Lewis Bell, stroke, and Guerdon Trueblood, coxswain.

In the junior varsity competition W-L qualified but GW fell by the wayside. W-L's crew of Jerry Klutex, Dick Zollner, Dave Perkens, Mike Cullinane, Jack Owen, Art Geiger, Ed Darcey, Stroke Bernie Tullington and Reds Morse whipped West Catholic by 1¼ lengths in 5:02.

Meanwhile GW trailed Lower Merion and LaSalle across the finish line in its heat, finishing four lengths behind the winners. GW used John Raymond, Irvin Dodd, Walt Flowers, Jack Williams, Meade Kendrick, Jim Honeycutt, Lowell Suthard, Curtis Atkins and Bob Partridge in a losing cause.

It wasn't such a happy day for the W.-L.'s four as they finished five lengths behind victorious Belleville (N. J.) High and three lengths to the rear of St. Andrews (Del.) school.

W.-L.'s junior varsity four of Bert Robinson, Brant McNeilly, Fred Bryant, Bob Quakenbush and Bryant Forres, didn't have to qualify and will face Belleville and St. Andrews tomorrow.

Wilson High Takes Metro Meet Lead

Woodrow Wilson High opened its seventh annual metropolitan track meet yesterday by taking first place in the pole vault and second in the sprint medley relay. Only these two events were finals, nine schools will see action in the other finals beginning this afternoon at 2:30.

Carl Prigg of Wilson gave the host school a meet vault record of 11 feet 8¼ inches. Anacostia, co-favorites with Wilson, easily outran the field to win the sprint medley relay in 3:47.6.

Wilson leads in points with 12; Anacostia, 5; Coolidge, 3; Eastern and Central, 1, and the remaining schools entered—Roosevelt, McKinley, Western and Falls Church—are scoreless.

220-YARD DASH—(Qualifiers.) Douse (CC), King (A), Rosenblatt (C), time 23.6; Sheats (WW), Gaskell (T), Wilson (WW), time 23.6.

DISCUS—(Qualifiers.) Boyle (R), 117 ft. 7 in., Widener (C), 110 ft. 8 in.; Jacobson (CC), 100 ft.; Miller (E), 103 ft. 2½ in.; Sullivan (A), 102 ft. 3 in.

Carolina Leads League Meet

Chapel Hill, N. C., May 19 (AP).—North Carolina Sophomore Bill Albans figured in all three record performances produced today as the qualifying trials cut the Southern Conference track meet down to size for tomorrow's finals.

The big 6-footer from New Jersey paced the defending champion Tar Heels with a smashing performance that saw him:

1. Set a new conference record of :23.2 in the 220-yard low hurdles.
2. Tie the conference record of :14.3 in the 120-yard high hurdles.
3. Set a new Fetzer Field record of 24 feet, 10 inches in the broad jump. The conference record of 25 feet, 6¾ inches was set by Eddie Hamm of Georgia Tech in 1928 when the meet was held at Birmingham.

North Carolina, winner of the last three conference meets, qualified 20 men in the 10 events in which competition was held today. Runnerup Maryland placed 14, Duke 11. Other placings: North Carolina State 6, VPI, South Carolina and Davidson two each and Clemson, VMI and William and Mary one each.

Businessmen Ask Truman to Back '51 Freedom Fair

Federation Bitter About Cancellation; Congressman Seeks Probe of Fund Use

By Thomas Winship
Post Reporter

The Federation of Businessmen's Associations, Inc., yesterday delivered a letter to President Truman declaring "we need . . . and want" the Freedom Fair and urged him to do everything in his power to revive the fair.

Last week the Sesqui executive commission recommended abandonment of the elaborate industry and labor exposition, slated to open in April, 1951.

Washington's small businessmen made their appeal to the White House in answer to the President's comment Thursday that the people of Washington do not seem to want the fair.

Shock Expressed

Said the letter, signed by the association's recently formed Freedom Fair committee:

"We are deeply shocked and sincerely grieved to learn that there may not be a Freedom Fair. Neither the citizens of Washington nor the businessmen have ever been consulted or asked to help in any way whatsoever to make Freedom Fair an actuality."

The letter told the President of a resolution which the businessmen's group adopted Wednesday urging that the fair be held, and then commented:

"We understand that only three members of the executive committee of the Sesquicentennial voted for the abandonment of this endeavor, and they were a District Commissioner, a lawyer, and a wife of a publisher. Do these represent the wishes of the people of Washington or the country?"

The members referred to are Commissioner John Russell Young, Joseph C. McGarraghy and Mrs. Philip L. Graham.

Ask Opportunity

The business group asked the opportunity to present their views before the full commission, which it was learned last night, may not be held until the week of May 28.

Eight of the full commission members are Congressmen, and a poll yesterday revealed a quorum could not be mastered next Tuesday or Thursday or any other day next week as originally planned.

Technically, the fate of Freedom Fair will hang in midair until the full commission does meet.

Meanwhile the House Appropriations Committee directed its staff yesterday to investigate how much of the Sesqui Commission's three-million-dollar appropriation can be returned to the Treasury in the event the fair is scrapped.

When the executive committee recommended cancellation of the fair, it also voted to place at least $1,250,000 in the commission's reserve fund for eventual return to Treasury.

Canfield Moves

Chairman Clarence Cannon (D., Mo.) of the House Appropriations group said Representative Gordon Canfield (R., N. J.), a longtime foe of the entire Sesqui celebration idea, moved that the investigation be made.

Sesqui officials have set aside more than $200,000 to cover possible claims for preliminary fair work already completed or contracted for.

In demanding the bookkeeping investigation, Canfield told his colleagues at a morning meeting that the fair appears to be out the window. He cited President Truman's comment Thursday to the effect that he (the President) wouldn't be surprised if it was finally abandoned.

Jerome B. McKee, president of the businessmen's federation, announced plans for a city-wide meeting at 8 p. m. next Wednesday in the board room of the District Building to give Washington citizenry and businessmen a chance to "show their real enthusiasm" for the project.

In addition to McKee, those who delivered their appeal to the White House yesterday were: J. A. Kamerow and Julia Gray, Freedom Fair committee cochairmen; I. A. Jerry, John L. C. Sullivan and Horace J. Meyers.

Locksmith Provides Key In Auto Case

A Three-A locksmiths, who did a A-1 job of sleuthing, provided the key to an attempted unauthorized auto use case yesterday.

The locksmith, Ash Smith, was sent out when American Automobile Association headquarters, 17th and G sts. nw., received a call that a motorist had lost his car keys and couldn't enter.

At the appointed place—1200 block of Otis pl. nw.—Smith met a man, later identified by police as William R. Smith, 39, an upholsterer of 3607 13th st. nw. He told him, Ash Smith said, that he'd lost the keys to his car standing nearby.

The locksmith opened the door, made a key for Upholsterer Smith and went on his way.

But a vague suspicion gnawed at Locksmith Smith's mind. He checked license numbers and found that the car was listed not to Upholsterer Smith but to a James Walker of 3437 13th st. nw.

Locksmith Smith called the police and Police Pvt. Russell P. Lovermore soon approached the parked car.

Livermore said he found Upholsterer Smith about to drive off. He said the latter told him he had just bought the car, but could offer no proof.

Walker was summoned. He identified the auto as his, but demanded "Where is my hat that was in the back?"

Police said the hat was later recovered in William Smith's room.

The latter was first charged with petit larceny. Yesterday an additional charge of attempted unauthorized use of an auto was levied against him.

To add to his woes, police said, he was stricken with pneumonia at the Tenth Precinct station and is now in Gallinger.

Family of 7 Still Seeking Home in Area

Several Washington area residents yesterday answered the plea of a mother of seven for living quarters for the family, but by evening they were still homeless.

Early yesterday the mother received a call about a rental house in Oxon Hill, Md.; but, after an expensive and long search to find the place, the woman was forced to turn it down.

"My husband couldn't possibly get to work from there. It's far beyond the bus service and we have no car," she said.

One man offered to sell a used house with little or no down payment, and a third suggested a house available June 13, but the family cannot stay on at the Salvation Army Emergency Home for Women and Children, 1608 New Hampshire ave. nw. "We've overstayed our time here now," the mother explained.

Her hope now centers around a six-room house in the District discovered yesterday by her husband, a painter. She will look at it today.

Oil Drum Explosion Injures D. C. Welder

William Mundy, 40, a welder, of 11 4th st. se., was slightly injured yesterday afternoon when an oil drum, to which he was welding a piece of steel, blew up. The accident occurred at the American Paint Products Co., 1112 O st. se. Mundy was taken to Casualty Hospital and treated for injuries to his arm.

When the explosion occurred, the Fire Department was called, but the fire was confined to the exploded oil drum. No other damage was reported.

The condition of John M. Picton, fire department was called, but the fire was confined to the exploded oil drum.

Preview of Nation's Military Might Seen by Thousands As Eye-Opener to First Unified Armed Forces Day Here

From divers to helicopters in action to a radio-controlled aircraft model taxiing down F st. before amazed spectators, the Armed Forces went on display here yesterday.

Thousands of area citizens viewed demonstrations, exhibits and a parade in pre-Armed-Forces-Day celebrations.

For a list of events scheduled today, see Page 1 of the main news section.

Heavy crowds turned out for "open-house" at three Navy installations.

At the Naval Gun Factory, several thousand persons saw how guns and such newer weapons as rocket-launchers are made and boarded naval ships. At special ceremonies Rear Admiral Frank G. Fahrion, NGF superintendent, presented gold pins to 1501 civilian employes whose service totals 36,000 years.

An estimated 5000 visitors paid a call on the United States Naval Ordnance Laboratory at Silver Spring. They saw a varied show which included helicopter demonstrations, Navy divers, bands, and such features as the supersonic wind tunnel and the NOL betatron.

At the Naval Hydrographic Office in Suitland, Md., 400 persons saw a demonstration in naval chart-making from start to finish—from surveying instruments to actual running of the presses which print the charts.

A 33-ton flame thrower from Aberdeen Proving Grounds was given a trial demonstration for the press at Bolling Air Force Base.

Other activities at Bolling included inflation of a pneumatic rubber building 80 feet long, 20 feet wide and 16 feet high.

Startling Plane

Downtown passersby were somewhat startled yesterday to see a 4½-foot model plane coming down the street with no visible means of locomotion.

Some thought a midget was hidden inside. Despite the fact the circus is in town, it wasn't so.

It was a radio-controlled model and the downtown tour was to publicize Armed Forces Day today.

Tailing the little plane in a pick-up truck was Air Force Sergt. Frank G. Juzbasic, who flicked switches to control it.

The model started in front of the White House and wound up at the Capitol Theather on F st. Women members of the Armed Services distributed handbills calling attention to the Armed Services show at Bolling Air Force Base today.

Nearly 10,000 persons jammed the Naval Ordnance Laboratory, White Oak, Md., yesterday to see a military show that was a prelude to today's demonstration at Bolling A. F. Force Base.

The visitors, who included nearly 2000 high school students, saw such scientific wonders as a jeep complete with pretty girl suspended by a plastic thread and the White Oak wind tunnels where breezes blew faster than the speed of sound.

A Marine Corps helicopter team demonstrated air-sea rescue techniques, an Army team gave infantry drills, and Navy divers performed in the deep-sea tank. The military show was believed to be the largest in suburban Maryland history.

Parade at Falls Church

Falls Church residents held their own celebration of Armed Forces Day yesterday, with a military-style parade highlighting the day's events.

About 1000 persons watched Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine units from nearby military bases strut down Broad and Cherry sts. to a reviewing stand on the Falls Church High School grounds.

Local Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Camp Fire Girls, American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars posts, and bands from Washington-Lee and Fairfax High Schools also marched in the parade.

A luncheon at the Dardanelles Restaurant launched the day's events, sponsored by the Greater Falls Church Chamber of Commerce. Following the parade at 3 p. m., the Balsa Beetles model airplane club staged an exhibition on the high school grounds.

Honor guests at the celebration included Maj. Gen. Orlando Ward, chief of the Army's historical division; Maj. Gen. Carl Brandt, director of Requirements for the Air Force; Rear Admiral George Russell, Judge Advocate General for the Navy; Brig. Gen. E. A. Pollock, chief of the Plans and Policies Division, USMC; Brig. Gen. Robert Eaton, deputy director of the Defense Department's legislative liaison office.

Virginia Justice Unlike District's, Man Finds Here

Earl C. Dyer, 31, of 1824 S st. nw., yesterday found Municipal Court isn't at all like Virginia when it comes to "beating a case."

On trial before Judge Armond W. Scott on charges of threatening his wife, Juanita J. Dyer, 28, of 1140 4th st. ne., on April 13, Dyer denied he had ever assaulted her on prior occasions.

His wife, who was sitting in the front row, spoke up excitedly to remind him, "Oh, yes you have.'

"Yeah, but I beat that case in Virginia," Dyer explained blithely.

"Well, this is one you are not going to beat," remarked Judge Scott, who gave Dyer a choice of posting a $100 peace bond for six months or spending 30 days in jail.

3 Train Crash Victims Go Home

Three of the five train passengers hospitalized because of injuries received in an Alexandria train crash Thursday night were discharged from Alexandria Hospital yesterday.

Eleven in all received nonserious injuries when a southbound train struck the rear of another southbound train that stopped for a red signal. The signal had been switched from green to red by a lightning bolt.

Discharged from the hospital yesterday were Mrs. Isabelle Segal, 33, and her daughter, Fonda, 7, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and James E. Ferguson, 62, of P st. ne.

Johnson is Confirmed For High Army Post

Winning $360 Slip Taken in Gaming Raid

A numbers bettor who beat the game for $360 as the result of a 60-cent bet on the winning 555 number yesterday wound up in the red after a police raid.

The slip with the bet was among a number of slips seized by police along with $800 in cash and an adding machine during a raid at 39 Massachusetts ave. nw.

Five women and nine men were arrested in the foray on what police described as the largest numbers "turn in" spot in town. All but four persons were released after questioning at the First Precinct station.

The latter were later released in $1500 bond each on charges of operating a lottery and possession of numbers slips.

They are Helen Reed, 50, of 41 Massachusetts ave. nw.; Robert C. Thorpe, 45, of 609 New Jersey ave. nw.; Wilhelmina Porter, 20, of 320 6th st. ne., and Annis Wyche, 41, of 15 Quincy pl. nw.

The raid was conducted by six detectives and one uniformed police sergeant.

CAA Names Five Sites in Support Of New Airport

Baltimore Terminal Not Suited for D. C. Traffic, Rentzell Tells House Hearing

By Richard Morris
Post Reporter

The Civil Aeronautics Administration went to bat before Congress for a new "intercontinental" airport near Washington yesterday and said it has five possible sites already picked out.

D. W. Rentzell, CAA administrator, after testifying before a House subcommittee, said three of the sites are between Annandale and Fairfax, Va., and two are east of Washington in Prince Georges County, near the Washington-Annapolis highway.

He said Greater Washington needs "another terminal airport facility . . . (one) of the intercontinental class, operated by the CAA under the same management as Washington National Airport."

And he emphatically stated that Baltimore's new Friendship International Airport, previously described as a "co-terminal" for Washington, will not fill the bill.

The transportation subcommittee of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee heard his testimony in considering a 14-million-dollar airport bill which already has passed the Senate. A similar House measure does not specify an appropriation.

Rentzell also ruled out the possibility of using Andrews Air Force Base as a means of lightening the commercial and military transport load at Washington National.

"The Department of Defense has advised that Andrews will be required exclusively for military purposes within the foreseeable future," he declared.

The CAA chief called Washington National a "saturated airport," and predicted an increase in traffic volume of 40 to 60 percent would be seen by 1955.

"It is essential that the two airports be as close together and as near to Metropolitan Washington as possible," he added.

Any attempt to use Friendship International would subject air carrier operations "to a substantial economic disadvantage, as compared to those using the other airport" (Washington National), Rentzell told the subcommittee.

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore on Thursday urged use of Friendship instead of building an "unneeded" additional facility near here.

Rentzell said the "significant fact" in opposition to such a plan is that it takes 13.7 minutes to travel by car from Washington National to the District, while it it takes 56 minutes to make the trip from Friendship.

He asked that the bills not be amended as has been suggested, to permit further public hearings on site preferences, since "there will be those who oppose the location, as well as those who favor it."

"Safety in operation" demands that the CAA be given a free rein in choosing a site, he said.

U. S. Loan Asked

D. C. Gets Hill Support for Water Plan

District engineers sold key leaders at the Capitol yesterday on the idea of 23 million dollars in Federal loans for expanding the Washington water system over the next decade.

But it was "no sale" on making the Federal Government pay at current rates for the water it gets from the District. For this water the Federal Government now pays one million dollars a year, and taxpayers absorb close to a quarter-million-dollar loss on the deal in terms of current rates.

Representative Howard W. Smith (D., Va.), chairman of the House District Fiscal Affairs Subcommittee, told District officials in a hearing that tampering with the Federal payment for water might keep the city from getting congressional sanction this session for the 23 million dollars in construction loans over the next decade.

Bills Introduced

After the hearing, Representative Smith and Senator Lester C. Hunt (D., Wyo.) introduced bills carrying the 23-million-dollar loan authority, but omitting the language proposed by the Commissioners to charge the Federal Government at current rates for the water it uses.

The hearing was conducted jointly by the House group, and the Senate District Fiscal Affairs Subcommittee headed by Senator Hunt. Both Hunt, and Senator Robert C. Hendrickson (R., N. J.) said they feel the loan bill should be enacted promptly.

They did so after hearing Brig. Gen. Gordon R. Young, District Engineer Commissioner, cite New York City's acute water shortage.

Better Distribution

He said prompt action is needed to avert such a crisis here—not in the basic Potomac River supply—but in the processing and distribution system. He said without the loans, the necessary expansion would force an unjust increase of some 80 percent in water rates during the next decade.

Harold A. Kemp, director of sanitary engineering, warned the overload now placed on the system by peak demands is at the danger point, with further strains raising a threat of contaminated water and disease.

Also testifying for the loan bill were David Auld, head of the Water Division, and Edwin A. Schmidt, chief engineer of the federally-operated water supply setup here.

Electric Rates Cut 1.2 Million In Md. Area

Baltimore, May 19 (AP).—Consolidated Gas & Electric Co. today announced a rate reduction on electricity which will save it customers about $1,250,000 a year.

The utility has about 391,000 electricity customers in Baltimore and a wide surrounding area that includes parts of Montgomery and Prince Georges counties.

The reduction was approved by Maryland's Public Service Commission.

The major share — a $926,000 annual cut in bills—goes to so-called general service users. These are stores, apartment buildings, and other commercial enterprises.

Residential users will be benefited by $150,000 a year. The company said the maximum reduction to a residential user in the city rate district would be about $1 a year, less than nine cents a month. Outside the city rate district, the maximum will be about $1.50 a year.

Customers using less than the minimum amount of power will not benefit.

Man Held on One Charge Pleads Guilty to 22 Others

Andrew Haywood Turner, 27, of 419 Temple ct. sw., who is awaiting trial on a charge of assaulting a policeman with his automobile, yesterday pleaded guilty in Municipal Court to 22 traffic charges.

Judge Nadine Gallagher referred the case to the probation officer and set June 9 as the date for sentencing.

Turner was arrested April 22 when he jumped into the Anacostia River at Buzzard's Point, after an 80-mile-an-hour chase by police from 14th and F sts. nw., where he had almost run down Patrolman Rudyard Hesse.

Brakeman is Held On Woman's Charge

A 40-year-old railroad brakeman yesterday was charged with raping an unemployed waitress whom he picked up in a saloon and who accompanied him to his room. He denied the charge.

The man, Nicholas Martella of 80 New York ave. nw. will be arraigned in Municipal Court today. The woman, 34 years old, said Martella held her captive at gunpoint in his room for four hours and raped her. Police found a pistol in the room.

District Board Asks Shift of Pool Funds

By V. R. Montanari
Post Reporter

The District Recreation Board declared yesterday it has no intention of impeding the Interior Department's plans for operating its six swimming pools here on a nonsegregated basis this summer.

A resolution to that effect, passed at a special meeting, also said the Interior Department's pool programs will be publicized by the Recreation Department.

In a further move to cooperate with the Interior Department's plans, the Recreation Board announced it is asking the District Commissioners for authority to transfer an appropriation of about $5000 for lifeguards to Interior.

Officials of the Interior Department's National Capital Parks office interpreted the resolution as a reversal of the board's attitude toward nonsegregated swimming.

Last month, they pointed out, the board turned down an offer by Interior to have the board operate the pools on an interracial basis. Morning swimming instruction classes previously have been run by the Recreation Department, and have been segregated.

On the other hand, the resolution passed yesterday was less positive in its language than one which failed to pass at a meeting last week and which would have offered "full cooperation" to the Interior Department.

Disagreement over the wording at last week's meeting resulted in yesterday's special meeting.

Plans have not been completed, Edward J. Kelly, assistant to the superintendent of National Capital Parks, said, but the pools will be run by Government Services, Inc., along the same pattern as last summer's program.

Banneker, Takoma and East Potomac pools will open June 5. McKinley, Francis and Anacostia pools are slated to open June 12.

Yesterday's resolution said the board wishes for the "successful operation" of the pools by Interior, adding that it "wishes to dispel any suggestion the action of the board in discontinuing its programs in the pools indicates or implies any intention on the part of the board to impede the Department of Interior's plan for operation of said pools."

The board also urged all persons using the pools to "deport themselves lawfully and with dignity so that no untoward incident may occur."

G. E. Walker Estate Set At $168,500

George E. Walker, Washington lumber dealer, who died here May 7, left an estate of $168,500 in cash and securities, according to a petition for probate of his will, filed yesterday in District Court.

Forty percent of the stock he owned in the lumber company which he founded, will go to his son, Channing S. Walker, of 5070 Millwood la. nw., who was also bequeathed $2500 cash. Channing Walker's wife, Helen, will receive $2000, and $2000 will be placed in trust for their two daughters, according to the will.

Mr. Walker also bequeathed $1000 to the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, $5000 each to his sisters, Etta M. Walker and Elinor G. Walker, both of 4550 Connecticut ave. nw., and $250 to the Walker's maid, Jo Frances Holland.

The remainder of the estate goes to his wife, Mrs. Annie A. Walker of the Kennedy-Warren, who, with the son, was named executor of the estate.

C. B. Dulcan Sr. Elected To Newly-Created Post

Charles B. Dulcan, sr., vice president and general manager of The Hecht Co. Washington, was elected yesterday to the newly-created post of executive vice president of The Hecht Co. corporation.

As one of three newly-elected executive vice presidents of the corporation, Dulcan will be primarily responsible for the direction and development of Hecht Co. stores in Washington and Silver Spring and in Virginia, which is scheduled for opening next year.

The election followed the corporation's annual meeting which previously approved changes in the by-laws creating three executive vice president posts. Elected as executive vice presidents in addition to Dulcan, were Jay Jefferson Miller and Robert H. Levi.

Bishop Shaughnessy Dies Day Before His 63d Birthday

Seattle, May 19 (AP).—Solemn pontifical high mass for the Most Rev. Gerald Shaughnessy, Bishop of the Catholic diocese of Seattle, will be held here at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday.

The bishop, whose diocese embraced western Washington, died yesterday afternoon. He would have been 63 today. He entered the priesthood and was the fourth bishop of the 100-year-old diocese.

He had been ailing since suffering a stroke three years ago.

Bishop Shaughnessy had headed the diocese for 17 years. He had been widely known as an educator previously, and was a member of the Society of Mary.

The Most Rev. Thomas A. Connolly, who has been bishop coadjutor, becomes the new bishop.

The new bishop studied for the priesthood at Menlo Park, Calif., from 1915 to 1926, and was ordained in 1926. He took a degree as doctor of canon law at Catholic University in Washington, D. C., in 1932.

Gen. Laubach Dies at 79 in Walter Reed

Brig. Gen. Howard Louis Laubach, USA ret., 79, died yesterday at Walter Reed Hospital, where he had been a tuberculosis patient for the past two years.

Gen. Laubach

Born in Allentown, Pa., General Laubach was graduated from West Point in 1893.

He served 17 years with the 23d Infantry Regiment, including three tours of duty in the Philippines, and was a member of the Army's General Staff for a total of 11 years.

He headed the Fourteenth Division at Battle Creek, Mich., for a time and was later commanding officer at the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Army base for several years, beginning about 1929.

He became a brigadier general in the early 1930s, several years before his retirement. He made his home in St. Petersburg, Fla., after retiring.

General Laubach leaves his wife, the former Katherine Hague, whom he married in 1895. A daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Hall, of 3616 Van Ness st. nw., also survives.

Services will be held at 10 a. m. Tuesday in the Fort Myer Chapel, with burial in Arlington Cemetery.

Mrs. P. Frank Price Dies at 84 in S. C.

Florence, S. C., May 19 (AP).—Mrs. P. Frank Price, 84, former Presbyterian missionary in China, died here yesterday.

She was the mother of Harry B. Price, ECA staff member in Washington.

In 1910, Mrs. Price organized the first YWCA in China where she served a total of 53 years. She was chosen South Carolina's "Mother of the Year" in 1943. Her husband, who survives, was formerly moderator of the Southern Presbyterian Church.

Other survivors are three sons, Dr. Frank W. Price of Shanghai, a missionary; Dr. Philip B. Price, professor of surgery at the University of Utah, and Dr. Julian P. Price, Florence pediatrician.

Kansas City Planner Dies in D. C. Hospital

John M. Picton, 46, Kansas City, Mo., planning commissioner, died last night at Georgetown Hospital.

He suffered a heart attack Sunday night while in Washington to attend the National Citizens Conference on Planning.

Dr. Aris Carpousis, Picton's physician, said that the Kansas Citian died at 10:20 p. m. Picton had been reported in critical condition earlier in the day.

Mrs. Picton accompanied her husband on the trip from Kansas City.

Navy Captain Unhurt As Car Overturns

A Packard convertible sedan turned over on its side on Rock Creek Parkway last night, but the driver, Capt. Charles H. K. Miller, USN, of 532 20th st. nw., was uninjured, police reported.

Miller told police his steering device became deefctive under the Whitehurst Freeway, his car hitting a curb and rebounding off a guard rail to its left side. He was alone, police said.

Jabez Backus Dies in Mass.; Ex-Rector Here

The Rev. Jabez Backus, 95, former assistant rector of Epiphany Episcopal Church here, died in Amherst, Mass., Thursday night.

Mr. Backus, who before his death was the oldest living member of the Episcopal Diocese of Washington, served at Epiphany Church from 1922-1925, part of the time as an associate of the then rector the Rev. James E. Freeman, later Bishop of Washington.

A native of Connecticut, Mr. Backus attended Yale Divinity School, Class of 1881, and New York University. He had been living in Amherst for the last four years with a sister, Mrs. Mary B. Moses. His wife, Margaret, died in Washington while he was assistant rector.

Besdes Mrs. Moses, Mr. Backus is survived by another sister, Miss Clara E. Backus of Amherst.

Funeral services will be held in Grace Episcopal Church, Amherst, Sunday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery here at a later date.

Lehman Backs Genocide Pact

Human Rights Called Paramount

Senator Herbert Lehman (D., N. Y.) last night said that this Nation must subordinate national rights to human rights. "There are concepts even more basic today than national rights," he said. "Our banner in world affairs must be human rights."

Addressing the Woman's National Democratic Club at a dinner at the clubhouse honoring Senator and Mrs. Lehman, who have both been associated with the organization for many years, the speaker said this country must be willing to surrender some of the extreme aspects of national sovereignty in the interest of peace, and cited the Genocide Pact which is now under consideration by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The pact, an international agreement which requires ratification by the Senate, has been attacked in some legal quarters as a partial surrender of our sovereignty," he pointed out.

Ratification Urged

This great and historic document declares it to be an international crime willfully to destroy groups of individuals because of their race, creed or color, or to inflict conditions leading to the destruction of such groups," Senator Lehman explained, and added, "I hope with all my heart that this pact will be approved. For the United States to refuse to approve it . . . is a sorry reflection not only upon our democracy but upon our sense of justice."

The Senator also spoke against "the inconsistent philosophy" of the neo-isolationists who oppose aid to "the traditionally democratic governments in Europe and would instead commit our resources to the support of an autocratic regime which has a political structure, but no people, the Chinese government of Generalissmo Chiang Kai-shek."

Sees China Hopeless

These isolationists accuse the State Department of Communism because it opposes our involvement "in a hopeless adventure in China" which is something the Communists also oppose. "But it is an equally interesting fact—and yet seldom noted—that in Europe the Communists are against the Marshall Plan, and the Atlantic Pact, and the Arms Aid Program" just as the isolationists are, he pointed out.

Stating that we are now facing the deadly danger "far greater than that which has ever been faced by the peoples of the world . . . perhaps in all time," Senator Lehman said we must seek the help of all men and women of goodwill in every part of the world. Calling for a genuine bipartisan foreign policy, he said, "There are really no party lines, state lines or national lines across which the perils of this day will not cross."

We must make some compromise to get a bipartisan policy, he said,

At the head table with Senator and Mrs. Lehman, and Mrs. Fred W. Morrison, president of the club, were Mrs. Oscar Chapman, wife of the Secretary of Interior, Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Charles Brannan, Senator Clyde Hoey and Mrs. Julien Friant, past president of the club.

Final Rites Set Today for Mrs. Pitts

Funeral services for Mrs. Anna C. Pitts, mother of the Rev. Samuel A. Pitts, Philadelphia priest, will be held at 10:30 a. m. today at the Church of the Nativity here.

The mass will be said by Father Pitts. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Mrs. Pitts, a native of Washington, was 63. She died Wednesday at her home, 1415 Montague st. nw., after a long illness.

She was the widow of Samuel A. Pitts, former Washington contractor.

For many years Mrs. Pitts was a member of the Sodality of Holy Name Church, but at the time of her death she belonged to the Church of the Nativity.

In addition to her son, she is survived by a daughter, Miss Catherine Pitts, with whom she lived.

In Memoriam

HORST, VALENTINE, who died a year ago today.
Strong—but ever tender,
No gentler Father could there be,
Than you, whose well-loved face and voice—
Are but a cherished memory.

Margaret Truman Is Hostess on Cruise

By Elizabeth Maguire

MISS MARGARET TRUMAN acted as hostess for her mother yesterday at a luncheon on board the Presidential yacht "Williamsburg." The honor guest was Mrs. Perle Mesta, United States Minister to Luxembourg. Mrs. Truman was unable to be there, because of a slight cold she caught while on tour with the President. Since her return last Tuesday, the First Lady has been confined to Blair House.

As soon as all the guests were aboard yesterday, the Williamsburg sailed down the Potomac as far at Mount Vernon. In the blue dining salon guests were seated at two oval tables, centered with yellow and blue iris, white snapdragons and Baker fern.

In the gathering were Mrs. Barkley, wife of the Vice President; Mrs. Fred Vinson, wife of the Chief Justice; Mrs. Munthe Morgenstierne, wife of dean of the corps.

Another prominent guest was Mme. Hugues Le Gallais, wife of the Minister of Luxembourg.

And still others included Mrs. Tom Clark, Mrs. Jesse Donaldson, Mrs. John E. Peurifoy, Mrs. Wade Hampton Haislip, Mrs. Joseph E. Davies, Mrs. O. Max Gardner, Mrs. Harry H. Vaughan, Mrs. Leslie Biffle, Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, Mrs. Alexander Surles, Mrs. Herbert T. Edwards, Mrs. James Meredith Helm, Mrs. B. Harrison Lingo, Miss Carolyn Nash, and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney.

Whitneys' Dance Honors Barkleys

IN compliment to the Vice President and Mrs. Barkley, a dinner and dance were given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney at their house in Georgetown. The party also served to say farewell, as the Whitneys are leaving Washington next Saturday to return to their home in Old Westbury, Long Island.

At the dinner, guests were seated at 4 tables for 12. Centerpieces at the tables differed; one in gold daisies, another pink glad and stock, a third red carnations and white gardenias, and another of pink and white flowers in a blue bowl. It was originally planned to have dinner in the patio with incidental music on the balcony, but because of the weather everything was brought indoors.

The dinner guests were the British Ambassador and Lady Franks, the French Ambassador and Mme. Bonnet, the Philippine Ambassador, Joaquin Elizalde; the Danish Ambassador and Mme. de Kauffmann, the Swedish Ambassador and Mme. Boheman, Associate Justice and Mrs. Stanley Forman Reed, the Attorney General and Mrs. James Howard McGrath, Senator and Mrs. Millard E. Tydings, and Senator and Mrs. Brien McMahon.

Also, Under Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Edward H. Foley, jr., Assistant Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Tom Davis, Mrs. Mesta, Mr. and Mrs. George Carey, Maj. Count and Countess Du Monceau de Bergendal, C. Schermerhorn, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Krock, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Carusi, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cafritz, Mr. and Mrs. Tinsley Garnett, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Clifford.

To Honor Debutantes

Miss Susan Bassett, a debutante of the coming season will be given a luncheon by her mother, Mrs. Albert E. Bassett, on Monday, June 19, at her home, honoring sister debutantes.

Powells Party Greets Cuttses

GEN. AND MRS. RICHARD CUTTS, who returned from Europe recently, were given a welcome party yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Royce Powell. Guests who dropped by the party included Mr. and Mrs. John Ward Cutler, Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Condon, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Drum Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Graves, Prince and Princess Pignatelli, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hurja, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Schenck, Mrs. Ives Lowe and many others.

Vernon Junior College, she also attended Visitation Convent, Holton Arms School and she was graduated last June from Stone Ridge, Country Day School of the Sacred Heart

Sharman Denies Report of Troth To Film Actor

New York, May 19 (AP).—Sharman Douglas, 21-year-old daughter of the United States Ambassador to Britain, flew in from London today and again denied reports that she was engaged to film actor Peter Lawford—or anyone else.

Sharman, pretty and blonde, said she'd made the trip to be a bridesmaid at the June 7 wedding of her close friend, Melissa Weston.

Miss Douglas, daughter of Lewis W. Douglas, said she and Lawford were "still good friends." But she added that she didn't expect to see him while here. Lawford is making a picture on the West Coast.

Asked whether the actor ever had proposed to her, Sharman blushed, backed away and replied, "No comment."

Italian Embassy Entertains Barristers

THE hospitable Italian Ambassador and Signora Tarchiani are accustomed to entertaining on a large scale with ease and grace, and yesterday they maintained their standard. More than 600 barristers and their wives, here for the annual meeting of the American Law Institute, were invited to the embassy for cocktails.

Later, the Ambassador and Signora Tarchiani attended the dinner held by the American Law Institute at the Mayflower Hotel.

Farewell Events Arranged for Elaths

THE Ambassador of Israel and Mrs. Elath are leaving Washington soon to start their journey to England, to which Mr. Elath has just been appointed Israel Minister. The Elaths have been residents of Washington for over four years. Ambassador Elath was special representative of the Jewish Agency here before the establishment of the State of Israel.

Several parties are being given in their honor, including an event by representatives of various Jewish organizations at the Jewish Community Center on Tuesday, a cocktail party from 5 to 7 at the Shoreham by the Counselor of the Embassy, Moshe Keren, and Mrs. Keren on Wednesday, and a farewell party by the staff of the embassy the same evening.

Assistant Attorney General David L. Bazelon, and Mrs. Bazelon will also entertain on Tuesday, from 5 to 7 in honor of the retiring Ambassador and his wife, and on Monday Mrs. Elath will be honor guest at a luncheon given by the Pioneer Women at Hotel 2400.

Mrs. Charles Franklin Brannan, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, will give a luncheon today at the Mayflower in honor of Mrs. George Mesta, U. S. Minister to Luxembourg.

Living at party pitch these days are Miss Ann Muse Gillespie and Dr. Jacques M. Kelly, whose wedding bells will ring Tuesday. Yesterday they were entertained at a cocktail party given in their honor by Mr. and Mrs. Edmund E. Pendleton, jr.

A luncheon for Miss Gillespie was given yesterday by Miss Shirley Akers and Miss Phoebe Kirk who entertained in the Palladian Room of the Shoreham Hotel.

Miss Broyhill Is Luncheon Guest

ANOTHER pretty June bride is Miss Nell Roselaine Broyhill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Talmage Broyhill, whose marriage to John William Hardell, jr., will take place on Saturday, June 3, in the garden at Broy Hill, Arlington.

Parties in honor of the bride-elect include a luncheon given Thursday in the Palladian Room of the Shoreham, Mrs. Herbert C. Broyhill and Mrs. Marvin T. Broyhill, jr., were joint hostesses on this occasion, and the guests numbered 20. A shower for Miss Broyhill is to be given this afternoon by Mrs. Jeannine Holland, and later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Joel T. Broyhill will give a cocktail party for Miss Broyhill and her fiance.

With the State Societies

Californians to Mark Centennial

By Nicha Soure

ONE of the gayest State society functions next month will be the Centennial Ball of the California State Society.

Californians in Washington will be celebrating their State's 100 years of statehood in the Presidential Room of the Statler Hotel on June 17.

An abundance of California flowers are being brought in for decorations and colorful replicas of all flags that have flown over the State will brighten the room. Corsages for the ladies will arrive the day of the ball from Manchester Boddy's Camellia Ranch near Los Angeles, and movie and radio talent will participate in the program.

Twelve huge historical oil paintings depicting the early days of California by Harold von Schmidt are being loaned by the State of California to be hung in the ballroom on the night of the ball.

Among the guests who will attend the ball are the Chief Justice and Mrs. Fred Vinson, Justice and Mrs. Stanley Reed, General and Mrs. Hoyt Vandenberg, and Attorney General and Mrs. Howard McGrath.

Members of the California congressional delegation and their wives will be on hand to welcome the guests.

IT WILL be an evening of "Gemutlichkeit" for the members of the Wisconsin State Society on Monday, May 29.

The "Gemutlichkeit," which in the Badger State means a "wonderful time," will be a party from 9 p. m. until midnight in the Burlington Hotel.

The dates coincides with the anniversary of the admission of Wisconsin to the Union and officials of the National Capital Sesquicentennial Commission will honor the State by presenting a scroll to Governor Oscar Rennebohm. Refreshments to be served will include Wisconsin beer, Wisconsin cheese and Wisconsin crackers.

In the absence of LaVerne Dilweg, president of the society, the program of events for the season are in charge of Walter H. Haefs, vice president.

The final dance of the Tar Heels will be held tonight in the large ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel. Dancing will be from 10 o'clock to 1 a. m. to the music of McWilliams' Orchestra.

Another State society function tonight will be the Tennessee State Society get-together in the Burgundy Room of the Wardman Park Hotel.

Officers for the coming year will be elected at 9:30 p. m., to be followed by dancing to the music of Tiny Meeker's Orchestra. Scott Daniel is the retiring president of the Volunteer group.

The Ohio State Society has slated a buffet-dinner and dance at the Washington Hotel Roof at 7:30 p. m., May 24. The informal meeting will include an election of officers. For further information about the society, call Jack Bartlett at Republic 7750.

THE New Hampshire, Maine and Vermont State Societies have put their heads together and scheduled an informal spring dance for June 3. Dancing will be from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. in the National Press Club ballroom.

Originally scheduled for May 27, the societies were forced to change the date as a result of the violent disapproval of their members. Cause of the protest was the Boston Red Sox arrival in Washington for a night game on that date.

The spring picnic of the Maine State Society will be held Sunday from 3 until 9 p. m. at the Palisades Recreation Center. The society will provide baked beans, brown bread, pickles and coffee.

A breakfast meeting of the North Dakota State Society will be held Sunday at 10 a. m. in the private dining room of the Lafayette Hotel. The business meeting will feature an election of officers and discussion of coming events, including North Dakota Day at the Sesquicentennial celebration this summer.

Ill-Starred Babs Cheats 'The Code'

By Richard L. Coe

THE FURIES, working overtime, pursue Barbara Stanwyck with customary zeal in her latest, "No Man of Her Own," at the Warner.

Quite apart from the awesome things Sally Benson and Catherine Turney have cooked up for Barbara in this one, the ending poses a neat moral problem. Barbara thinks she has shot the father of her illegitimate baby, but someone has clearly beaten her to the kill, a dramatic device of sturdy standing.

Now it does require smart steering on the part of scriptwriters to keep you wondering how life will fare for Barbara, since the Code is such that she must Suffer for Her Sins and Pay Her Life for the Life She Has Taken from Another, or else a trick ending must be found.

The ladies, that sentiment-loving segment for whom this charade was presumably constructed, would naturally feel lots better, leaving the theater, if they confidently can know Barbara will spend the rest of her days with her True Love, John Lund.

This means that the trick ending is desirable, but the fine point narrows down to the fact that Barbara, we know, fully intended to kill her tormenting blackmailer. Death was in her heart, and if the Code were carried to its logical conclusion, she should be made to Pay. But since the beast was already snuffed out and a dogged police force was able to prove that Barbara missed him and that her bullet lodged in a mattress (symbolism?), this lets her off and we are able to leave the theater warm in the knowledge that, at least until her next movie, Barbara can Live Happily. It is a good thing, my wife adds, that the bullet hit the mattress, otherwise mightn't they be able to hold her for mutilating a corpse?

Barbara's plight stems from the beast who gave her that illegitimate baby, refused to marry her, slipped her a train ticket which brought her a chance acquaintance whose wedding ring she was trying on when a train wreck killed her companions but not Barbara. She is received into a wealthy home as the widowed daughter-in-law whom they have never seen and she accepts their belief because she wants a good home for her offspring.

The subtleties include love-at-first-sight for the young man who is presumably her brother-in-law, a nice point, for though such love has a long, forbidden history, the situation arises without being the least bit true.

It is with such sufferings that our screen ladies please their less put-upon sisters.

The cast performs with anticipated zeal, and Jane Cowl, as the understanding mother-in-law-elected, gives a performance of such charm and dignity that one is willing to feel for Barbara when her lover dumps the mortal remains of her child's father on a slow-moving freight, headed West.

"NO MAN OF HER OWN," a Paramount release, produced by Richard Maibaum, directed by Mitchell Leisen, screenplay by Sally Benson and Catherine Turnau from a novel by William Irish. At the Warner.

"FIGHTING LADY'S FAMILY" goes on the National bill today, Armed Forces Day, only . . . It's a progress report on the growth of the postwar Navy, narrated by Robert Taylor, onetime Navy officer.

TONIGHT'S the grand finale for the Prince Georges County High School entertainers at S. Lust's Cleverly Theater at 8 o'clock. . . . The contests have been held in the chain's theater during the past four months and 14 youngsters are now eligible for the chance to compete in Gotham. . . . Among them: Bob Downing, Newell Duncan, Marlee Cline, Alice Corcoran, Janice Anzulovic, Ann Walker, Jack Goudie, Lois Vermillion, Jay Maxwell and Hyattsville High's Gymkana Troupe, George Baker, Leroy Thompson, Barbara Taylor, Patty Ireland and Jerry Longanecker.

"MARY POPPINS," wherein the youngsters fly, thanks to equipment parachutical supplied by Bolling Air Base's Civil Air Patrol, will be repeated this afternoon at Roosevelt High auditorium at 2:30.

AUDITIONS this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Catholic University's Theater for the Beatrice Straight scholarship in drama ($500) offered through the Washington chapter of the Society of Arts and Letters.

GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY presents "The Hoya Showboat" again tonight at the Trinity Church Auditorium, 36th and O sts., with Bill Blatty and Jerry McGettigan, end men in "a real minstrel show."

WALLET—Lady's

Rohrbaugh Is New Head Of Bond Club

By S. Oliver Goodman

Austin Rohrbaugh was elected president of the Bond Club of Washington, succeeding William C. Coe of Mackall & Coe. Rohrbaugh was installed at a dinner last night, following an all-day outing of more than 250 members and guests at the Manor Country Club in Norbeck, Md.

Rohrbaugh

Active in the investment business for 32 years, Rohrbaugh heads the firm of Rohrbaugh & Co. He came to Washington from Baltimore in 1930 as manager of the investment department of Washington Loan & Trust Co. In 1934, he became associated with Auchincloss, Parker & Redpath; in 1938 joined the firm of Robinson, Rohrbaugh & Lukens, and formed his own house in 1949.

The other new officers of the Bond Club are: Edgar B. Rouse, Robert C. Jones & Co., vice president, and Millard West, Auchincloss, Parker & Redpath, secretary-treasurer.

Elected to the board of governors were Bernard J. Nees, Johnston, Lemon & Co., and Thomas L. Anglin, of Mackall & Coe. Anglin served as this year's general outing chairman.

Highlights of yesterday's frolic, which marked the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Bond Club, included mock stock exchange trading for prizes, golfing contests and a horseshoe pitching tournament.

RAIL REVENUES: The Association of American Railroads estimated that railroad operating revenues for April were 3.5 percent below the revenues for the same month last year. The estimate was based on advance reports from representative system, which indicated a drop of 2 percent in freight revenue and a decline of 12.6 percent in passenger revenue.

HEADS CHAPTER: Miss Florence B. Minor is the first president of the newly-organized D. C. Chapter, American Society of Women Accountants. A certified public accountant, Miss Minor has been associated with C. B. Stovall & Co. since 1947. Previously she served four years in the Navy Department as financial analyst and supervisor and also with the Office of Price Administration as a cost accountant. She is a native of Tennessee, treasurer-elect of the local Business & Professional Women's Club and a member of Washington Chapter, National Association of Cost Accountants. Other officers of the new women accountants' group include: Delia E. McDermott and Shirley T. Moore, vice presidents; Minna Yavil, secretary, and Irene Osborne, treasurer.

CONTEST: A speech contest will be an added highlight at graduation exercises of Washington Chapter, American Savings and Loan Institute on June 17 in the Shoreham Hotel. Competing will be T. William Blumenauer, Columbia Federal; Vivian D. Loving, First Federal of Arlington, and Cornelius G. Harrell, jr., Columbia Federal. The winner will compete for a silver trophy at the U. S. Savings and Loan League annual convention.

ODD LOTS: Phelps Dodge Corp. raised price of refined copper 1 cent to 20½ cents a pound, following advance made Thursday by Anaconda . . . Autocar Co. has concluded negotiations with RFC for a three-million-dollar long-term loan . . . Mid-Atlantic Appliances, 2046 West Virginia ave. ne., has been appointed a distributor for the Sunbeam line of appliances . . . Safe Deposit Section of D. C. Bankers Association will meet Tuesday night in the Lafayette Hotel. John C. Powell and Thomas F. Burke, attorneys, will be on hand to answer questions . . . Morrison-Knudson Co. of New York announced it has purchased a controlling interest in H. K. Ferguson & Co., engineering and building firm . . . R. T. Etheridge has been appointed assistant vice president of the Seaboard Air Line Railroad.

Arlington 'Y' Gets Tract To Build Camp

The Arlington Y. M. C. A. has been granted the use of 260 acres in Fairfax County for a permanent camp.

The land was turned over by Arlington real estate man Lawrence Michael, of 3147 Key blvd. He is president of the "Y" board of management.

Transfer of the land, which is 6 miles from Herndon, was completed yesterday through the Arlington Kiwanis Club.

Kiwanis will contribute the proceeds of its International Folk Festival, scheduled June 4 at the Watergate, toward the camp building costs.

Todd Goodman, Arlington "Y" executive secretary, said living quarters, a mess hall, chapel, swimming pool and council ring should be completed by the summer of 1951.

Fiesta Scheduled Today At Falls Church School

Students at the Falls Church High School will hold a Spanish fiesta today, starting at 4:30 p. m., with a parade of floats.

Folk dances, Spanish songs, and native Spanish dishes will also be included in the program on the high school grounds on Hillwood ave. The public is invited.

Rehearse Testimonial Ballet

By Jack Lartz—The Washington Post

Webb Hopeful Of Unity From London Talks

Undersecretary of State James Webb yesterday said Defense Secretary Johnson's forthcoming trip to Tokyo will contribute to a better understanding of Japanese peace treaty problems in the Government here.

Webb discussed the peace treaty situation at a news conference. He also touched on several other current international developments, saying:

1. The "increased unity of the North Atlantic community"—which was achieved in the diplomatic conferences just closed at London—"will be steadily reflected action."

2. The French proposal for pooling French and German steel and coal production "is a major contribution" toward resolving "the "pressing political and economic problems of Europe."

3. The projected new American aid program for Southeast Asia will avoid any "packaged-dollar allocation" for each country. Instead it will be a flexible program operated according to the ability of each country to use quickly and effectively the help it gets.

4. Top State Department officials, trying to develop a bipartisan approach to foreign policy in cooperation with Congress, have now held four meetings with Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittees dealing with specific areas of the world.

Spring Fair Today

Pony rides, movies and magic shows will highlight the annual Spring Fair of the Parkside Elementary School, Silver Spring, Md., today from noon to 5 p. m. Lunch and supper also will be served, according to Mrs. Loring Gingell, chairman of the fair.

Union Asks Foreign Aid Restriction

Cleveland, May 19 (AP).—The CIO-Amalgamated Colthing Workers demanded today that foreign aid be granted only to nations recognizing free trade unions.

The clothing workers urged full support of the Marshall Plan, but criticized recent proposals to aid the governments of Spain and Argentina.

Emphasizing that "free trade unions are the first to be destroyed under a totalitarian government," the union asked for a permanent place at the council table when foreign policy is decided.

The union presented its views in a foreign policy resolution at the final session of its seventeenth biennial convention here.

It also nominated for reelection its three top officers: President Jacob S. Potofsky, Secretary-Treasurer Frank Rosenblum and Hyman Blumberg, executive vice president.

The three officers, together with 17 of 18 vice presidents, are likely to be reelected without opposition at a referendum vote later. The eighteenth vice president, Samuel Levine of Chicago, has reached the compulsory retirement age of 65.

Nebraska State Society Holds Annual Cruise

Some 1800 persons last night joined in the Nebraska State Society's annual Potomac River cruise aboard the S.S. Mount Vernon.

Among those present were Senator Kenneth S. Wherry, Senator Hugh Butler, Representatives Carl T. Curtis, Eugene D. O'Sullivan, Karl Stefan and A. L. Miller.

Open for the Season

A Hotel Manager Watches Life Unfold

This is the last chapter of a series on life in the resort hotels of America. It is a condensation from the popular current book, "OPEN FOR THE SEASON."

By Karl P. Abbott

CHAPTER SIX

There is nothing so interesting as human nature! I like to observe it from an inconspicuous corner table in the "Champagne Room," or whatever the name of the hotel's supper room.

A hotel manager can detect a network of crosscurrents—humor, pathos and sophistication—not easily discernible to the causal eye.

The lovely old star of silent pictures, holding her head painfully high so as not to show the wrinkles in her neck. The kid with the little brunette angrily insisting that he is old enough to order liquor.

A matron, her face pinched with anxiety watching her marriageable daughter dancing with a wealthy bachelor.

The beautiful blonde on the far banquette having "fumbling trouble" with a gray-haired playboy.

A married woman who is staring starry-eyed at the bandstand. Why kid herself? The leader is nuts about the pert little cigarette girl with promise in her eyes. But she's crazy about the sax player!

Everyone who is the guest of a hotel, particularly a resort hotel, is "living in a goldfish bowl."

Bits of information constantly cross the manager's desk: The cashier reports that a wife signs all the checks. The night watchman reports a nightly battle in 817. The room waiter overhears scraps of conversation that portend trouble. The chambermaid notices that 706 has costly baggage and very little else.

The telephone operator calls the night manager: "The man in 902 has been talking with Los Angeles for hours. His bill is now one hundred and twenty-three dollars. What shall I do?"

As the report comes back the calls get crossed and they hear him say, "So you're going out with other men! Well, good night and good-by!"

The house physician reports that Mrs. Adams in 1114 has had a stroke and that poor old man Adams is beside himself with bewilderment and grief. People in an emergency are so helpless away from home; there is much you can do for them.

So it goes, twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week.

Occasionallly we have a professional thief who is extremely clever. A famous theatrical star brought a group back from a night club to her suite one night. Among them was a young woman no one seemed to know, who, when leaving, donned her hostess' expensive mink coat and left in its place her own cheap mink-dyed fur.

Sometimes guests stage fake accidents, hoping to sue. Only last year a woman placed a suitcase outside her door and purposely fell over it, claiming internal injuries and shock. She might have made it work but for a keen-eyed chambermaid who had seen the whole thing.

There's the controversial subject of "tipping." There seems to be a fixed idea that tipping is a pernicious practice! It is my opinion that, within limits, it is the most practical and satisfactory system that could be evolved.

It started in England several centuries ago, when there were signs in taverns reading "To Insure Promptness," later condensed to "T. I. P."

The rates of a hotel must be based on the cost of accommodations or of a meal plus a reasonable profit. If the employe is hired with the understanding that tips are available, his wages are lower and therefore the cost of the accommodations, or meal, is lower than it would be if he were hired on a no-tip basis. So, in the end, it adds up to the same for the public.

It is a fact that the majority of people experience a certain amount of pleasure in rewarding an employe for good service and little extra attentions. And the gamble of the tipping practice makes the servants' work fascinating.

As to amounts—15 percent roughly holds good in a restaurant; in a bar or night club, more. A few years ago a man stopped me as I was coming into the dining room and said with all sincerity that he was giving his waitress two dollars and fifty cents per week, but she had conveyed the idea, in a courteous manner, that she did not feel that this was enough.

I asked him, "How many persons are there in your party?" He replied, "Four." I said, "If you have a meal and give the waitress a 15-cent tip, would you think that was excessive?" He replied, "Certainly not!"

I said, "Fifteen cents per person, and four in the party, would make sixty cents per meal, and three meals per day would be one dollar and eighty cents per day; thus one week would equal twelve dollars and sixty cents."

That had not occurred to him.

On opening day of the Montauk Manor, a beautiful car stopped at the entrance and a very dignified looking gentleman and his wife got out and came to the desk. The hotel was crowded and available accommodations very limited.

The man glanced around the lobby, turned to the clerk, and said, "My wife and I would like to have one of your better suites for the weekend."

The clerk said, "I am sorry, but we have no suites available. I can give you a nice double room with bath."

Whereupon the man turned to his wife and said, "Is that all right, dear?" To which she replied, "Yes, sir."

How stupid can a girl be?

My latest years had been the biggest. The hardest job I had ever done was the one just finished. But beyond were all the others, the beautiful hotels over the past 30 years. How much ground they would cover if placed side by side—11,000 acres around the Profile alone.

There had been the wonderful guests, the great and near great, the battalions of personnel.

Beautiful caravansaries! Wonderful people!

I looked back, all the way to Father and Mother and our first little inn clinging to the hillside in Bethlehem.

It was a long look back to those days. They seemed clearer and brighter for some reason.

Special Mass for Poles

Polish Club of Washington will sponsor a special mass Sunday at 11 a. m. at the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception at Catholic University. The Rev. Francis Medinski will deliver a sermon in Polish.

Ground-Breaking Today for Hoyas' New Gymnasium

Ground will be broken today for Georgetown's $860,000 McDonough Memorial Gymnasium.

The Very Rev. Hunter Guthrie, S. J., president, will officiate at ceremonies starting at 11:30 a. m.

A full sports program also is planned, headed by the Maryland-Hoya baseball game. The Terps hold a 3-2 decision over Joe Judge's men.

The game gets underway at 2:30 p. m., same time as the Blue-Gray intrasquad basketball contest, the last scheduled for Ryan Gym. Catholic University's tennis squad will be met.

If Cheese Breaks, Kraft Has a Retort

By John Crosby

GOT A LITTLE ADDENDUM here on the recent column on Kraft Theater. Kraft has always been noted for good commercials. It started years ago on radio Kraft Theater when Bing Crosby and Ken Carpenter used to kid around about cheese. On television, Kraft commercials are informative, tasteful and, just conceivably, helpful to the housewife. They generally feature different cheese dishes—how to prepare them, when to serve them, and one thing and another.

Lately, Kraft has been pushing its ready-sliced cheese and shows a couple of feminine hands pulling the slices apart and laying them on a plate. I've been watching these exhibitions with a sort of grim, sadistic interest, waiting for one of the slices to break. (They DO break once in a while. I've broken a couple myself.)

I got rather cuirous about whether the Kraft people weren't worried about this, too. Well, it turns out they are plenty worried about it. There is not just one girl separating cheese slices; there are three, each with her own camera. If one gets into trouble, the director can always switch to another. (This also permits better camera angles.)

Never Yet

HOWEVER, just in case everything goes wrong and a slice does break on camera, the Kraft people have a retort ready. "In past weeks, by actual count, we have separated 212 slices (or whatever) of cheese and this is the first one that has broken. Pretty good batting average, I'd say."

So far, they haven't had to use it.

Well, just one more addeadum. Two years ago, when the first series on Kraft Theater appeared, there was only one actor who was making a full-time living out of television—unassisted by radio, theater, movies, night clubs or anything else. Today there are countless actors and actresses who are concentrating solely on television. That first TV actor, whose name may go down to posterity, is Vaughn Taylor. While he has lots of competition now, he is way out in front over at Kraft. He has appeared in 25 different roles, which is more than any one other single actor has filled.

AND WHILE we're on the subject of anniversaries, I might as well throw in a word or two about "Queen for a Day." This program, a little horror of an afternoon radio show on Mutual, celebrated its fifth birthday in April. Each day, for five years, a housewife has been selected as "Queen for a Day" and, giggling like a 4-year-old, laden down with loot. As a stunt for the fifth anniversary, the program instituted a search for the first Queen, a Mrs. Evelyn Lane who once lived in Arcadia, Calif.

I'm happy to report they didn't find her. This is the first radio stunt, to my knowledge, which has misfired. I had begun to despair that one would ever misfire. Why, last January Art Linkletter—or one of his henchmen—dropped a plastic ball in the Atlantic Ocean. It contained instructions to get in touch with Linkletter. I rather hoped a whale would swallow it or it would drift into an icepack or something.

But, no. It was picked up by an impoverished Portuguese farmer in the Azores. He was flown to Hollywood and given $2000 in cash and prizes.

No Mrs. Lane

BUT, BY GOSH and by Jupiter, they couldn't find Mrs. Lane. Repeatedly, they broadcast an invitation to Mrs. Lane to come back and be loaded with more loot. "Queen for a Day" even hired the Nick Harris Detective Agency to search for her. Nick Harris couldn't find her either. My theory is that Mrs. Lane sold her radio shortly after appearing on the "Queen for a Day" program and has never listened to a radio since. When friends told her that "Queen for a Day" was looking for her to load her with prizes, she hid under the bed until the thing blew over. You can come out now, Mrs. Lane. They've given up.

Why don't you throw a plastic ball in the Arctic Ocean, Linkletter? If Mrs. Lane picks that one up, I'll give you $2000.

The DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

It's a Tough Life (But He Loves It)

When I think of the sacrifices we reporters are called upon to make for our papers, it frightens me.

Personally, I am about to make sure that 10 pretty girls never speak to me again. I seem to have a flair for this sort of thing.

Here's the story: Capital Airlines' 2000 local employes have a social group known as the Capital Fleet Club.

Tonight at club headquarters, opposite the old Collingwood Mansion on Mount Vernon Memorial hwy., they're holding a dance. And picking a beauty queen.

I've been asked to serve as one of the judges. Whenever possible, such invitations are accepted, because when the judges are introduced, the master of ceremonies says "... of The Washington Post."

This is a sly form of advertising, like Arch McDonald's lighting up a Chesterfield, and it helps to sell papers.

So tonight I'll be out there voting for one of these finalists: Mary Patrowsky and Jerry Yost of 1017 Colonial ave., Rose Lodge and Virginia Sommer of 1206 Mount Vernon blvd., Pat Daley of 1403 Mount Vernon blvd., Pat Sterling of 1016 Wakefield dr. and Rose Poti of 220 N. Washington st., all in Alexandria, Va.; Esther Edwards of 102 N. Thomas st., Arlington, Va., and three District girls, Bobby Greer of 2730 Wisconsin ave. nw., Gloria Prencipe of 5202 New Hampshire ave. nw., and Helen Wayco of 1301 Harvard st. nw.

As you can see, I'll be voting for one—and therefore against the other 10. And I sometimes wonder whether the boss appreciates the spirit of loyalty and sacrifice it takes for a man to consider his paper more important than 10 pretty girls.

Six days a week, to be frank with you, I wonder whether it's worth it. But then there's that comforting reassurance that a fellow gets on payday.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Trained 5-month-old white male puppy." (Adams 6992.)

"Affectionate calico cat, good mouser, and her 2-month-old tiger daughter. Will deliver." (Falls Church 5680.)

"Black, slick-haired male cat, 9 months old." (Temple 5773.)

"Four exceptionally beautiful 5-week-old part-Persian kittens." (Oliver 2238.)

"Housebroken 8-month-old male pup, mostly wire-haired terrier, gentle with children." (Taylor 6965.)

"Two 7-week-old female kittens." (Sligo 7260.)

"Gentle small dog, mostly dachshund; two tan puppies; one yellow-striped kitten." (Glebe 0450.)

PERSONAL NOTES

Nancy J. Bland, 2319 Hartford st. se.: You have a point, but Webster says that "neither" is "sometimes construed as plural."

"Retired Naval Officer": I'm sure we can put those uniforms to good use if you care to list them as Give-Aways.

Norman Mathias, McLean, Va.: If you have any specific instances of streets on which truckers ignore the rush-hour "No Standing" signs, I am sure that the police will crack down without hesitation. A letter to the captain of the precinct invariably gets prompt results.

Helen Park, 6217 Wagner lane: Thanks for those kind words.

SMILE WHEN YOU SAY THAT, SISTER

A girl came knocking at my door,
She was an awful jerk;
According to her Census lore
A housewife doesn't work.
Doris Berger
5437 Linda Lane

ADD DEFINITIONS

Gretchen Hood of 1226 Fairmont st. nw. likes this schoolboy's definition of tact:

"Tact is the thing that, if it's there, nobody notices it, but if it isn't there, everybody notices it."

ADD SIGNS

Mrs. James H. Bready of Baltimore, Md., writes:

"The side of the truck said: 'A. A. Hurwitz, Children's Photographer.' But the legend on the back was:

"'We Shoot Babies.'"

THAT MAGAZINE IS SOLD ALL OVER THE COUNTRY, SERGEANT! IT'LL BE GREAT PUBLICITY!
WHAT DID HE WANT TO KNOW ABOUT YOU, PHIL? WHAT KIND OF QUESTIONS DID HE ASK?
OH, THE USUAL KIND! HE WANTED TO KNOW HOW LONG I'D BEEN A MEMBER OF THE LODGE—HOW LONG I'D KNOWN THE PROFESSOR —AND STUFF LIKE THAT! I GAVE HIM VERY DIPLOMATIC ANSWERS TO EVERYTHING!
I HOPE YOU DID!
DO YOU THINK THERE'S ANYTHING TO WORRY ABOUT, SERGEANT?
MAYBE NOT! THEY'RE PROBABLY JUST GOING TO RUN A SMALL ARTICLE ON HIM—BECAUSE HE WAS MADE NATIONAL COMMANDER AGAIN!
HOW DO YOU LIKE THAT FOR A LEAD?
THE WEEKLY BROMIDE
IT'S GREAT! I THINK I'LL RUN HIS PICTURE ON THE COVER, TOO! WITH A SUBTLE CAPTION, OF COURSE!

Tax Fraud Mystery Recounted

By Drew Pearson

A lot of mystery surrounds the income-tax case of a big Eastern gambler—that of Vaughn Cannon, the slot-machine king of Buncombe County, N. C.

PEARSON

Most people don't realize that North Carolina, despite its record for progressive schools and more churchgoers than most States, also has a thriving gambling racket and has done little to clean it up. Center of the gambling business is Asheville in the western part of the State, and its big-shot boss, Vaughn Cannon, now appears to have high-up friends not only in North Carolina but in Washington.

More than one year ago, United States tax agents slapped a lien of $1,451,000 on Cannon's property in North Carolina and sent a recommendation to Washington that he be prosecuted for tax fraud.

Since then nothing has happened. The case has gathered dust. Why, remains a mystery.

False Rumors

One reason why was reported to be powerful Congressman Bob Doughton of North Carolina. However, this columnist is convinced this report is untrue. Apparently, the rumor got started because Doughton is a director of the Northwestern Bank of North Wilkesboro, N. C., which has loaned the big gambler up to $60,000 for the purchase of "music machines."

Congressman Doughton, when queried, said that he was a director of the Northwestern Bank but that he had not intervened with the Treasury Department to hold up Cannon's income-tax case; in fact, had never heard of the matter.

Lamar Caudle, Assistant Attorney General of the Justice Department's tax division, who comes from western North Carolina, also has been getting blamed for delays in the Cannon tax case. Actually, Caudle has a reputation for letting the chips fall where they may; in addition to which inquiry disclosed that the Justice Department had not received the Cannon case. It is still in the hands of the Treasury—despite the fact that it received the case on March 14, 1949.

Why Probe Gambling?

Meanwhile, Cannon has already received a $5000 fine and two-year suspended sentence from the Superior Court of Asheville for operating gambling joints and being in possession of gambling devices.

Meanwhile, also, Cannon enjoys a neat little scheme whereby he is palsy-walsy with local police authorities. This, incidentally, is one of the big points behind the crime probe of Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. Kefauver, who is not a prudish person, is concerned about the big pay-offs that go to local police and judges for gamblers' protection. When police take money from one group, they will also take it from another, and our whole system of law enforcement is undermined.

In Asheville, a local police judge, Sam Cathey, is also the registered agent for gambler Vaughn Cannon. Cannon's property, valued at up to $200,000 in Buncombe County, is registered "by Sam Cathey, agent," the same police judge who sits on gambling cases in Asheville. In addition, Marshall J. West, the Asheville city jailer and a member of the city police force, has also been on Vaughn Cannon's pay roll. He drew a salary of $150 a month from the big gambler as a building supervisor at the same time he drew a salary from the city as an enforcement officer.

How city officials can serve two masters at the same time, one interested in law enforcement, the other interested in nonlaw enforcement, is difficult to understand. But anyway they seem to get away with it in Asheville, N. C.

Two Bachelor Speakers

Good old GOP Congressman Rich of Pennsylvania was worried the other day, as usual, over Government spending. In one of his regular economy speeches, he told Congress that its members were piling up debts that their children and their children's children would have to pay.

Then turning dramatically to Speaker Sam Rayburn and Joe Martin, the Republican former Speaker, Rich said:

"And that goes for your children and your grandchildren."

There was one important point Congressman Rich overlooked, however. Both Sam Rayburn and Joe Martin are bachelors.

McCarthy Jitters

Senator McCarthy recently received a letter from Nilkanth Chavre of Foster, Ohio, who wrote: "The following will show you what alarming confusion you have created. I was buying some garden tools at Sears, Roebuck and accidentally picked up a hammer and a sickle at the same time. Knowing them to be emblems on a Russian flag, I quickly let them go thinking such an act might be construed as communistic by you."

hats off!

to America's Greatest Team

Today is Armed Forces Day

On this, the first Armed Forces Day, the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps report to you under the unified Department of Defense.

See them parade today along Constitution Avenue, beginning at 10 A. M. Then come to Bolling Field at noon and watch them "parade" in F-84 Thunderjets. And, for the first time, you will see the XB-51, the only three-jet Air Force bomber which flies at speeds comparable to the fastest fighters!

The main objective of your Armed Forces is your security. Today your Armed Forces invites you to see for yourself how well they are maintaining this security. The parade, the air and ground exhibits, the entire report is addressed to you.

TONIGHT AT THE MONUMENT GROUNDS

. . . at 8:15 tonight you will see and hear Robert Young, United Artists Motion Picture star, repeat Washington's "Farewell to the Army"; Anna Maria Alberghetti, 13-year-old singing sensation from Italy; Lucille Manners; John Carter, Metropolitan Opera Tenor; William Warfield, Mary Bothwell; the 200-voice Sesquicentennial Choir; the U. S. Army Band; fireworks display! No admission charge!
